Decks Clear at Paris Leaders Talk Monday

RESPONDING to waves from Paris citizens, North Vietnam delegation leader Xuan Thuy smiles and claps his hands. Serious peace discussions get under way Monday. (AP Wirephoto).

PARIS (CP)—U.S. and North Vietnamese representatives agreed after a technical meeting of about two hours today to start preliminary Vietnam peace talks at 10:30 a.m. Monday following a further meeting Saturday on arrangements.

The starting time was worked out in the session of first contact here today between Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance, deputy of the U.S. delegation, and Col. Ha Van Lau, No. 2 man in the North Vietnamese group.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and the leader of the negotiating team from Hanoi, Xuan Thuy, stayed in the background today because it was agreed in advance through French mediation, that the first session would be concerned only with procedural problems.

A spokesman said the United States accepted this arrangement, which was reported proposed by North Vietnam.

●

U.S. officials expressed disappointment that Harriman and Thuy had not been able to begin substantive discussions immediately.

The meeting was held in the former Hotel Majestic close to the Arc de Triomphe.

At the top of the agenda is the North Vietnamese demand that the United States unconditionally halt its bombing of North Vietnam.

Until this is done, Hanoi has said, the political issues at the heart of the war cannot be discussed.

●

The United States has limited its bombing to the lower sector of North Vietnam, requiring that Hanoi demonstrate reciprocal "restraint" in return for a halt of all U.S. aerial attacks in the North.

If a formula for a bombing halt can be reached, it is expected the negotiators will then take up the sticky political questions. But no one pretends to know how long it will take to get an agreement to limit the war to South Vietnam's boundaries.

Thuy, who knows Harriman from the 1961-62 Geneva conference on Laos, proclaimed a hard line as he arrived Thursday.

He said the origin of the war is "American aggression and North Vietnam's four-point program for peace is reasonable, logical and judicious." The key points are American withdrawal from Vietnam and reunification of North and South Vietnam without foreign interference.

AROUND SAIGON

Waves of Cong Raids Crushed

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. bombers and artillery rained tons of explosives late this afternoon on stubborn Viet Cong holdouts along the southern edge of Saigon, but generally the war slowed down as U.S. and North Vietnamese peace negotiators prepared to meet in Paris.

A battalion commander from the U.S. 95th Infantry Division called air strikes and a rolling artillery barrage down on the last major group of Viet Cong soldiers still pressing the Viet Cong's six-day-old second-wave offensive.

The U.S. bombs and shells devastated a narrow row of homes, shanties and shops stretching half a mile along the southern limits of the capital where U.S. infantrymen clashed repeatedly with bands of snipers and rocket-firing Viet Cong.

Intelligence sources said combined forces troops have virtually crushed, at least for the time being, the waves of Viet Cong attacks that began last Sunday.

CONG INTERCEPTED

They said one reason for the failure so far of the offensive was that U.S. troops sweeping the countryside around Saigon intercepted much of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces before they reached the capital.

Th U.S. Command reported nearly 3,000 Viet Cong killed around the capital since Sunday.

One U.S. source said elements of 19 battalions pressing toward Saigon have been repulsed during the last week with heavy losses.

Viet Cong gunners shelled Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport and the Bien Hoa air base 15 miles to the north before dawn, but U.S. spokesmen said there were no casualties and little damage.

Several rounds of 100-pound rockets slammed into Hue, killing eight civilians. Northwest of Hue, rockets hit Camp Evans, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division, but damage and casualties were reported light.

250 KILLED

The Viet Cong offensive against Saigon produced a rash of battles Thursday in which combined forces troops reported killing more than 250 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

In the air war against North Vietnam, U.S. Navy jets hit the Xom Trung fuel storage area and barracks 16 miles west of Vinh for the second day in succession. Pilots said they set off more than 100 secondary explosions, countless fires and a huge fireball.

The U.S. command confirmed today that North Vietnamese MiG jets are operating south of the 20th parallel for the first time in the Vietnam war, apparently in an attempt to counter the increased U.S. air attacks on the southern panhandle.

A spokesman said a MiG-21 shot down an American F-4 Phantom jet Tuesday just north of Vinh, in the panhandle about 145 miles north of the demilitarized zone.

Grit Backs Laing: Port Up to Ottawa

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grant Deachman, Liberal MP in the last House, said Thursday the British Columbia government will have no control of any kind over a superport to be built at nearby Roberts Bank.

Mr. Deachman, seeking re-election in Vancouver Quadra, said his statement and a recent statement by Northern Affairs Minister Laing constitute federal policy on the port.

"The Roberts Bank superport will be federally owned ... it will be federally built and federally operated.

"The province of British Columbia will have no control over it or its operation whatsoever."

He told his Liberal nomination convention Ottawa plans to call tenders for dredging within two or three weeks.

"The federal government will be most reluctant to resort to expropriation. Ottawa is not slamming the door on Mr. Bennett but it is serving notice that this project cannot be held up."

Ottawa and Victoria have been embroiled in a battle over who will build and operate the port, which must be ready by 1970 to handle a $650 million shipment of coal to Japan. Both governments have announced they will build Roberts Bank.

Mr. Deachman said:

"The premiers of the three Prairie provinces have stated they will not tolerate a gate being put on this national port and facility by the government of B.C."

MacDONALD
... no opposition

MacDonald New Chief For CLC

TORONTO (CP) — Donald MacDonald, 58, today was unanimously elected president of the 1,500,000-member Canadian Labour Congress.

There was no opposition after Mr. MacDonald was nominated at the CLC convention by William Mahoney, national director of the United Steelworkers of America.

Mr. MacDonald takes over from Claude Jodoin, president of the CLC since its inception in 1956. Mr. Jodoin suffered a severe stroke a year ago and Mr. MacDonald was been serving as acting president.

The convention earlier approved a $5,000 annual increase in the salaries of its four full-time officers, bringing Mr. MacDonald to $25,000 a year.

William Dodge, 56, unanimously elected to Mr. MacDonald's old job as secretary-treasurer, will get $22,500 a year.

VANCOUVER ROLE

Mr. MacDonald holds a union membership card in the Vancouver local of the International Woodworkers of America. He was originally a miner in the Maritimes and a member of the United Mine Workers of America, which is not affiliated with the CLC.

Delegates today revolted against the CLC executive to elect Gerard Rancourt as executive vice-president.

Soviet Invasion Doubted

WARSAW (AP) — Western observers today discounted rumors that Soviet troops are about to invade Czechoslovakia or are massing on its border to put pressure on the new liberal regime in Prague.

The rumors stemmed from reported movements of Soviet troops in Poland as close as 18 miles to the frontier with Czechoslovakia shortly after an emergency summit conference in Moscow of hard-line East European Communist leaders. They evidently discussed Czechoslovakia.

Diplomatic sources in Moscow conceded that Soviet-Czechoslovak relations have been shaken by Prague's sweeping liberalization, including its unshackling of the press. But these sources said the Soviets showed no sign of being disturbed enough to stage a rerun of the bloody quashing of the 1956 Hungarian rebellion.

Seasoned observers in Vienna felt likewise and linked the reported troop movements to previously announced plans for manoeuvres of the Warsaw Pact forces that are scheduled to extend into Czechoslovakia.

DISCUSS POSSIBILITY

The possibility of Soviet military intervention was discussed in Prague newspapers earlier this week, but an editorial in a major labor paper said such a Soviet undertaking was "unbelievable."

Western military attaches were prevented from leaving Warsaw to check on the Soviet troop movements, but one witness was reported to have seen Russian troops near the town of Andrychow, 18 miles from the Czech border.

A spokesman for the Polish foreign ministry said the reports of troop movements were "just rumors." He said the "situation on the Polish-Czechoslovak border is quite normal."

Trybuna Ludu, the Polish Communist party newspaper, Thursday called for the "forcible silencing" of the "alien, anti-Socialist trend in the political life" of Czechoslovakia.

Trapped Miners Link Up To Assist Rescue Attempt

Two Join 13 Co-Workers After Long Tunnel Crawl

HOMINY FALLS, W. Va. (UPI)—Two entombed coal miners made a dramatic link-up with 13 other men trapped deep inside a partially flooded mine shaft today to await rescue which officials said was imminent.

Edward Rudd and Frank Davis breakfasted on hot chocolate and doughnuts, received fresh batteries for their miners' lamps, then began crawling nearly a half-mile through 10 inches of water in the 36-inch-high tunnel.

Forty-five minutes later, they embraced their co-workers who were stranded on high ground in an adjacent shaft.

"They had no trouble at all," said C. E. Richardson, president of the mine. "They told us (by mine telephone) that they reached the larger group without difficulty. This is a big morale boost to all the men."

The two men had been separated from the others since noon Monday when a flood of water trapped 25 miners. The remaining 10 miners have not been heard from and hopes were all but gone they would be found alive.

ALL TOGETHER

Richardson said Rudd and Davis, a foreman, were told to join the others "because the larger group is in a bigger area and we would rather have all the men together for the final rescue attempt."

The link-up order was given, he said, after the main body of water in the gently sloping drift mine receded by 30 feet, putting rescuers within 1,100 feet from where the larger group was marooned.

Officials hoped to install by midnight a high-speed pump capable of siphoning off more than 800 gallons of water a minute. At midday, the drilling rig for the pump had gone down within 30 feet of the shaft.

While rescuers pinned their main hopes on the lowering of the water level by pumps, a continuous mining machine was chewing out a horizontal passageway toward the 15 men from an adjacent abandoned mine.

POOR PEOPLE'S MARCH PUTS ARMY ON EDGE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thousands of U.S. Army troops in the Washington area are reported to be going on alert Saturday to be ready for any violence accompanying this weekend's arrival of the vanguard of the Poor People's Campaign.

The U.S. defence department said the army is taking certain "prudent actions" but declined to give details.

Sources said these actions include telling troops at posts and bases near Washington to be set to move, if necessary, in as little as one hour.

TRUDEAU PLAN

Minister Eyed For Maritimes

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said today he hopes to put all Atlantic provinces development programs under a single cabinet minister, partly to promote economic integration of the region.

Just before departing on a western trip, Mr. Trudeau told a news conference he hoped the new arrangement "will be a forerunner to closer economic integration" in the four eastern provinces. (Mr. Trudeau speaks in Vancouver tonight.)

He said this is part of the federal thinking behind the move. He could not speculate on whether it would lead eventually to political union, which some eastern provincial premiers had been talking about.

Mr. Trudeau also indicated the cabinet minister in charge of the co-ordination of Atlantic development programs may head a new department of regional growth. It would oversee special regional programs in other parts of Canada as well.

In cabinet, the minister would be responsible for pleading the case for regional development on the basis that regional disparity is a menace to national unity.

PATIENT DIES IN FRANCE

MONTPELLIER, France (Reuters) — French heart transplant patient, Elie-Joseph Reynes, 65, died here today, 48 hours after receiving the heart of a 35-year-old man fatally injured in an accident.

U.K. Boosts NATO Force

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Britain today announced a 40-per-cent increase in its contribution of land forces to the Western alliance and naval forces to meet the growing Soviet threat in the Mediterranean.

Defence Secretary Denis Healey of Britain made the offer at a meeting of ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He told reporters later the pledge was "warmly welcomed."

Medicare Still Mystery

By JOHN MIKA

Only a handful of British Columbians know what's in store for all citizens July 1 under an agreement on medicare signed by the province Thursday.

But none of them are talking today.

Premier Bennett turned down a request for an interview to explain the impact the agreement will have for B.C. citizens. And Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, who signed the document in Ottawa, was still out of town with his delegation.

Federal Health Minister Allan MacEachen, in Port Hawkesbury, N.S., also refused comment on the agreement which he signed on behalf of Ottawa.

Administrators of the nine non-profit pre-paid medical plans that will be directly affected have not been informed of their fate by the provincial government yet. Nor have the several private insurance companies which also write health policies for a significant percentage of the population.

Even Health Minister Ralph Loffmark appears to have been kept in the dark about the event he announced Thursday afternoon.

BRIEF NOTICE

The premier's office informed the press gallery Mr. Loffmark would make an important statement and he phoned from

NEW TONE IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Democracy Alive and Kicking

By PETER REHAK

PRAGUE (AP) — "Novotny is an idiot. If he was here, I would like to kick him," a man in dark glasses shouts into a microphone. He is a former Czechoslovak political prisoner.

A young student reads a 1924 essay by Czech writer Karel Capek, entitled Why I Am Not a Communist. It condemns communism as a power-hungry movement for the benefit of a few.

The scene is Prague's Old Town Square, where a crowd of 5,000 has assembled to air their beefs over a public address system lent by the city.

Not a policeman is in sight.

"Three months ago, the police would have charged in here and thrown all of us in the clink" says a young man.

This is Prague, the capital of Czechoslovakia, three months after the ouster of Antonin Novotny as the country's president and Communist party chief.

Novotny's successors, Party Chief Alexander Dubcek, Premier Oldrich Cernik and President Ludvik Svoboda, have launched the country on a liberal course unmatched in any other Communist country.

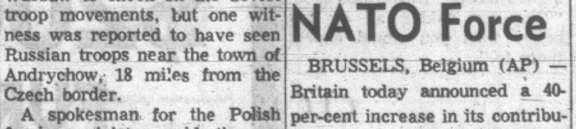
"They have gone further here in the past three months than in Yugoslavia in the past 20 years," said a Westerner who has lived in Belgrade.

The new course is in evidence everywhere.

Press censorship has been lifted. Every day the newspapers are filled with stories of mental and physical tortures in Stalinist jails.

People in the streets, in cafes and in the aging streetcars discuss and criticize everything and anything.

"Democracy and liberalization," is the motto of the day.



Sounds like a Russian Czechmate maybe.

The AG says the government may review its liquor regulations ... I'll drink to that.

General Liquor Review Due Says A-G of Sunday Call

Archbishop Sexton's surprise call for Sunday drinking in bars and parlors has been heard by the provincial government, Attorney-General Robert Bonner made clear today.

Although he would not say the cabinet would do anything about it now, he said the time is coming when a general review of the liquor laws and rules for licensed premises will be made.

He was commenting on the archbishop's statement that citizens should be able to buy a drink on Sunday afternoons.

"His grace's point of view is sympathetically viewed by a large number of people in the province," said Mr. Bonner.

"I am aware too, however, there also is violent opposition to it.

"I think we may be approaching the time when a general review of licensing might be desirable so that the opposed viewpoints of which I am aware might be properly aired."

Mr. Bonner said the liquor laws had been liberalized considerably during his 16 years in office but more amendments may be needed soon.

THREE BODIES FOUND

Hopes Fading For Jumpers

By JOHN McLEAN

PETAWAWA, Ont. (CP) — Dragging continued today for four paratroopers presumed drowned in the Ottawa River but land and air searches for survivors were called off a few hours after operations resumed.

Three bodies have already been recovered from the water by search crews which began their grim patrol immediately after seven men were discovered to be missing following a Wednesday night air drop.

Today, two tugs joined 14 engineering and assault boats manned by more than 100 troops in dragging the river bottom with grappling hooks.

More than 100 more men were called off a land search of the shoreline and the air search was suspended before 8:30 a.m. when crews found they could not see beneath the surface of the water whipped up by brisk wind.

The statistics were clear cut.

Twenty-six soldiers who wanted to be paratroopers jumped from a flight of three aircraft over a target area just northwest of headquarters at this armed forces base 100 miles northwest of Ottawa.

That was Wednesday night, shortly after 8 o'clock.

Of the 26, four came down on a sandy spit jutting into the Ottawa River almost a mile from the drop zone target.

Twenty-two of the jumpers spilled into the river. Temperature of the water was 42 degrees.

Of the 22, only 15 made it safely to shore, either under their own power or with the help of a patrol boat which had been stationed on the beach just in case a parachutist hit the water.

Seven didn't make it. And from here on, the statistics are not clear.

The seven went down because they could not swim to shore or because their heavy equipment dragged them under. Each man, when he took the exercise leap from 1,200 feet, was loaded down with 75 pounds of equipment, including two parachutes.

Each was supposed to land on solid ground.

When the search team of 300 quit dragging the river for bodies Thursday night, all but four had been found.

The body of WO M. P. McDonnel, 41, of Rathburn, Ont., had been pulled from the river before operations were suspended Wednesday night.

On Thursday, teams of skindivers and soldiers recovered the bodies of Cpl. D. W. Clements, 27 of Saint John, N.B. and WO R. G. Riddell, 36, of Toronto.

Still missing were the bodies of Cpl. D. H. Fields, 35, of Windsor, N.S.; Cpl. R. J. G. Knight, 27, of Kingston; Cpl. P. J Misener, 24, of Brantford and Cpl B. N. Chiswell 30 of Hamilton.

'LIKE BURNING HAY'

Marijuana Smoke Planned in Court

VANCOUVER (CP)—Magistrate Gordon Johnson agreed Thursday to allow a marijuana cigarette to be smoked in his court.

It will be smoked May 16, probably by a city analyst, to allow the magistrate to compare the smell of burning marijuana with the odor of burning alfalfa.

He gave permission after Peter Hlookoff, 25, charged with possession of marijuana, lit an alfalfa cigarette in court in a bid to show the substances smell similar when burning.

Police testified there was a "burning hay smell" when Hlookoff butted a cigarette as police entered an apartment last Dec. 10.

Hlookoff lit an alfalfa cigarette, then passed it to Magistrate Johnson and prosecutor Digby Keir.

"It smells like burning hay, all right," said Mr. Keir.

Hlookoff testified earlier he smoked "two or three alfalfa cigarettes a week" to help him give up tobacco, as a substitute for alcohol and to ease a lung complaint.

He added: "Alfalfa produces a slight euphoria but has nowhere near as strong an effect as marijuana."

A small amount of a substance seized in the raid was described in an analyst's report as marijuana.

However, the analyst was out of the country and could not testify. A second analyst called in later said the amount of substance was too small to analyze.

Hlookoff said he had twice been picked up by police and released when it was discovered a plant-like substance in his possession was alfalfa.

. . . MEDICARE

Vancouver a few minutes later to read out this announcement:

"The B.C. government and the Canadian government have reached agreement that the principles of the Canadian medical plan will be implemented in B.C. with the cooperation of the B.C. medical plans commencing July 1, 1968, with the financial participation of both the Canadian government and the B.C. government."

Mr. Loffmark refused to answer any questions about his statement and after he had rung off, the premier's office contacted the press gallery to make sure he had made an announcement.

Although he is health minister, Mr. Loffmark is not in charge of the government-operated B.C. medical plan or involved in any federal medicare negotiations.

This is the responsibility of Mr. Black as provincial secretary although Premier Bennett has usually acted as spokesman to the press.

Left completely dangling are such questions as:

What happens to the 1,086,137 British Columbians covered by the non-profit medical plans such as MSA, CU and C, and six others?

What happens to 244,000 persons who are covered by private insurance company policies?

PREMIUMS?

Will premiums for the subsidized B.C. medical plan—covering 472,649 persons—go up, down or be eliminated entirely?

With the effective date only six weeks away, the provincial government has not yet given any solid information, or even an indication of when it will, to the two largest medical insurance associations which will be affected.

Mr. Loffmark's statement, referring to medical plans in the plural, suggests that MSA and CU and C will continue to exist as agencies of the government in nominal form at least but he refused to confirm this speculation.

The federal government's conditions for paying half of any province's medicare bill included the stipulation that it be universal and under government control.

In telephon interviews this morning, MSA manager H. W. Jones and CU and C manager Joseph Corsbie told the Times they still have not been contacted by the province.

Asked if he knew what impact the document signing would have on the CU and C's 172,198 covered persons, Mr. Corsbie said:

"No, we have no idea.

NO ANSWERS

"We've been keeping in touch with the province regularly but they haven't given us much information.

"We've always been assured that as soon as they know something they will tell us but so far that hasn't been much."

ELECTION ROUNDUP

Turner Sees Peril In East-West Void

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The void between Eastern and Western Canada is as potentially dangerous as the void between Quebec and the rest of Canada, Solicitor General John Turner said Thursday.

Speaking at a nomination meeting to choose a Liberal candidate for the riding of Windsor West for the June 25 federal election, Mr. Turner criticized both Progressive Conservative and New Democratic Party approaches.

Speaking of the NDP policy toward Quebec, Mr. Turner said the NDP spoke with "forked tongues" when they advocated one policy for Quebec and one for the rest of Canada.

Mr. Turner said he foresaw no future for splinter parties such as the NDP, who would be "skated to the boards."

The aim of the Liberal party was unity of the French and English-speaking populations, he said.

Herb Gray, 36, a lawyer who is the incumbent member for Essex East, the area now renamed Windsor West after redistribution, was elected Liberal party candidate for the seat.

★ ★ ★

TORONTO (CP)—Ralph Cowan, Liberal member of the last Parliament who was expelled from the party caucus this year, said Thursday he will seek re-election in the June 25 federal election.

Mr. Cowan said if the Toronto High Park Liberal Association does not endorse his candidacy he will run "on the performance of the Liberal party, with which I had a prominent part." Mr. Cowan will be opposed for the nomination by Walter Deakon, president of the riding association.

★ ★ ★

COQUITLAM (CP) — Clyve Lytle, New Democratic Party candidate in the New Westminster riding, says price-fixing penalties for monopolistic companies are "simply licence fees to engage in illegal practices."

Mr. Lytle told a meeting of New Democrat supporters Thursday that the man to blame, at least in part, for inadequate anti-trust legislation is Pierre Elliott Trudeau, who held the justice portfolio before he became prime minister.

"Multi-million dollar price-fixing operations have resulted in fines of $10,000 or $15,000 in Canada," said Mr. Lytle. "By comparison, American anti-combines laws carry much heavier penalties and are more rigorously enforced."

★ ★ ★

KAMLOOPS (CP) — The president of the British Columbia Progressive Conservative party says people who yawned at the mention of pollution problems a few years ago are now "shouting for action."

John Fraser, a 37-year-old Vancouver lawyer, and Tory candidate in Vancouver South in the June 25 federal election, was speaking Thursday night at the annual meeting of the B.C. Wildlife Federation here.

Mr. Fraser was head of a B.C. Tory committee that hammered out a basic policy last summer for controlling air, water and soil pollution. He said the program the committee produced was sent to Ottawa and now forms the basis for the federal party's pollution policies, announced Wednesday by Opposition Leader Stanfield.

The policy urges development of a national abatement code in co-operation with the provinces, co-ordination of pollution control in international and inter-provincial waters and financial assistance to public bodies at all governmental levels involved in anti-pollution work.

★ ★ ★

KAMLOOPS (CP)—E. Davie Fulton Thursday was nominated Conservative candidate for the Kamloops-Cariboo constituency in the June 25 election.

The former justice minister in the John Diefenbaker administration was unopposed for the nomination, attended by about 70 persons.

Name of the riding has been changed since the last election when it was known as Kamloops. Mr. Fulton, 52, a Rhodes scholar, has represented the district in Parliament for the last 22 years, except for a two-year period when he led the B.C. Conservative party. He practices law in Kamloops.

"The most important issue in the campaign is the restoration of economic stability," said Mr. Fulton.

He said he doesn't see how this can be achieved by a Liberal administration that has "staggered from crisis to crisis" during the last three years.

. . . MINERS

Although the machine can cut through 100 feet of earth in eight hours, it advanced only 10 feet Thursday night because of breakdowns. It also hit rock and shale.

"These conditions are now correcting and we expect to improve the rate of advance," Richardson said at midday. At that time, there was more than 330 feet of earth still to be bored.

TRAPPED MEN

Robert Myers, head of the state department of mines safety division, said it would take quite a while for the trapped men to hear sounds of the drilling.

"They'll be excited when they do, but right now it's impossible for them to hear it," he said.

The trapped men had their most restful night Thursday since their entombment. Air mattresses and pumps to inflate them were sent in through four-inch air holes dug earlier.

"All the men say they are in good condition and had a good night's sleep," Richardson said. "They are taking all of this better than you would expect them to."

Mr. Rancourt, secretary of the Quebec Federation of Labour, won 884 to 524 over Romeo Mathieu, who had been nominated for the $21,000-a-year job with the formal approval of the executive council.

Also elected an executive vice-president was Joe Morris, a former resident of Duncan and Ladysmith.

Mr. Morris was B.C. president of the International Woodworkers of America from 1953 to 1962 when he was elected a CLC vice-president.

STUDENTS JOIN STRIKE

VANCOUVER (CP) — About 100 high school students today refused to cross a picket line at their school set up by janitors and engineers.

Another 200 students went in for roll call, then came out and joined the others.

The students lolled on the grass outside Kitsilano Secondary School, where George Vandenakker, 59, assistant engineer at another school, started picketing when janitors went on strike at 7 a.m.

Suspect Recharged

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 26-year-old waiter, freed Wednesday after a preliminary hearing into a murder charge, was arrested Thursday night and again charged with murder in the same death.

Herbert Michael Briercliffe, no fixed address, was freed Wednesday by Magistrate Gordon Johnson, who held there was no evidence linking him to a fight which ended in the death of Real Deslodges, 35.

Deslodges was stabbed at a drinking party. Gratien Kazersky, 40, of Montreal, already has been committed for British Columbia Supreme Court trial on a murder charge.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Saigon Passes Bill on Draft

SAIGON (Reuters) — The South Vietnamese House of Representatives approved today a bill providing for general mobilization of men and resources.

President Nguyen Van Thieu early last month requested emergency approval of general mobilization to put his country on a full war footing.

But the bill was extensively amended during committee and parliamentary discussion. Legislators especially objected to a presidential request for power to rule by decree and this was later withdrawn.

All 92 members present at the session today voted in favor of the bill. Three others presiding over the session do not vote. Full House membership is 135.

The bill now needs Senate approval and Thieu's signature before becoming law.

Final approval of the bill means that men aged 18 to 38 will be liable for the draft and between 39 and 50 for civil defence. Teen-agers also will be required for home guard training.

Top North Viet Negotiator Ho Associate for 40 Years

TOKYO (AP) — Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's representative at preliminary peace talks with the United States, is a career Communist, veteran diplomat and an associate of President Ho Chi Minh for more than 40 years.

Thuy was only 14 when he joined Ho's independence movement launched in 1926 and he rose to become North Vietnamese foreign minister in 1963. Thuy resigned the post two years later amid reports he was in ill health, but he remained an influential voice in North Vietnam's foreign affairs.

He has wide diplomatic experience that includes many trips abroad.

Thuy, also known as Nguyen Xuan Thuy, was born in Ha Dong west of Hanoi in 1912. After service with Ho's independence movement, he became a member of Vietnam's Communist party in 1938—eight years after it was established by Ho.

Thuy fought as a guerrilla against French forces in the Indochina war. He was elected a member of the National Assembly of the Democratic Republic of North Vietnam in 1946 and became one of its standing committee members.

In 1960, he was named a member of the central committee of the Vietnam Communist party and later became head of the committee's foreign relations department.

He was deputy chairman of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Geneva conference on Laos in 1961, and attended the 22nd congress of the Communist party in the Soviet Union in October, 1961 along with President Ho and Lo Duan, first secretary of the party.

Since 1956, Thuy has been secretary-general of North Vietnam's Fatherland Front, whose main activity is issuing propaganda calling for reunification of North and South Vietnam.

Hanoi announced April 16 that Thuy was being moved from this post to become a government minister without portfolio. The action led to speculation that he had been tapped to be North Vietnam's chief representative at any peace talks.

Egypt's Nasser Sidles Up to Trudeau

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Has President Nasser of Egypt gone soft on Canada?

Less than a year ago he berated then Prime Minister Pearson as an aggressor against the Arab states and ordered the Canadian contingent in the United Nations Emergency Force out of Egypt in 48 hours.

Last week, informants say, he wrote a personal letter to Prime Minister Trudeau to thank Canada—with "deep appreciation"—for its April 27 vote in the UN Security Council in favor of a resolution calling on Israel not to hold its Independence Day military parade in Jerusalem. The council vote was unanimous but Israel held the parade anyway May 2.

Nasser said in his May 1 letter to Mr. Trudeau that the parade, which went through the Israeli-annexed part of Arab Jerusalem, would have an adverse effect on the efforts of Gunnar Jarring, UN Middle East conciliator.

Mr. Trudeau replied May 3, restating the policy that Canada continues its endeavors to assist the UN in its efforts to reach a just, equitable and lasting settlement in the Middle East.

It could not be determined whether Nasser had ever written a personal message before to a Canadian prime minister. Officials said they knew of none.

When the Middle East crisis erupted last year, Canada objected publicly to UN Secretary-General U Thant giving in immediately to Nasser's demand for withdrawal of the UN force from Egypt. Mr. Pearson won the Nobel Peace Prize for his part in creation of the force in 1956 following the Suez war.

Canadian officials knew there was a secret agreement between Nasser and the late Dag Hammarskjold, UN secretary-general in 1956, that the UN force would not be withdrawn without the matter being referred to the UN.

Canadian objections to Thant's acquiescence to Nasser's demand led last May 27 to Egypt ordering evacuation—deportation, Nasser called it—of the Canadian contingent in the UN force.

The next day at a press conference Nasser said:

"We were very attached to Canada. We were greatly affected when Pearson took the Nobel Peace Prize but his acts now are totally in contradiction with any peace effort. . . .

"We really condemn the attitude of Canada as an act of total hostility. Canada's attitude is totally biased in favor of Israel."

Into Uncharted Ways

ALTHOUGH PRIME MINISTER Trudeau has said that the country's administrative business will keep him from extensive campaigning until later in the election race, the news continues to impart a flavor of the man—and it is a good deal unlike anything we have had in the past. The Times' political columnists have commented on the novelty of a prime minister who may quote Lenin or Mao Tse-tung to make a point. At the other extreme he quotes Marshall McLuhan, as he did earlier this week in an address to the Canadian Association of Broadcasters in Montreal.

Mr. Trudeau was considering the situation of democracy now and in the future, and he gave approval to some words of Professor McLuhan which he had received in a letter: ". . . fixed positions and attitudes are, of course, irrelevant to the electronic age. Our world substitutes mosaics for points of view . . ."

Few if any political leaders in our history have suggested that fixed positions and attitudes are irrelevant, but we are in an era when much of what we see in economics, sociology, medicine, social customs, science — even morals — is undergoing drastic and rapid change. It is not an era in which fixed ideas can be carried without constant evaluation and probably alteration. While that does not mean that we must abandon all the foundations that we have known, it does indicate that new and unprecedented structures must be built, at least for the time being, on many of those foundations.

In such a national environment, in such a world environment, there must be communal danger in a prolonged refusal to adjust to new conditions. The pace of change today is such that the leisurely review of conditions and the delayed adaptation to meet them can no longer safely be possible. Economic forces alter so quickly that computer-speed reactions must be employed to cope with new situations. The accepted concepts of a people can change so quickly—as for instance the traditional American attitude towards war or race—that political leaders must be alert to respond to new trends if they are not to be left in the past.

Mr. Trudeau, of all the Canadian leaders, appears to understand this most clearly. His career of study has made him philosophically attuned to the new forces, to the revolution in almost every phase of our lives that is going on around us in this last third of the twentieth century. It can be dangerous to be in the van, and Canadians are not historically inclined to rush into new eras. But regardless of Mr. Stanfield's assertions that he is on a par with Mr. Trudeau's social and political advancement—and do birthdays really count in this regard?—it is clear that the Liberal leader is by nature and temperament a man of this new Canadian and world era. More than most of us, and certainly more than his political opponents, he has pushed his thinking beyond the "fixed positions and attitudes" that are "irrelevant to the electronic age." What better qualification for leadership in that age?

The Ferment

IN THE COMMUNIST VOCABULARY there is no more insulting word than "revisionist." The admission by the Czechoslovakian party's first secretary, Mr. Alexander Dubcek, that the Soviet party's central committee has decided that his new democratization program is revisionist means that the two countries face a serious confrontation. Rumors of secret troop movements within the Warsaw Pact countries—a potential threat to remove the Dubcek regime by force—contribute to the uneasiness of the situation.

Mr. Dubcek and other top Czech officials who met with Soviet leaders in Moscow last weekend are reported to have given assurances that close ties with the Soviet Union and other Communist countries remain a basic policy of Czechoslovakia despite the new freedoms which have been proclaimed. But the obvious antagonism toward the Czech reforms—as toward the liberalization earlier in Romania—expressed by Poland and East Germany undoubtedly threatens a split in the East European Communist bloc which Moscow cannot treat lightly. This may have prompted the remark recently by General Alexei Yepischev, one of the top political commissars of the Soviet Army, that it was possibly "true" Czech Communists might call on the Soviets and other bloc countries for help. "In this case," he was quoted as saying, "the Soviet Army is ready to do its duty."

That some of the "true" Communists are already at work was indicated this week when anonymous leaflets were spread around Prague warning that the "enemy is trying to divert us from the way to socialism" and referring to the "worsening economic crisis" and, ominously, to the "Jewish reformers" who are trying to "deceive us under the slogan of liberalization."

It hardly seems possible that the Soviet Union could intervene in Czechoslovakia in the same brutal way in which the Hungarian uprising was put down, since this would undoubtedly widen the disagreements between the Eastern European states. But can the Soviet Union allow the liberalization program to go forward, to the point where genuinely non-Communist parties are allowed to contest Czech elections, as the government has promised? The effect on other Soviet bloc states, including Russia itself, might be disastrous from the Communist point of view.

Speed and Direction

THE RAPID DEVELOPMENT of heart transplant surgery is typical of the speed with which science advances in our era. Events which one might expect to be the wonder of a decade follow so quickly on one another that it is difficult to keep progress in perspective.

We had hardly become used to rocket vehicles in space before we were becoming used to men in space. Now a space-vehicle launching rates little more than a passing mention. The first heart transplant was a world-wide wonder. That was only a few months ago. Now such operations are being done in quick order, with three in Houston taking place within a matter of hours. These achievements, too, will no doubt become routine within a short time, and our credibility will be taxed with still another scientific marvel.

The pace of advancement is accelerating at an unprecedented rate, dulling our capacity to be awed. The wonder is that in such an environment we are so slow to change some of our other human institutions and practices. The disparity between what we can do and what we should do, between what we are and what we should be, shows equally frightening growth. In many fields we have a lot of catching up to do.

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

The Speakership and Red-Faced NDP

THE NDP, as the avant-garde reform party, is pink with embarrassment over the move to draft Mr. Lucien Lamoureux as the first "permanent" speaker of the House of Commons. Neither explanations nor excuses can disguise the fact that, in this important matter, Mr. Douglas and his colleagues are conspicuous footdraggers. As competent New Democratic critics have pointed out, the sudden dissolution had at least one sequence. Not only did Parliament lose its opportunity to act on the important reform proposals of its procedural committee; it also failed to give permanence to the orders accepted by the parties on an experimental basis. Thus the clock was set back and it will be necessary, once the election is over, to restore the old—and still very unsatisfactory—position by all-party agreement.

Western

Against this background, the developments of the past fortnight are most reassuring. The actions of Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Stanfield constitute a frank recognition that the key to the whole problem of procedural reform is the position of Mr. Speaker. Since he is the custodian of the rules, meaningful changes will be more readily conceded by jealous political parties if they have the assurance that he enjoys the position of secure independence long since guaranteed to the speaker of the British House of Commons.

Westminster Model

This accords entirely with the report of the special committee which journeyed to Westminster earlier this year to sudy the British practice. The committee had this to say in its fourth report:

"Again and again during the days we were at Westminster, we were impressed by the key role as the impartial conductor of the work of Parliament, conferred on the speaker. That house is ruled by standing orders, by convention, and by Mr. Speaker. When neither rules nor understandings can be devised to guide, the wisdom and diligence of Mr. Speaker prevails. Experience has shown that an office of his high standing is needed. At Westminster he has been given both heavy duties and countervailing independence and honor. Undoubtedly, the independence of the speaker and the power vested in him constitute a condition precedent to the effectiveness of parliamentary procedure in the United Kingdom."

It is to be emphasized that this is the shared view of a committee including such first class parliamentarians as Mr. MacEachen of the Liberals, Mr. Baldwin of the Conservatives and Mr. Stanley Knowles of the NDP. They were as one in recognizing the "condition precedent" to the effectiveness of British parliamentary procedure.

But what is the situation in Canada? We have had a succession of good speakers, not because of our system, but in spite of it. The speaker must be impartial — but how can he look impartial when members well know that at election time, he must depend on one political party to secure re-election?

Now, at long last, there is the promise of a change. Mr. Lucien Lamoureux will stand, not as a Liberal but as an independent. If elected, he will be nominated as speaker and will be supported by all parties. But the agreement among the parties is not complete.

Liberal-Tory Accord

The Conservatives have made no reservations. They will not support a candidate against Mr. Lamoureux in Stormont-Dundas. Neither will the Liberals put up a party candidate.

But Mr. Douglas has discovered a difficulty. The NDP has a candidate, Mr. Timothy Wees, in the constituency and does not propose to withdraw him. The argument is that Parliament should provide a special voter-less seat for the permanent speaker. Otherwise there will be one constituency which, in effect, will have no party representative. As Parliament has not acted, it is politics as usual for the NDP, except that Mr. Douglas will support Mr. Lamoureux's nomination as speaker, if and when he is elected in Stormont.

This concession is nothing but window-dressing. Mr. Douglas has sacrificed nothing because it has not been the custom to oppose nominations. In fact, Mr. James Aitchison, in a careful study of the speakership some years ago, could find only two cases of contested election. (In one case, there was a protest vote because the nominee had discharged House of Commons employees before being elected to the speaker's office.)

Thus the New Democrats are in precisely the position of Toronto Liberals when there was a move to make Mr. Michener's position permanent. The Liberals then complained that it was unfair to penalize a candidate who had been long in the field and had a good chance of election. They were being asked to give up a constituency which they expected to win and did win. If there is a difference, it is that the NDP have never been close in Stormont; indeed, their candidates have regularly contributed their deposits to the federal treasury.

Mr. Douglas can make out a case for a special speaker's seat of Parliament Hill. This was in fact a favorite project of Frank McGee, formerly member for York-Scarborough and briefly a Conservative minister. The general argument is that, with the present system, a speaker's constituents are inadequately represented since he can neither speak nor vote — and, as an independent, would have no particular influence with the government of the day.

A solution may, in the end, be worked out along these lines. But there is no assurance of this yet and in the past there has been objection to the Parliament Hill scheme. In Britain, where the permanent speakership was developed, it has not been necessary to create an artificial constituency and it is apparently not thought over there that Mr. Speaker's constituents are effectively disfranchised.

In any event, the NDP objection sounds remarkably like an argument of convenience. Mr. Douglas certainly did not make it one of his priority concerns in the last Parliament, although he did comment frequently on the need for procedural reforms. If it justifies the NDP in support of their local candidates, then it would equally justify Mr. Stanfield in backing a Conservative candidate. This unquestionably would end the possibility of reform at this time.

Mr. Douglas cannot, of course, command Mr. Wees to abandon the field. This is not required of him; nor is it required of party leaders in Britain. What he can do is to declare publicly that Mr. Wees will not run with the support of the New Democratic Party. This would clear the NDP of the charge of foot-dragging and entitle it to share credit with the other parties for instituting a desirable and long overdue reform.

Letters to the Editor

Far Ahead

Having, unfortunately, been a patient in numerous hospitals both here and in Vancouver, including the Royal Jubilee, I strongly disagree with the letter written by M. Pugh, RN.

Of all the hospitals which have tended to my ills the Veterans Hospital of Victoria ranks far ahead in the care and wellbeing of its patients, no matter their age and condition in life.

It will be a sad day for the veterans and those others who, not being war veterans, are also treated there, should the high standard of service at the veterans be lowered to those of the "public" hospitals both here and in Vancouver.—B. T. Dane, 920 Shirley Rd.

This Way Out

I was most interested in your publication of the article entitled "The Only Way Out" on your church page of last weekend's Times. I could not resist passing on a companion thought to the one expressed by the writer in his line: 'We need a supernatural demonstration of God's power . . .'. In this very materialistic world, anything which smacks of the supernatural is at once suspect as being involved with fortune-tellers and the like. Yet something as mundane — and as carefully programmed — as a computer has given us the following facts: From Christ to 1750 A.D. man's general knowledge doubled. From 1750 to 1900 A.D. man's general knowledge doubled a second time. It doubled a third time to 1950 and a fourth time to 1960. From 1960 to 1965 it doubled a fifth time! And it is computed that our knowledge will double about every six months for the next ten years. My analogy, then, is that the mind of man with all its untapped areas of sensory perception may well be that last frontier across whose borders we may find power of the 'supernatural' — and the final answer to those hopeful chaps who trust that God is dead in order that they may be free to do as they wish.—S. M. Conway, 928 Island.

Money to Loan, But

I have a copy of "Hansard" from the House of Commons dated Feb. 23, 1968, stating the names of different countries and the amounts of money loaned to each one at a cheap interest rate and the length of time for which it is loaned. Is it any wonder that Canada has not any money for her own people who need hospitals, schools, etc.

I know of a patient who has been waiting over five months to get into a hospital for an operation for the simple reason no room is available. If Canada had used all of the billions to help her own country there would be more peace and happiness with the governments. — George L. Buchan.

Looking Back

From the Times, May 10, 1908.

An innovation which, it is confidently expected by CPR officials, will prove an overwhelming success, was introduced on the crack passenger steamship Princess Victoria today when the stewards who have attended to passengers' rooms, will be replaced by six dainty young ladies.

Heretofore the work of making up rooms aboard the Princess of Victoria, as on other steamships, was done by men stewards.

Price-Income Effort Gains

By ALAN HARVEY from London

SOME dismiss it as an exercise in mass Kidology. Others call it a catalyst for change. It is ridiculed as toothless and criticized for doing too much. It is said to be trying pathetically to roll a stone uphill. These are varying views on the prices and incomes board, a 12-member panel which has set itself the heroic task of banishing inflation from Britain by gentle pressure and persuasion.

Harvey

"Basically, our job is psychological," a spokesman said Wednesday. "We are trying to promote a change of attitudes and break old habits. Our method is a continuing dialogue with management, organized labor and government. If we succeed, Britain may become a model for advanced industrial societies."

In three years of existence, the statutory body with a staff of only 220 has studied 3,000,000 annual price changes, collected information on countless industries, issued 63 reports and aroused interest round the world. Chairman Aubrey Jones, a Welsh miner's son with a radical temperament belying his Conservative party background, says he has been "besieged" by countries interested in Britain's example.

Canada, the United States, Argentina, Finland, Italy — these are among the countries intrigued by the British experiment. Two senior Whitehall officials, J. M. Woolf and Daniel Caplan, visited Ottawa recently at the Canadian government's request and briefed Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau on British techniques. The Prime Minister wanted the information before inviting Canadian business and labor leaders to discuss economic guidelines, a meeting that may now be postponed until after the June 25 election.

Study and Exhortation

The incomes board — full title National Board for Prices and Incomes—was founded in April, 1965, as a royal commission and became a statutory organization in August, 1966, to investigate and report on particular cases of prices and incomes referred to it by the government, under rules laid down in consultation with employers and unions. It has no powers, apart from the ability to call evidence, summon witnesses and, as one official said, "stand on the touchline and exhort."

Yet it is widely agreed that the board does have influence and is making an impact. Research by Dr. Hilde Behrend, business lecturer at the University of Edinburgh, unearthed evidence of a greater public understanding of the relationship between productivity, prices and incomes.

Trying to explain precisely what the board does invariably sets officials searching for a context. Patiently, they explain that they are trying to complete the Keynesian revolution; Cambridge economist John Maynard Keynes pointed the way to the cure for unemployment, but had no answer for inflation. Yet stable prices are vital for social equity at home and successful trade abroad. They are doubly important now, to preserve the cutting edge of devaluation.

"People have come to expect prices to rise and wages to follow suit in a perpetual leap-frogging process," said one official at board headquarters, "This is the cycle we want to break."

Since the war, various efforts have been made to keep incomes from rising faster than national economic growth. Nothing seemed to work. One year wages went up 10 per cent, prices five per cent, productivity one per cent, a recipe for disaster.

What went wrong? Leaving aside the possibility that price and wage control is not humanly possible, it was theorized that restraint was imposed on reluctant labor and industrial organizations, and that the emphasis had been on wages to the exclusion of prices. Under a new policy effective in 1965, prices as well as all forms of income came under supervision, the Trades Union Congress and representatives of British industry were brought into close association with policy and declaration of intent was issued, emphasizing the need for increased productivity.

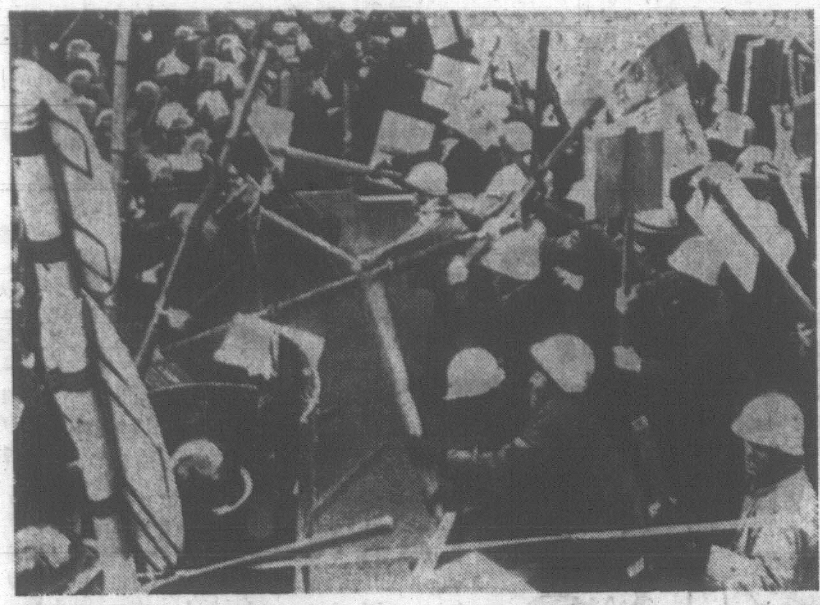
Live and Relevant

The board operated informally, did not waste time listening for weeks and months to parades of learned witnesses and produced its own reports, which aimed at being live and relevant rather than, as in the case of many royal commissions, outdated and irrelevant.

Officials admit the difficulty of dealing with prices. It is impossible to police the "High" streets, as British Main streets are called.

Informants are reluctant to say what Prime Minister Trudeau found particularly interesting. But they seem to feel problems in combatting inflation must be less intimidating in a young society like Canada, with fewer inherited attitudes, entrenched institutional arrangements and haunting fears of unemployment. It may be admitted that there is perhaps less need for the three elements in the continuing British dialogue, which are educative, consultative and judicial.

"Restraint begets restraint," Mr. Jones has said, "Without it incomes policy will be subjected to immense strains." With all these cautionary warnings, Mr. Jones is firmly convinced that Britain leads the world in income control. If the policy succeeds in the long term, his colleagues feel, the United Kingdom will have stolen a three-year advantage on European countries — a useful lead if Britain ever gets into the Common Market.



Demonstrations of "student power" occur almost daily around the world but nowhere are they more ferocious and violent than in Asian countries where disillusion with the promises of a "brave new world" is most acutely fostered by large-scale corruption and appalling living conditions. Prominent among Asian student demonstrators are Japan's Zengakuren organization, shown (above left) in fierce combat with police at Hosei University in Tokyo in a protest against the visit of an American nuclear-powered aircraft carrier to Japan. The Zengakuren, who prevented a visit by former President Eisenhower, prepare for their battles by donning helmets and heavily-padded clothing. Canadian students appear very peaceful in contrast when they demonstrate, as in Moncton, N.B. (right above) where refusal of a judge to conduct a trial of French-speaking students in their own language was the issue. The students were charged with placing a pig's head on the doorstep of the Moncton mayor, symbolic of the derogatory expression, tete de cochon.

Restive Asian Students React Violently To Corrupt Regimes' Betrayal of Freedom

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

SINGAPORE—Like spontaneous fire from rotting hay, student power in Asia springs from corruption—the corruption of a dream.

In the eyes of betrayed youth, the bright postwar promise of a brave new world for men born free has given this region at best government by middle-aged nationalists still steeped in the conventions of the white masters or yellow forebears they displaced.

At worst it has produced a mess of despotic, dishonest or sick-in-the-head dictators and of military juntas with barrack-square answers to the problems left by the abortive experiments in democracy of the politicians they supplanted. Meanwhile all continue to depend humiliatingly on the West for markets, or money or machineguns.

The reaction of many Asian students to constraint imposed upon them by those so sardonically referred to as their elders and betters, is therefore characteristically savage, so that when in 1962 dormitory discipline at the University of Rangoon was extended to include an eight o'clock curfew, 15 people died in the riots that followed.

At the end of 1966, young left-wing Chinese in Singapore barricaded themselves into their downtown college, fighting off riot squads with chairs, bottles and windowpanes in protest against proposals to lower their academic status—during a siege that lasted 25 days.

But it is over national rather than Communist-fomented campus issues that the formidable strength of students in the mass is fully deployed. It has provided the cutting edge of the axe that has toppled the three most powerful dictatorships in the Far East—those of Syngman Rhee in South Korea, of Sukarno in Indonesia, and — with other forces—of Ngo Dinh Diem in South Vietnam. In 1966 Peking Red Guards led a "Cultural Revolution" that disrupted the entire administration and Communist Party of China.

The tool of their trade is mass violence. "Make Love" is the motto of disillusioned youth repelled by the deceits of overstuffed Western societies, for a hippy is the child of material affluence, and of a sense of security that the young Asian does not know.

The Asian is still climbing the higher slope to material solace, often imbued with old-fashioned ideas about fair shares and social justice and peace and plenty.

In his twenties he loses his evangelistic fire, becomes obsessed with his own survival within the orthodox pattern of society, and stops kicking policemen on the shins.

Little to Lose

But when he first opens his eyes to the social framework in which he breathes — whether it is the strait-jacket of conventional Tokyo or the shaky structure of Saigon— he feels he has little to lose by rebelling.

High school children are more militant even than university students.

In their self-appointed role of national conscience, umpire and scandal-breaker, the students of Asia have proved salutary, sometimes infuriating watchdogs.

In Indonesia they are campaigning vociferously against the lack of rice, soaring prices, notorious corruption in high places, the appointment of General Suharto as unelected president — in February armored cars and troops with machine-guns were called out to stop them from invading his office. They have demanded that the cabinet and parliament be reshuffled and the administration stripped of left-wing Sukarnoists.

Their methods have at times been picturesque. They have listed details of the villas and cars owned by high-ranking officials, and in the fight against speculation and profiteering, they jammed telephones, seized rice stores, appropriated the keys of paraffin depots.

Attacking decadence and immorality, they raided brothels, closing 14 at the port of Belawan in East Sumatra despite the furious objections of local authorities that foreign ships would no longer call and the province would suffer a severe loss of revenue.

Vote Protests

In Saigon, South Vietnamese students demonstrated against the "crooked" presidential elections last September, and in Manila in January an enterprising Philippine group distributed a manifesto condemning the "lavish display of wealth" put on by Vice-President Fernando Lopez for his 40th wedding anniversary and backed by statistics — 1,000 guests, a 15-piece orchestra brought from America, a 25-foot high fountain of champagne, 10 buffets, eight bars, among others.

Students have forced the Indonesian government to cancel concessions whereby parliamentarians were to buy Australian cars on privileged terms, have obliged the reluctant attorney-general in Jakarta to set up an anti-corruption task force, have demanded an even bigger voice in the national legislature in which their appointed representatives already sit as a "functional group."

For since it was formed in 1965 KAMI, the Student Action Front, has been organized as a state within a state, with its own regional and sometimes even uniformed forces, its own radio station and daily newspaper, its own congress and "government."

Do the students swing to left or right? In Indonesia their action fronts are anti-Communist, and in Burma their last explosion of violence was directed agains the "Red Guard" activities of local left-wing Chinese.

Anti-U.S.

But paradoxically the anti-communism of South Korean undergraduates prompted anti-American manifestations after they had heard that the United States was negotiating bilaterally with North Korea over the Pueblo affair. Nine were injured when 500 theological students clashed with U.S. troops. But the anti-American pattern emerges more clearly elsewhere as youth veers to the Left.

In Manila, the students have called on Congress to bring home the Philippine contingent in South Vietnam. In Malaysia and Singapore, their leaders are inspired by Mao, and in Saigon they fought violently with police while marching in protest against "American interference in Vietnamese affairs."

In Japan, above all, the threat of mayhem permanently posed by the anarchistic and anti-American "three alliance group" within the extremist Zengakuren student movement hangs over a worried government and police force like a flare from a circling bomber.

For the Zengakuren are engaged not in a battle, but in a war with authority. Their objective is the total destruction of U.S.-Japan security arrangements which will come up for review in 1970, 10 years after their massive demonstrations forced President Eisenhower to cancel his visit in 1960.

Armored Car

Last autumn, Premier Eisaku Sato was forced to take an armored car from his office to the airport when setting off on a visit to "friendly" countries in South-east Asia, as Zengakuren mobs armed with heavy staves and rocks fought it out against the gas guns of the police in an attempt to stop him. There were 362 casualties.

In January Zengakuren rioters burst into the ministry of foreign affairs itself to protest against the visit of the nuclear-powered American aircraft-carrier Enterprise. In February more than 900 students and police were injured in more bloody fighting—this time over the site for a new Tokyo airport.

Some observers say that Japanese students are drawn into the demonstration racket because of the drab inadequacies of their scholastic life. They swot their way through high-school in constant terror of failure, to win a seat in some overcrowded university in which the teaching is as bad as the lighting.

Frustrated, resentful of what they consider a suffocating Japanese society founded on hierarchy and hypocrisy, filial piety and friendship with Washington, they swing wildly away in search of room to breathe.

Asian students may sometimes be exploited as pawns or misled by megalomaniacs, but in a sub-continent in which too often the elected legislatures are rigged, bought, suspended, or ignored, the irreverent deafening barracking of the young in the gallery is frequently the only effective popular protest that can stop flagrant abuses.

Most Rebellious Student Is Often the Brightest

By WILLIAM JOHNSON
The Globe and Mail

They are called beatniks, Communists, troublemakers.

They left a pig's head at the door of Moncton Mayor Leonard C. Jones, and forced University of Moncton president Adelard Savoie to abandon his barricaded car.

They called Ontario College of Art principal Sydney Watson "a liar." They blockaded a Dow Chemical Co. recruiter for six hours in a University of Toronto placement office.

And at McGill University they tried to batter down the placement office door in protest against "warmakers recruiting on campus."

They print "obscenities" in campus newspapers. Their cry, Student Power, disturbs the sleep of campus administrators, and in the name of peace in Vietnam they heckle Liberal politicians and create chaos at their meetings.

They are the student activists—a small, noisy, often ill-mannered minority. But recent research suggests they are the most intelligent university students.

Summed Up

Yale psychologist Kenneth Keniston, writing in the Journal of Social Issues, summed up U.S. research on the dissident activists' academic ability: "The higher the student's grade average, the more outstanding his academic achievements, the more likely it is that he will become involved in any given political demonstration."

At the University of Toronto, a study of last year's students by Professor Kenneth Walker of the sociology department shows that twice as many first-class honors students are found among those who have taken part in three or more demonstrations than in the rest of the student body. The demonstrators also include considerably more second-class honors students.

The student activists are not only better students, they are also more likely to have genuine intellectual goals.

There are four times as many non-activists than activists at Toronto who are likely to say that the primary purpose of a university education is to prepare them for a job. There are twice as many who are likely to say that it is to teach them to get along with people.

The activists, by contrast, more frequently stated that the purpose of a university education is to provide a basic education, appreciation of ideas, development of their knowledge and interest in community and world problems.

A parallel study of students at the University of Montreal by sociology professor Marcel Rioux and graduate student Ronald Sabourin reached similar conclusions.

While the student activists dominant in the Quebec student union (UGEQ) and the University of Montreal student union (AGEUM) were concerned about poverty, nationalism and peace, most University of Montreal students considered sports, good grades, spending time with friends or going out more important than "involvement in national and international problems."

The Canadian Union of Students came out for student power at its annual conference last summer, but three-quarters of the students sampled by Mr. Walker at the University of Toronto and at Queen's University were against students taking part in top-level decision-making at the university.

At the University of Toronto and Queen's University, 69 per cent and 86 per cent respectively had never taken part in a demonstration. Only 4 per cent at each university had taken part in three demonstrations or more.

More Acceptable

Though the moderate stand of the quiescent majority of students is generally more acceptable to society than the intemperate demands of the dissident minority, it would be foolish to dismiss the activists as soreheads.

Extensive research carried out at Berkeley's Centre for Higher Education by psychologists Paul Heist, James W. Trent and Judith L. Craise indicates that activists score higher than non-activists on psychological measures of autonomy, interest in ideas, complexity, and estheticism. They are also more sophisticated culturally. However, they have a higher level of anxiety.

Richard Flacks, a University of Chicago sociologist, found the activists higher than non-activists on measures of esthetic and emotional sensitivity, concern with ideas, desire to realize one's intellectual capacities, and concern with the plight of others in society.

Writing in the current issue of Daedalus, the journal of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, Richard E. Peterson, a research psychologist with Educational Testing Service, reports that the activists come from upper middle-class homes; their families are politically liberal or radical; the family atmosphere is permissive and either non-religious or non-dogmatic about religion.

The activists are mostly enrolled in the social sciences and humanities, and are scarce in the applied fields such as business, engineering and education. They feel, he said, a sense of responsibility for almost all other persons and groups in society.

There is a consistent picture of the activist which emerges from the several recent studies of student culture. He is a dissident. His characteristic stance is one of protest. He is a radical.

Not a Radical

But he is not a radical because he rejects the fundamental values of North American society or embraces the values of a foreign society such as that of the Soviet Union. He is a radical because, more fully than others, he embraces the values of his society in their purity.

"These students object to our society not because they oppose its basic principles, but because it fails to implement these principles fully at home and abroad," says Dr. Keniston.

And Dr. Peterson expresses the common denominator among the activists as "a moral outrage at the hypocrisy in American society—the gap between the liberal democratic dream and the grim human reality of American life—and a commitment to work for radical social change."

Preliminary results of research on Canadian students suggests the same conclusions: the dissident activists may be a troublesome minority, but they probably represent most completely the ideal product of a university education.

Bermuda's Blacks No Longer Satisfied With White Rulers

THE ECONOMIST

Where the remote Bermudas ride, in the ocean's bosom unespied, a British frigate—urgently diverted to the troubled colony—was also riding on April 28.

That day 150 soldiers were flown in from Britain to back up the police and the 300-strong Bermuda Regiment, which the governor had mobilized after two nights of rioting, arson and looting. A curfew and a state of emergency were imposed and over 100 arrests were made.

Meanwhile many of the American and Canadian tourists on whom the Bermudian economy depends left hurriedly.

Bermuda is a chain of coral islands about 20 miles long, with an American air base at one end, an American naval base at the other, and some Canadian military installations too; but it is still a British dependency.

More prosperous than any comparable West Indian island, it also has a different racial mix — a third of its 50,000 inhabitants are white.

●

But the striking feature of the riots that have broken its long tranquility is that they came on the eve of a political change intended to free the colored majority from the long domination of the wealthier whites.

At the constitutional conference held 18 months ago in London, Walter Robinson, speaking for the opposition Progressive Labor party, gave warning of Rohodesia-type dangers if full home rule were to be granted on the basis of the 1963 franchise. In the 1963 elections property owners could cast two votes, while blatant gerrymendering had produced constituencies of 300 electors (mainly white) alongside others with 5,000 (mainly colored).

●

On this basis 23 assembly seats out of 36 were won by the United Bermuda party, led by Sir Henry Tucker, general manager of the Bank of Bermuda, chairman of the local broadcasting company and director of the telephone and electricity companies.

The combination of political and financial power that remained in the hands of the "Front Street" businessmen was as formidable as that of the Bahamas' "Bay Street boys," but more discreetly used.

Double voting has been ended, but revision of constituency boundaries has not gone far enough to meet the opposition's complaints. Recent weeks have seen vigorous campaigning, by three parties (a Bermuda Democratic party having been formed by a number of former independents), for the first general election under the 1966 arrangements, which are due in 10 days.

●

These elections could break the UBP's grip on political power; but meanwhile several other things have contributed to build up tension.

Bermuda's shopkeepers readily accept four currencies — American and Canadian dollars, British pounds and their own. Half of its imports come from the United States. But wages are paid in pounds. The devaluing of Bermuda's pound in line with Britain's meant a sharp rise in the cost of living. It was widely felt that the decision showed more concern for the monied interests than for the population.

●

The murder of Dr. Martin Luther King a month ago, and the violence that followed, had a strong emotional impact on colored Bermudians.

Only a week later they learnt of the overwhelming electoral defeat of the white-led party in the Bahamas by Lynden Pindling's Progressive Liberals — who had already, during 1967, shown themselves able to govern with a majority of one. Meanwhile Bermuda has also heard of new racial tensions in Britain.

One of its own problems is that whites are disproportionately numerous in the police.

Another is a recurrent suspicion that white immigants, mainly from Britain, are still given too much freedom to settle in Bermuda and obtain good jobs which many employers dislike awarding to Negroes.

BRITISH TOWN COUNCIL ELECTIONS

Labor Suffers Crushing Defeat

LONDON (CP) — The future of Prime Minister Wilson was in question today after his Labor party suffered a crushing defeat Thursday in nationwide local elections.

The Opposition Conservatives picked up nearly 600 new seats on town councils across England and Wales while Labor lost more than 530. This followed Labor's defeat Tuesday in local elections in their former stronghold of Scotland.

Government ministers said the setback for the party is the worst they could remember.

The most staggering defeat was in elections for the 32 boroughs of London, of which Labor held a majority for 40 years. Results showed it retained control of only four boroughs—a loss of 16. The Conservatives now dominate 23.

Only two urban areas in the country remained under Labor control—the town of Swansea in Wales and Stoke on Trent in England. Four years ago the Conservatives controlled only four of the 52 town councils in England and Wales.

GAIN STEEL VOTES

In the steel industry city of Sheffield—controlled by Labor for 40 years—Conservatives gained power with 56 seats to Labor's 52.

Conservatives swept Labor out of strongholds that had not known a Tory mayor for generations.

The voting did not affect the Labor party's 74-member majority in the House of Commons.

Earlier in the week in Scotland, the Nationalists drew off Labor voters and Conservatives took control in major cities. The Welsh Nationalists tried to repeat this Thursday, but they elected only one new candidate.

The polling represented the first nationwide test of political sentiment since Wilson's government was forced to devalue the pound last November.

RACE A FACTOR

Although local issues often clouded the results, Labor cabinet ministers said the Conservative landslide represented a rejection of Labor's national policies. Robert Mellish, minister of works and Labor party chief in London, called the result a disaster for his party.

Race appeared to have been one of the factors propelling the Conservative avalanche. The Tory tide went surging through the staunchly socialist boroughs in London's East End and on the south bank of the River Thames.

These areas, dotted with Negro and Indian ghettos, sent longshoremen marching to the House of Commons two weeks ago in a jeering demonstration against non-white immigrants and in favor of Enoch Powell. The right-wing Conservative politician's speech against immigration and civil rights legislation is generally credited with releasing buried racial feelings into public debate.

A few Conservative candidates campaigned in South London on pro-Powell platforms. But in one London borough, suburban Harringey, the Tories elected a Negro town councillor.

The Conservatives captured control of Labor strongholds where race was not an issue. In Norwich, they beat Labor for the first time in 40 years. In the industrial Midlands, where there is considerable racial friction, the swing to the Tories was less than the average nationwide swing of six per cent of the voters.

SEEK AN ELECTION

Conservative leaders made demands for Wilson to resign and call new national elections. On the basis of Thursday's voting the Conservatives would almost certainly win them.

But as long as Wilson can hold together his majority in the Commons, he is unlikely to face the voters. The Labor party's term runs until the spring of 1971.

In more immediate danger may be the political fortunes of the prime minister himself.

Doubts on the future of Wilson as leader of the Labor government was blazoned across the front pages of newspapers.

The mass-circulation Daily Mirror says: "Enough is enough."

A front-page article by publisher Cecil H. King, a former Wilson supporter, says: "Wilson and his government have lost all credibility: all authority."

In the article, duplicated in The Sun—stablemate of The Daily Mirror—King says it now is up to the Labor party to elect a new leader—soon.

The Daily Mail—Conservative—says King's blunt demand for a new prime minister reflects the thoughts of many.

Cancel Contracts?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal officials are threatening to unleash a never-before-used economic weapon—contract cancellation—to combat job discrimination in companies that do $75,000,000,000 worth of business a year with the U.S. government. President Johnson empowered federal agencies nearly three years ago to terminate contracts if recipient firms do not hire, promote and pay employees without regard to race. Officials admit some companies have disregarded non-discrimination pledges.

B.C. SURVEY SHOWS

Agreements Aid All Workers

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Nearly half the paid workers in British Columbia are members of trade unions and non-union employees benefit from their progress.

These are two points made in a major survey of labor-management collective agreements by the research branch of the B.C. labor department.

Membership in trade unions now is nearly 45 per cent of all paid employees, or close to 275,000 men and women.

"The contents of these agreements do not only affect working conditions for employees covered by such agreements but also influence working standards of employees in non-organized establishments," the survey says.

The survey, consolidating the result of two separate studies, attempts to provide "meaningful statistical information" on the major provisions of contracts in B.C.

It says the need for more reliable statistics is becoming increasingly apparent as a result of enormous growth in the scope and complexity of provisions in labor-management agreements.

The survey is based on roughly one-quarter of the contracts filed with the labor department between June, 1966, and June, 1967, and provides "a relatively good representation" of agreements negotiated in B.C.

Among the points in the 25 tables of statistics are:

- Three-quarters of the contracts provide for either the union shop or closed shop, described by the survey as a "high proportion";
- Forty-hour week is dominant, with only 7 per cent showing provision for less than 40 hours;
- Eighty-five per cent of contracts provide for paid vacations of three weeks or more;
- Apart from the transportation industry, where a few contracts provide for limited weekly guarantees of employment or pay, close to 96 per cent of agreements in all industries did not show any guaranteed wages or employment provisions;
- Medical plans were written into more than 84 per cent of contracts with participation and contributions varying although mainly compulsory and shared between employer and employee;
- Provisions for pension plan contributions were found in only 25 per cent of contracts but many of these were established before the Canada Pension Plan was introduced;
- Thirty-eight per cent of contracts had provisions on training and retraining workers but only 20 per cent contained consultation on introducing new work techniques.

Hippies Banned

BANGKOK (UPI) — Thailand officially banned Hippies today. Gen. Prapas Charusathien, the interior minister, asked the foreign office to instruct its embassies to refuse visas to the flower children.

APPOINTED lieutenant-governor of Ontario Thursday was William Ross Macdonald, 77, a former government leader in the Senate and Speaker of the Commons 1949 to 1963. He succeeds William Earl Rowe. Prime Minister Trudeau made the announcement.

JEHOVAH'S WITNESS IN HIDING

Girl Who Refused Blood 'Alive'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Miriam Myllyniemi, 14-year-old Jehovah's Witness who fled from hospital a year ago to avoid blood transfusions, still is alive, her minister said Thursday.

"There is no adverse change in her condition," said James Cameron. He declined to say where the girl, suffering from a kidney condition, is living.

Last May, the girl left St. Paul's Hospital with her mother after courts gave custody of the girl to the Children's Aid Society so a kidney operation could be carried out.

The operation would have required transfusions, opposed by Jehovah's Witnesses on religious grounds.

Mr. Cameron said: "There is a kidney treatment that can be done in the home without medical supervision." He did not elaborate.

Doctors had expressed fear for the life of the girl when she fled from hospital.

INFORMATION TAX

News by Telephone 'Costs' Reporters

QUEBEC (CP) — Aim of an "information tax" adopted by suburban Neufchatel this week is to eliminate the abuse of municipality services by reporters who simply telephone for information without attending municipal council meetings, an official said Thursday.

Charles Palardeau, secretary-treasurer of the municipality, said the tax will not apply to reporters who attend council meetings.

The tax, assessed on newspapers and radio stations, is 25 cents for every 100 words given in statements prepared in response to reporters telephoned questions.

Mr. Palardeau said information given by officials on the telephone will be put in writing and sent to the inquiring journalist's employer with the tax assessment.

He said reporters rarely attend council meetings. They preferred to phone city hall the following morning for information about what went on. As a result, they took up the time of employees who had other work to do.

Walk Raises $165,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—The second and biggest Mile for Millions walk here has raised $165,000 for the world's needy. Last year's march attracted 2,500 walkers and brought in $33,000. This year, an estimated 8,500 persons took part.

TAKE A TIP FROM ME . . .

TACOMA (AP)—Service station attendant William Cromartie said a customer bought $5 worth of gas and paid with a large bill. When given his change, he offered Cromartie a 25-cent tip.

Cromartie declined, saying "No, that's okay."

Apparently it wasn't. The customer pulled a black derringer, pointed it at Cromartie and said "Take it." Cromartie took the quarter.

POLLUTION, WATER RESEARCH PROGRAMS

Pepin Denies Tory Charges

CALGARY (CP) — The Liberal government has been busy in pollution and water research, Jean-Luc Pepin, federal minister of energy, mines and resources, said Thursday.

The Liberals have spent $17,000,000 on research into pollution, have prepared an inland waterway plan and have studied irrigation problems in Saskatchewan, he told a press conference in refuting charges by Conservative Leader Stanfield that the government had failed to tackle the pollution problem.

Mr. Pepin said federal subsidies for the coal industry in Western and Eastern Canada are justified.

He said recently-concluded contracts with the Japanese steel industry will mean that federal financial help for Western Canada's coal industry will not be required after new mines go into production in 1970 and 1971.

But feeral help will still be required in Cape Breton to phase out coal production and substitute other industries.

The Liberal government has strong feelings on the fate of more than 6,500 Cape Breton coal miners, he said, and can not shug off its responsibility to help them.

In Calgary for a speech to the Petroleum Society of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy and to campaign for Liberal candidates in the June 25 federal election, Mr. Pepin said a new British American Oil Co. refinery at Point Tupper may be the forerunner of new industry for Cape Breton.

'FINANCIAL CRISIS', SAYS PAPER TYCOON

Pound in Sharp Decline

LONDON (AP) — The British pound fell sharply today following the attack on Prime Minister Wilson by newspaper tycoon Cecil King.

King says in an editorial in his principal newspapers: "We are now threatened with the greatest financial crisis in our history."

Within hours after the market opened King resigned as a director of the Bank of England. His resignation was accepted.

Shares were hit, too. The London Stock Exchange, always sensitive to political or economic excitement, showed falls in most sections.

The pound dropped to $2.39115 U.S. this morning, lowest point since the gold crisis. It was at $2.39305 Thursday.

King's assault on the Wilson government was the main talking point in the London's financial district today. It overshadowed the Conservatives' victories in Thusday's nationwide local elections.

Another factor affecting financial markets were rumors of Soviet troop movements in Poland near the Czech border.

King, in his letter of resignation to Chancellor of the Exchequer Roy Jenkins, said: "As I am becoming more and more involved in plitical controversy, I think it will be more convenient for the Bank of England if I resign . . ."

Canned Beer Price Boost Irks Brewer

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Ben Ginter, owner of a small northern brewery, said Thursday he is opposed to a recent increase in the price of canned beer in British Columbia and may institute a refund system if the increase is not rescinded.

In a statement issued from his office here, the millionaire Prince George businessman said his Tartan Brewery neither asked for nor wants the increase.

"I can only assume the reason for the price increase is to kill the canned beer market and put us out of business."

He appealed to the public to write to the cabinet to rescind the price increase. If the campaign is not successful "the only alternative might be to fold up this part of my diversified interests."

Vending Shares Hit High

Captain International, a Vancouver-based vending machine manufacturer, continued its recent market surge today during active pre-noon trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

A penny over-the-counter trader only a few months ago, Captain today traded at $8.50, a new high and gain of .75 from Thursday's close.

Vancouver brokers, who said much of the buying is coming from the U.S. and eastern Canada, suggested the issue's move from its recent $5 level has been based on rumors of new sales contracts.

In the mining section, Hudson Bay Mountain Silver remained the most active trader on a turnover of 202,700 shares. Late morning trades were at .77 a gain of .07.

Elsewhere Cumon was up .08 to .98, Lytton was .10 to $2.05, National Nickel .20 to $2.30 and New Indian .03 to .19.

Losers included Giant Mascot off .07 to $1.43, Lornex, down .20 to $5.40, and Westland, off .07 to $1.20.

AT TORONTO—In industrials, Lowney jumped 4½ to 56, Moore Corp. 1⅝ to 31⅝, Scott Lasalle 1¼ to 22 and Ontario Store Fixture 1 to 18¾. Dupont dropped 1⅛ to 31¼.

Numac Oil gained 35 cents to 6.15 and International Helium 27 cents to 1.99. Central-Del Rio fell ⅝ to 15.

Northgate Exploration and Cassiar Asbestos were up ⅝ each to 14½ and 16.

Final volume was 3,732,000 shares compared with 3,633,000 Thursday.

AT NEW YORK the list of most-actively traded stocks was almost solidly in the plus column.

Brokers said investors apparently had lost their apprehension about reported Soviet troop movements near the Czech border because there had been no new developments.

The reports sent the market tumbling early Thursday afternoon, but a recovery got under way before the close.

Mail-order-retails, non-ferrous metals, chemicals and tobaccos were mostly higher. Oils were weak.

AT MONTREAL in the industrial list, junior issues posted the most significant price changes as Lait Leclerc A fell 2¼ to 7¼ and Lowney 2 to 50 on a turnover of 200 and 335 shares respectively.

Famous Players, Zellers and Oshawa A retreated ⅜ each to 50⅝, 13⅝ and 32⅝, and Velcro ½ to 53½. CPR dropped ⅝ to 53⅛ and Brinco 25 cents to 3.90.

Canadian International Power climbed 1½ to 34¾, Kenting Aviation, a junior stock, 1¼ to 29⅞ and Scott-Lasalle 1 to 22.

In senior mines and oils, Inco and Husky edged up ¾ each to 124¼ and 25½ and B-A ⅝ to 40⅝.

AT LONDON the market turned down sharply today, with the market's recent nervousness finding fuller expression as a result of the attack on the government launched in The Daily Mirror.

Leading industrials showed many sharp falls, while second-rank issues were marked down by a matter of shillings. Selling was on a fairly large scale.

Gilts weakened in sympathy with sterling, and losses of ⅛ to ¼ were widespread.

Dollar stocks were mostly lower.

In Canadians Hudson's Bay Oil and Noranda were up a point but falls of ½ to 2 points were common.

Uranium Demand To Soar

VANCOUVER (CP) — Recent breakthroughs in generation of nuclear electrical power will bring an unprecedented demand for uranium during the next few years, says W. M. Gilchrist, president of Crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd.

He told the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy that $7,000,000,000 to $8,000,000,000 will be needed by 1980 to finance uranium production to meet the demand.

The most important development in nuclear power production recently has been the improved capability of generating plants, which are now able to produce electricity at a rate of four mills a kilowatt, he said.

When the uranium boom collapsed in 1959 it was expected that it would be 1970 before nuclear power could be produced at a rate lower than the four-mill barrier, but the barrier was shattered in 1963, said Mr. Gilchrist.

"Today, four companies in the U.S.—General Electric, Westinghouse, Combustion Engineering and Babcock-Wilcox—have orders for reactors totalling well over $7,000,000," said the executive.

He said it now is estimated there will be about 145,000 megawatts of nuclear power on transmission lines in the Western world in 1975, which will burn about 36,000 tons of U-308 annually.

"This is just about what the presently-known reserves of uranium in the West can poduce each year, and not for a very great length of time," said Mr. Gilchrist. "There is a good possibility that this figure for installed nuclear power will be exceeded by 1975."

He said development of uranium reserves is well under way in the U.S., but work in Canada and most other uranium-rich nations has just started.

Factors which make uranium a logical source of electrical production, said Mr. Gilchrist, are elimination of fuel transportation, flexibility of location, reduction of costs of up to 50 per cent and absence of atmospheric pollution.

Blocked by Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren today blocked until May 20 at the earliest the merger of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Chicago Burlington and Quincy Railroads.

Merger of the three roads had been scheduled to take effect today despite opposition from the justice department, which contended competition would be lessened.

The chief justice acted on a plea filed by the justice department.

The department has already urged the Interstate Commerce Commission to reconsider its approval of the merger and filed suit Thursday in federal court here to upset it.

Chief Judge Edward M. Curran of the U.S. District Court here refused to grant the department a temporary restraining order.

Other attempts to block the merger have been unsuccessful in federal courts in New York City and Seattle.

The proposed consolidation would create a 26,500-mile rail system covering much of the western half of the U.S. Great Northern has lines in Western Canada.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Market Acts Like Magnet

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Progress of U.S. legislators toward raising more tax revenue, cutting government spending, or a combination of both, is still viewed with suspicion by the conservative-minded Alexander Hamilton Institute.

Indeed, there are members of Congress who say that getting U.S. fiscal measures finally passed after nine months of debating the proposals remains an uphill battle.

Kent

The current edition of Alexander Hamilton Institute's Investment Bulletin, published in New York, calls "Rampant inflation a distinct possibility because of the failure of the administration to cope with our fiscal and monetary problems."

Meanwhile, it says, the stock market is acting like a magnet, attracting funds seeking any kind of shelter, even though corporate earnings prospects for the whole year are not high.

And it warns against accepting high risks for the sake of escaping, or trying to avoid, losses through inflation.

* * *

But last week the bulletin, while giving itself plenty of latitude, expressed the view there would be a U.S. tax increase almost certainly, "this year or next, and will be most effective in having the desired result of reducing spendable income."

Part of the situation in which the U.S.—and Canada—finds itself can be blamed on failure to rope in the inflationary pressures as early as the need became evident, and now the climate for even greater pressure is improved, at least in the U.S.

As the Hamilton Institute suggests, some sort of industrial recession may intervene, and therefore investors are urged to lean toward technology-oriented companies, where labor costs are of lesser consideration than in the key industries such as aluminum and steel.

A shortage of skilled labor in the U.S., together with a lame duck administration, leaves the way open for unions to drive hard bargains, and the steel industry could be locked in battle soon, the bulletin says.

The Canadian arm of the Weston empire has sold its Fine Fare (Holdings) Ltd. entirely to a Weston British interest.

The total transaction yielded George Weston Ltd., of Toronto, $22 million profit, a return of more than 100 per cent on its original investment, according to Canadian president George Metcalf.

Shares were sold through Weston subsidiary Dicoa Ltd., which held 51 per cent of Fine Fare, Weston's major British retail chain. Dicoa sold 3/5 of its holding last November to Associated British Foods Ltd., London, controlled by George Weston Holdings Ltd., also of London.

Last week's transaction saw the remaining 20 per cent interest sold for cash to Associated British Foods, done because of tight money, Mr. Metcalf said.

Total worth of Dicoa's interest in Fine Fare was $40.2 million, including the $16.8 million price paid last week.

* * *

In its annual report, the Toronto-based company showed a drop in operating profit from $1.22 per share in 1966 to $1.10 in 1967, but with the sale of assets, mostly the November sale outlined above, net income per share last year came to $1.72 compared with $1.31. Total net was $19.772 million vs. $15.276 million.

Sales in 1967 went from $835.886 million to a record $919.016 million, while cost of sales was $870.556 million against $787.475 million the year before.

Working capital is up from $51.818 million to $75.617 million, exclusive of investment carried at a cost of $49.768 million, including Loblaw Companies Ltd. shares, valued at $22.951 million. Market value of the latter was reckoned at $39.523 million.

Homestake Mining Co., of San Francisco, expects a decline in short-term earnings, shareholders were told by president John K. Gustafson.

But in the long run, as new properties come into production, the earnings picture should improve once more, he said.

The company has in the offing new ventures in gold, silver and uranium.

Treasury Bills

OTTAWA (CP) — New 91-day Government of Canada treasury bills auctioned Thursday: $125,000,000 at an average price and yield of 98.300 and 6.94 per cent. Last week, same amount and terms, 98.285 and 7.00 per cent.

182-day bills: $35,000,000 at 96.694 and 6.86 per cent. Last week, same amount and term, 96.698 and 6.85 per cent.

$ EXCHANGE

VICTORIA—Purchase of U.S. funds in terms of the Canadian dollar was quoted today at $1.08¼ for cheques, $1.08⅜ for cash and $1.05⅝ for silver. Sales were $1.07⅛ for cheques, $1.07⅜ for cash and $1.05⅝ for silver.

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds was unchanged at $1.07 25/32. Pound sterling down ⅛ at $2.57 13/16.

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar was down 3/64 at .92 47/64 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling down 5/16 at $2.39 5/64.

Calgary Air Link Backed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board examiner recommended Thursday that Western Airlines be authorized to operate non-stop between Denver, Colo., and Calgary, Alta.

The C.A.B. will study the report of examiner Joseph L. Fitzmaurice in preparing its decision for submission to President Johnson.

Western proposes to operate one daily jet non-stop trip in each direction initially, in addition to the two round trips a day that now operate by way of intermediate cities.

An agreement with Canada signed in 1966 permits what would be the first non-stop service by a U.S. airline between Denver and Calgary.

Frontier Airlines had opposed Western's request for non-stop authority.

Fitzmaurice said the new authority would result in improved air service between Calgary and Houston and Dallas in addition to Denver and thus would enhance development of petroleum interests in the cities involved.

Rousseau Ruins Harvey's Return

JUBILATION is displayed by Bobby Rousseau after seeing puck in net for winning goal.

Scrappy St. Louis Forces Another Overtime Battle

MONTREAL (CP) — Bobby Rousseau ruined Doug Harvey's homecoming Thursday night by scoring at 1:13 of overtime to give Montreal Canadiens a 4-3 Stanley Cup victory and 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven final against St. Louis Blues.

It was the first time in four years that the 43-year-old Harvey had played in Montreal Forum after spending 14 seasons of glory with the Canadiens before being sold to New York Rangers.

He was called back up after Kansas City Blues, with which he was playing coach this season, were knocked out of the Central Professional League playoffs.

But his duty with St. Louis was cut short in the semi-finals against Minnesota North Stars by a groin injury and he managed to get into only one quarter-final against Philadelphia Flyers and some of four games against Minnesota.

He hadn't played in the other final games, won 3-2 in overtime and 1-0 by Montreal in St. Louis.

Rousseau, whose goal was his first playoff winner in eight years as a Canadien, was just breaking into the big time and played only 15 games in Harvey's last year with Montreal.

But Tuesday he came closer to the burly veteran than Harvey could have liked to slam the puck past veteran St. Louis goalie Glenn Hall.

Eighth Overtime Game for Blues

Yvan Cournoyer, Serge Savard and Ralph Backstrom were the other Canadiens to get the puck past Hall. Red Berenson, with two goals, and Frank St. Marseille, beat Lorne Worsley in the Montreal net.

The fourth game of the series is set for Saturday at 12 noon PDT with full television coverage in Canada by the CBC and in the United States by CBS.

The game was the second overtime contest between the two clubs, a record 10th in this year's playoffs and also a record eighth for St. Louis this year, of which they've won four.

And the result of the bitter battles between the two teams has left its mark on both clubs —St. Louis is quietly proud while Montreal is dismayed and a little embarrassed that they aren't winning as easily as almost every knowledgeable observer expected.

PROUD OF TEAM

"We have to be a lot prouder of our team than they do of theirs," St. Louis coach Scotty Bowman said after the game.

"They played a lot better for being home, but the crowd didn't do that much for them."

Toe Blake of Montreal also mentioned the crowd, which booed Montreal at times, while applauding every time Harvey left the ice, or when the Canadiens committed playing errors.

Of the Blues, he said: "They're very seldom behind in the score, so they don't have to change their style and open up. They're tough to play against."

Regarding this, Bowman said he was scrambling his lines late in the game to try and get the break St. Louis needed. But, of the overtime, he said:

"We simply couldn't open up. We tried it twice and got caught down ice twice."

DESCRIBES WINNER

Rousseau described his winner:

"I had followed Dick (Duff) in on the play and he had two shots close in. Then it came out and I trapped it on my stick and let it go.

"I was still moving as I shot the puck, and I was trying to avoid piling into the corner of the net with my shoulder. So, I honestly didn't see the puck go in."

Berenson, whose first goal came in the second period after a perfect rink-wide pass from Jean-Guy Talbot, sent the game into overtime with two minutes and 35 seconds remaining in regulation time after stealing the puck from Montreal defenceman J. C. Tremblay right in front of Worsley.

Both coaches were awed by the work of Hall, who was tested 46 times in the game compared with 15 sorties against Worsley.

"They're getting terrific goaling," applauded Blake, in complete agreement with the 14,558 fans who cheered Hall's selection as second star of the game.

"Unbelievable, eh? Fabulous," said Bowman. "Sure he's great, but he plays like that all the time."

CHALK UP ONE FOR SAVARD

Puck flies into St. Louis net as Montreal's Serge Savard cleanly beats goalie Glenn Hall to give Canadiens 2-1 lead early in second period of Stanley Cup playoff game at Montreal. However, Canadiens had to go into overtime to get their third straight win in series, winning 4-3 despite great display by Hall, who blocked 42 shots. Puck is visible beside Savard's head. Mikita Repeats Triple Triumph

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League announced today that centre Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks—first player ever to win three top individual awards in one season—has done it again.

Mikita duplicated his feat of last season by again being named winner of the Hart, Lady Byng and Art Ross awards.

The Hart is awarded to the player most valuable to his team; the Lady Byng to the player adjudged to combine sportsmanship and high standard of playing ability; the Art Ross to the regular-season scoring champion.

Two Boston Bruins players also won high awards:

Bobby Orr won the James Norris Trophy as the league's outstanding defenceman;

Derek Sanderson won the Calder Trophy—which Orr won last year—as the league's outstanding rookie.

VOTED BY COACHES

Voting for the trophies was conducted among the 12 National Hockey League coaches in a poll at the midway point of the schedule and a second poll at the end of the regular season.

In each award, the winner receives $1,000 and the runner-up $500. The half-way leaders each receive $250.

It was the fourth straight season the Hart Trophy had gone to a Chicago player—Bobby Hull won it in 1964-65 and 1965-66.

For the Lady Byng, it was four in five years for Chicago. Ken Wharram won it in 1963-64, Hull in 1964-65. Alex Delvecchio of Detroit Red Wings broke the string by winning it in 1965-66.

Mikita, 27, a nine-year veteran with the Hawks, had 40 goals during the regular season, a personal record, and took the scoring title with 87 points.

BEAT OUT BELIVEAU

He got 52 points in the over-all total for the Hart, finishing nine points ahead of runner-up Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens who had led in the second-half balloting with 39 points.

Hull finished third in the over-all totals with 32 points.

Mikita won the Lady Byng with 72 points, 20 ahead of runner-up Johnny Bucyk of Boston.

For Boston, it was the first time in 27 years that Bruins players had picked up two trophies in the same year.

Orr is the first Boston player ever to win the James Norris, leaving Toronto Maple Leafs as the only NHL team—other than the expansion clubs—without a winner of the award since it was put up after the 1953-54 season. Orr got 68 points to finish 37 points ahead of runner-up J. C. Tremblay of Montreal. Tim Horton of Toronto was one back in third with 30 points.

Sanderson led the rookies in the East division in point-scoring with 49 points, including 24 goals. He also had the widest margin of any of the awards in the voting, his 92 points totalling 51 more than runner-up Jacques Lemaire of Montreal. Doug Favell, Philadelphia Flyers' goaltender, was third with 36.

GETS $8,500 FOR AWARDS

With the All-Star teams still to be named for the 1967-68 season, Mikita has earned a total of $8,500 in NHL award money. This includes his shares in team awards of $250 for the Hawks' fourth-place finish; $2,250 for Hawks' quarter-final victory over New York and $1,500 as the losers' share of the semi-final pot.

Mikita won $1,500 in the Lady Byng voting, $1,000 as Art Ross winner, plus $250 as runner-up to Hull in the first-half scoring

The Hart is worth $1,000 as over-all winner and $250 as first-half leader.

Mikita also won $500 for being named to the first All-Star team in the first-half poll.

Joleen Paces Claremont Win

Claremont's Joleen Callard won three events to pace her school to victory in a track and field meet against Mount View and Esquimalt at Centennial Stadium Thursday.

She captured wins in the 60-yard low hurdles and the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

Claremont won 14 out of the 26 events for a point score of 138½. Mount View came second with 70 and Esquimalt finished with 68½ points.

Softball Scores

In Industrial Softball League games played Thursday night, Gilmour's defeated Bapcos 14-4, Six Mile House downed Northwestern Creamery 12-11 and Yarrows topped Red Lion 10-8.

Brian's Blow Aids Bottlers

Brian Callaway put the cap on a Bottle Exchange comeback.

His two-run single highlighted a three-run outburst as the Bottlers rallied to tie King's Hotel 8-8 in Stuffy McGinnis Softball League play at Heywood Avenue Park Thursday.

King's out-hit the Bottlers 14-5.

Barons' Goalie Rookie of Year

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Gerry Desjardins, 23, Cleveland Barons' goaltender, has been named the American Hockey League's Rookie of the Year.

Desjardins, a Sudbury native, became the fourth goalie to win the Dudley Red Garrett Memorial Trophy and the $300 bonus that goes with the award.

LADIES' DAY SUNDAY

Speedway Cards Racing Twin Bill

Mother's Day arrives Sunday and Western Speedway is prepared for the occasion.

For the first time in the track's history, officials will hold a ladies' day, admitting all distaff fans, young and old, without charge.

Two meets are scheduled for the weekend.

Stock cars will roll Saturday night in a regular meet. Time trials will start at 7 and racing will begin about an hour later.

More powerful machines will snarl Sunday afternoon for the ladies' day patrons, who will see time trials start at 1 and racing commence about 2.

Super-stock and modified machines will be in action Sunday with many of the favorite stock-car pilots from last season wheeling the peppier cars.

Returning after a six-year layoff from track competition will be Dave Cooper, who will test his skill against a field that includes Roy Haslam, last year's stock champion.

Other former aces of the stock-car wars are Ross Surgenor and Bob Bissenden, who will be joined by other local pilots and drivers from Nanaimo and Vancouver.

PRO GOLF CONTROVERSY

Great Par Five Hole But 'Lousy Par Four'

WAYNE VOLMER
. . . in tourney

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Controversy raged today over the redesigned 15th hole at the Lakewood Country Club golf course where the $100,000 Greater New Orleans Open moved into its second day.

"I don't think it's a fair hole," said Bob Stanton, 22, the Aussie who fashioned a six-under-par 65 Thursday to take a one-stroke lead after the first round.

"I think it was a better hole to play as it was," said Tom Weiskopf, who leads this year's money winners with nearly $80,000. Weiskopf, Johnny Pott and South African Gary Player all had 66s.

George Knudson of Toronto, the defending champion, had a 69.

Jack Nicklaus said of No. 15, now a par-four hole playing 470 yards:

"It was a wonderful par five, but a lousy par four."

"I don't give a damn what they say," commented Jack Weiss, a tournament official. "I think it's a real fine hole now. Just because it's a par five for the members doesn't mean it has to be a par five for the pros.

The tee was moved up 60 yards on the hole, making it 470 yards and a par four.

The hole is hazardous to drive because a ball hit to the right or even slightly to the left could land in the lakes on either side of the narrow fairway.

Eight of the 10 two-under pars made in last year's tourney, when 15 was played at par five, were made on the hole.

'MIRACLE PUTT'

"The official records show that there were more one-under pars than pars being made, necessitating a redesign of the hole," said Weiss.

Pott got one of five one-under pars registered Thursday on the hole. He sank what he called "a miracle putt" from 40 feet away and three feet off the green in the fringe.

Bunched at 67 were Ron Cerrudo, Jacky Cupit, Dave Marr, Harold Henning, George Boutell and Dave Stockton.

VOLLMER IN FIELD

Wayne Vollmer, playing in his first USPGA tournament, carded a 75 while Toronto's Al Balding had a 74 and Winnipeg's Wilf Homenuik a 75. Vollmar is from Vancouver.

Although he failed to qualify for a touring pro card during recent trials, Vollmer is eligible to register for three U.S. tournaments. This is done under the "foreign" classification rule.

Junior Fuss Ends; Final to Continue

MONTREAL (CP)—Estevan Bruins took a break from their Memorial Cup final Thursday night to watch a Stanley Cup game and defenceman Kerry Ketter cheered when Doug Harvey committed an error that cost St. Louis Blues the game.

"Harvey let the forward (Dick Duff) get through on the inside—away from the boards—just like I did Wednesday night," Ketter said, referring to the Estevan game against Niagara Falls Flyers.

The mistake that gave Montreal Canadiens a 4-3 overtime victory and a 3-0 lead in the final was more costly than Ketter's error, which also cost his club a goal but only after the Bruins had taken a 3-0 lead.

Estevan had gone on to win the game 4-2 and even the best-of-seven Canadian junior hockey championship 1-1.

The series resumes in Niagara Falls tonight after the Flyers management agreed to a financial guarantee to the Estevan club.

SETTLED THURSDAY

The matter was settled Thursday night after general manager Scotty Munro threatened to take his team home and forfeit the series unless the dates for the final four games were set and a guarantee offered.

"And I wasn't bluffing either," Munro said. "We were going to pull right out. We proved we are as good as they are, so forfeiting the Memorial Cup didn't matter that much—you can't eat the championship."

Munro was especially angered because the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association had not scheduled the final four games of the series.

"And we weren't going on the ice Friday night in Niagara Falls without a guarantee or the full schedule set. This schedule should be set at the start of the hockey season. This is ridiculous."

The fourth game of the series is set for Niagara Falls Monday and the fifth there Wednesday. The final two games, if necessary, will be played next Friday and Saturday, also in Niagara Falls.

TRACK MEET AT STADIUM

Some of the top athletes of the Pacific Northwest are expected to perform at Centennial Stadium on June 22, when the Victoria YM-YWCA stages an all-day track and field meet.

Age - class competition is slated to start in the morning and run through the afternoon. A full slate of open events for men and women is scheduled for the evening.

Rom Knott Park Unveiled Sunday

The Rom Knott Memorial Park, at the corner of Sluggett and Wallace Drive in Brentwood, will be commemorated Sunday beginning at 12:30 p.m.

Brentwood meets View Royal in a bantam girl's softball match to open the program. Ceremonies and presentations conducted by Vic Dawson will follow.

At 3 p.m. juvenile boys' softball teams from View Royal and Brentwood tangle in a wind-up game.

NATIONAL LEAGUE . . . . . . SETS BIG PRICE

Expansion Charge Is 10 Million

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The two expansion franchises in the National League will cost $4,000,000 each, plus another $6,000,000 for 30 players, the Sporting News reports in a copyright story.

Groups from Montreal, Buffalo, N.Y., Milwaukee, Wis., Dallas-Fort Worth, Tex., and San Diego, Calif., are believed to be seeking the baseball franchises.

Publisher C. Johnson Spink says he learned of the $10,000,000 price tag through a leak in secrecy surrounding negotiations for the two expansion franchises, which are expected to be named in about three weeks. Spink said principals in the negotiations were sworn to secrecy by the league's expansion committee.

The American League has announced its two expansion franchises will cost about $5,500,000. The Sporting News reports another difference in the expansion plans of the two leagues will be that the new National League clubs will share in television income while the fledgling American League teams will not.

ALL-STAR SWIM MEET AT CRYSTAL SATURDAY

Gerry Vowles, coach of Victoria Olympians, will be guiding the Evergreen All-Stars at the Crystal Garden Saturday in a swimming meet against Triton (Seattle) and Tacoma All-Stars.

Vowles will have about 17 of his Olympians on the Evergreen squad, along with aces from New Westminster, North Vancouver, Puyallup and Port Angeles clubs. Also with the Evergreens will be two stars with Canadian Dolphins, of Vancouver, including Allan Kimber, former British Olympic swimmer.

Included on the star-studded Triton-Tacoma team is Olympic backstroke champion Kaye Hall.

Competition in Saturday's two-hour meet is slated to start at 5 p.m.

Slowest Derby Decision Plodding Toward Finish

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The slowest decision in Kentucky Derby history is plodding toward the finish line.

The end, most probably, will come Monday when the owner, trainer and handlers of Dancer's Image appear before Churchill Downs stewards in a hearing to determine who drugged the horse, when they did it and why.

Dancer's Image, winner of last Saturday's Derby, was disqualified Tuesday after stewards at the track announced traces of phenylbutazone were found in a urine specimen taken from the colt after the race.

"Only one point remains to be settled," public relations director Kelso Sturgeon said, "and that is the innocence or guilt of the parties connected with Dancer's Image."

The hearing could be more than that.

It gives owner Peter Fuller of Boston and trainer Lou Cavalaris of Toronto an opportunity to question procedures used in the urinalysis. Presumably, they could even question the staff that conducted it.

WON'T COMMENT

It also will include testimony about how much of the drug was uncovered in the test. This is the crux of the problem and, until the hearing, those involved won't comment.

Cavalaris has said he gave the colt two tablets of phenylbutazone on the Sunday before the Derby—six days before the big race—at about 10:30 a.m. He said that is the only dose the colt had to his knowledge, in his life.

Veterinarians say the drug usually wears off in about 85 hours.

If testimony at the hearing shows only a trace of the drug was found in the urine, it could be a freak accident. If much more was there, it would indicate foul play.

In either case, Kentucky racing rules call for disqualification of Dancer's Image and redistribution to give the $122,600 first prize to Forward Pass.

FISHING REPORT

Fish 'n' Chips Rather Obvious

By STEWART LANG

Stan Chips' timing is apt to create a great rush to the waters as the summer's first holiday weekend approaches.

Even though reports indicate the salmon fishing outlook has taken a big swing for the better, not everyone can be guaranteed of matching the fish that were with Chips Thursday.

The Rocky Point resident, working the kelp on the Rocky Point side of Pedder Bay, came in Thursday night with one of the largest salmon caught in South Vancouver Island waters by a sportsman this year.

The lunker, caught on a No. 5 Wonder Spoon, weighed 32 pounds!

It didn't do much for the egos of Chuck Kavouski and Art Barin. Normally, they would have been satisfied to show off the 14-pounders they hauled in from Pedder Bay earlier in the day.

Chips' effort changed that.

* * *

Lloyd Bergeron landed a 18-pound, six-ounce spring off Anglers' Anchorage to take the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association's monthly trophy.

Dorothy Horel, with a 19:12 catch, took the women's trophy, and John Gordon brought in the junior division winner.

* * *

Swinging away from the water, Victoria Fish and Game Association will set up its annual argument between shotgunners and riflemen Sunday.

Winner of the popular shootout receives the "Well-Shot Trophy"—a cup riddled with bullet and shot holes.

Firing starts at the club's Esquimalt Lagoon rifle range at 10 a.m.

* * *

ON THE WATER: Saanich Inlet remains a good prospect for the weekend ... At the bottom of Finlayson Arm, Goldstream Island to Hall's Boathouse is producing regularly, with springs building up in greater quantities all over the Saanich Inlet ... Roy Smith had a limit of 15, 8½, 6-pounders plus one a little smaller while John Fletcher landed a 16¼-pounder along with one 7¾-pound and two jacksprings off Hall's.

Blues are still around but seemingly have become choosy in what they'll take.

Jim Gilbert reports that herring are "flooding" into the Inlet much like they did three years ago, bringing with them an early influx of springs ... Bite periods are critical as a result and you have to be there at the right time and with the right lure ... Tod Inlet to Willis Point area is where the springs are coming in from the most frequently ... McKenzie Bay, Cole Bay and Indian Bay also might be good bets for spring fishing.

* * *

A heavy population of bluebacks can be found in the Inlet around Cole Bay, Willis Point and Ricky's Roost ... Best rig is a light leader, long line and small weight ... Bamberton Shore remains slow, probably due to the lack of fishing pressure.

Anglers' Anchorage is holding a Mother's Day derby, with an hour's free boat rental being offered the ladies on a three-hour limit Sunday.

Oak Bay's best spots are Trial Island to The Gap with five-14-pound springs showing ... Bill Burroughs brought back an 11 and 7 on Wednesday and 13, 10 and five-pounders on Thursday.

Extra-Base Edge Benefits Colony

An extra-base barrage gave Colony Inn that "little extra" in Senior Men's Softball League action at Central Park on Thursday.

Colony dropped Molsons 8-5 despite the fact losers out-hit the winners, 11-10.

Triples by Don Paulin, Carl Walker and Steve Bishop helped supply the extra difference. Paulin, Rich Lee and Wayne King each banged out two hits for Colony.

BROUSSEAU BUSY

Ron Brousseau banged out two singles, a double and a triple for Molsons.

Bob Caldwell, with relief help from veteran Rod Turner, gained credit for the win.

Tonight, Red Lions face Carlings at 6:45.

Lakers Trim Canadiens

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Peterborough Lakers made their National Lacrosse Association home debut Thursday night and downed Montreal Canadiens 24-10 before a crowd of 2,400.

Joe Todd scored five goals to pace the winners. Team captain Cy Coombs scored four while John Davis, Rich Anthony, Bill Armour, Jim Paterson, Carm Collins and Larry Ferguson got two each.

For the losers, Bill Caspator scored three goals and Barry Deslile, and Michel Blanchard each scored twice.

Button Match Tied

The Glen Meadows pair of George Sparling and Poly Howard retained possession of the city senior golf buttons as they came from behind at the Uplands course to finish all square with Gorge Vale challengers Moke Morgan and Clare Mitchell. The match will be replayed.

Callison's Hit Muscle Didn't Require Weights

By Associated Press

Johnny Callison has thrown away his weights and now his bat is weighing into Philadelphia's push towards the top of the National League.

Callison drove in four runs with a double, triple and home run Thursday night, helping the Phillies beat Cincinnati Reds 7-3. It was the third straight victory over the Reds for the Phillies and the second straight game in which Callison homered.

The victory pulled the Phillies into second place, one game ahead of Cincinnati, Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants and three back of idle St. Louis Cardinals.

The Dodgers dropped Chicago Cubs 6-0, Houston Astros downed San Francisco 5-3 and Atlanta Braves topped Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2 in other National League games Thursday. day.

BUILD TIRED MUSCLES

Callison spent a week last winter with Gene Berde, 63, the conditioning expert from Wakefield, Mass., who was credited with developing the body-building program that turned Carl Yastrzemski into baseball's top slugger last year.

"It wasn't a muscle-building thing," says Callison of the week he spent under Berde's tutelage. "As a matter of fact, he told me to throw away my weights. He told me all they did is build tired muscles."

So Callison climbed ropes, went through breathing exercises and rested his tired muscles. The result was a revitalized spring in which he felt leaner and stronger than at any time during his career.

In the first inning of Thursday night's game, he followed a walk to Tony Taylor and Cookie Rojas' single with his three-base hit.

Jackson's bases-loaded single in the second got Atlanta off in front and then he singled home another run with two-out in the eighth inning. Jim Britton, another rookie, relieved Reed in the ninth and got the final out.

Rocky Colavito smashed his third homer in two days for Los Angeles and Bill Singer's three-hitter shut out the Cubs.

Zoilo Versalles and Bob Bailey also connected for the Dodgers.

In the American League, home runs steered Chicago White Sox back onto the pennant trail.

Pete Ward smacked two solo shots to power the Sox to a 4-2 victory over Oakland Athletics. Chicago now has won eight of its last 13 with homers opening the door for at least five of the victories.

Elsewhere in the A.L., Minnesota Twins rallied to edge California Angels 4-3 in 10 innings and Washington Senators clipped Boston Red Sox 3-1 behind the pitching of Phil Ortega and Dave Baldwin.

6.3 Mill Hike For Ladysmith

LADYSMITH—Taxes in Ladysmith will rise 6.37 mills this year to a total of 65.12 mills.

The biggest part of the increase is accounted for by a 4.49 boost in the school rate.

Owner of a home with a $7,500 assessment value will pay about $40 more in taxes.

Overall tax increase is 7 per cent.

Mayor Kay Grouhel said: "It's not a flamboyant budget but simply meeting essential needs.

ONE MILL

"Apart from the school rate increase and additional levy for social welfare we have increased just one mill for general purposes.

"This will be money for the start of a program of road renewal."

In general expenditures there are no spectacular jumps in any department except in the provincial levy for social welfare which goes from $13,500 last year to $34,000.

$7,000 INCREASE

The works department budget is up $7,000 to $70,000.

Total cost of running the town this year will be $547,268.

Administration officer R. W. Ovenden of Ladysmith school district said capital expenditures for essential equipment account for 2.4 mills of the school rate increase.

He said this was a direct result of the failure of the November, 1965, referendum.

●

June 1 Vote On School Referendum

LADYSMITH— After a two-and-a-half year delay taxpayers in Ladysmith school district will vote June 1 on a $1,046,900 referendum.

A November, 1965, referendum which sought to integrate secondary school education at Ladysmith and close Chemainus high school was heavily defeated.

The new referendum provides for extended facilities for secondary education at Ladysmith and Chemainus.

Both junior-secondary high schools will be developed, Ladysmith to the tune of $478.000 and Chemainus at a cost of $380,800.

SEPTEMBER START

This will include site development, reconstruction of buildings, furnishings and equipment.

In addition the referendum includes $35,300 for a new district maintenance building.

District administrator R. W. Ovenden said Thursday it might be possible to begin construction in September but the additions would not be ready until the beginning of the 1969-70 term.

The referendum projects district needs to 1971.

SHEEP CASE

Judgment On Monday

Verdict will be handed down Monday in the Sidney trial of a man charged with killing a sheep.

Robert Turnbull, Thetis Lake Trailer Park, is charged with unlawfully killing sheep March 21 on Sidney Island.

Court was told Thursday the accused was seen pointing a rifle at the sheep. Shots were heard.

Defence lawyer Robert Price asked that the case be dismissed as the Crown had failed to prove beyond a reasonable doubt the accused had wilfully killed the sheep mentioned.

Mr. Price said the case was weak and there were many other rational explanations for the evidence presented.

CHEMAINUS — A Westholme resident, Solomon Seward, 19, was jailed for six months at Chemainus court after pleading guilty to charges of theft.

Seward admitted stealing a fishing troller from Nanaimo May 3, and subsequently sailing it to Chain Island off Crofton and breaking into a house and stealing camping equipment, food and clothing.

LOGGER KILLED

NANAIMO — A 21-year-old logger was killed Thursday and his partner injured in an accident on a mountainside, 18 miles southwest of the city.

Dead is Fred Galitsky of Nanaimo, an employee of Mallock-Mosely Logging Co. of Sooke, which operates in the MacKay Lake district. He was struck by a log while setting chokers.

The same log struck his partner, Frank Garrow. Two feet of snow on the ground, which cushioned the impact, probably saved his life.

Mr. Garrow is reported in good condition in Nanaimo Hospital.

SUSPENSION FOR LIFE ASKED

NANAIMO (CP)—Magistrate Stan Wardill Thursday recommended that a Victoria man be barred from driving for life.

James Watson Sivertson, 26, 565 Hallsor Drive, who crashed his car into a storefront early Thursday, was sentenced to three months for dangerous driving and one month for driving while under suspension.

"It is safe to say that your dangerous driving was one of the worst we've ever had in Nanaimo," the magistrate said.

Sivertson, who pleaded guilty, admitted 1963 convictions for driving under suspension at Campbell River and for criminal negligence, driving under suspension, hit and run and speeding in the Greater Victoria area.

★ ★ ★

NANAIMO — Brian Keith Roberts, 22, driver of a car involved in a highway accident that claimed the life of another man, was fined $300 by a county court judge after a jury found him guilty of impaired driving.

Killed in the accident May 6, 1967, was Michael Shogan, driver of a sports car that collided with Roberts' vehicle.

SMALLER TREES, MORE APPLES

Miracle Drug Manipulates Nature

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Higher yields for fruit trees.
Controlled tree growth.
Disease killing.
Gardening made easier.

It's all made possible by a new "miracle drug" which in effect bypasses nature.

The chemical—officially alar succinic acid 2,2-dimethylhydrazide—has been approved for public use after several years of study and testing at the Dominion Experimental Station Farm at Saanichton.

But its commercial use has been restricted to ornamentals and tree fruit crops, Harry Andison, director of the research station, said today.

He said the chemical will have a revolutionary effect in the control of plant growth.

"It's a breakthrough," he said. "Tests carried out at the farm showed that it works wonders on fruits, grapes and ornamentals."

Alar reduced the size of apples—the heavier the dose, the smaller the fruit. This makes it useful for young vigorous Sparton and McIntosh trees whose fruit often creates storage problems.

It cures diseases. An application in mid-July resulted in a dramatic reduction in scalding during storage.

It spurs apple trees and grape vines to produce higher yields.

The chemical may also make it no longer necessary to raise dwarf apple trees by grafting them on rooted stock.

Tests show that when a tree is treated with the chemical its growth can be controlled. It remains dwarf instead of growing to its maximum height of 20 feet or more.

●

This is what apple growers want—dwarf trees which produce a maximum crop. Large fruit trees are uneconomical to harvest because of high labor costs.

"The day of the large fruit trees is finished," said Mr. Andison. "Growers all over the world are planting dwarf trees because the fruit is easier to harvest."

The drug will solve many of the gardener's problems—especially trees and shrubs which get out of hand. Their growth can be halted.

Some idea of its effect is shown by an experiment carried out by Jack Crossley, research officer in charge of ornamentals at the farm.

A few years ago, he sprayed the chemical on evergreens used for landscaping. They have remained the same height ever since. It would undoubtedly have the same effects on a fast-growing hedge, thus eliminating clipping.

Rhododendrons also bloomed earlier and heavier.

●

Studies showed that alar reduces the size of plant cells—makes them more compact. But no one knows yet why and it may take years before scientists find out.

It is also a comparatively safe chemical to use—much safer than DDT and many other pesticides on the market.

Alar is not yet available on the Victoria market, but according to horticulturists it won't be long before commercial fruit growers and gardeners catch on.

MISSION ACCOMPLISHED

So Much for Solander Rock . . . And It's Blasted Winds!

By PAUL MUSGROVE

A dead-game Department of Transport crew isn't likely to forget Solander Rock.

The crew has just returned from the barren rock off Cape Cook on the west coast of V.I. after installing a 40,000 candlepower lighthouse in a small tower 300 feet above the sea.

The operation, which started Feb. 20, presented a continuous hazard to men and machine as high winds lashed the rock.

All told, three attempts were made to install the unmanned tower before the final, successful effort, last Friday.

Superintendent of Lights, Bill Exley said wind was the big problem from the start.

After unsuccessful attempts on March 7 and April 21 the concrete base was finally poured on April 30 with the help of an Alouette helicopter.

HELICOPTER HELPED

Since the cement mixer could only be set up on the far side of Solander from lighthouse operations, concrete had to be taken up the smaller of the two peaks and carried across a deep gully on a cable.

The base was erected on an area only 15 feet in diameter.

Once again bad weather closed in, halting further operations.

On May 3 the Camsell was in the area and the weather began to break. Coast Guard pilot Ivor Roberts flew the helicopter north, taking with him John Robillard as engineer.

About 6 p.m. Friday the weather calmed.

Mr. Roberts said: "We needed good conditions and we got them.

"It was beautiful the way everything on the job fitted right in."

Since the pilot of a helicopter cannot see the load on the sling underneath his aircraft, he must relp on signals from a man on the ground.

The Solander required two men to signal, one right under the load and one on the face of another hill. Signals were relayed from the man underneath to Mr. Robillard on the other hill. He then relayed them to the pilot.

SURPRISE!

By about 8 the lighthouse — a fibreglass construction — was in place and bolted to the base. The light was mounted and switched on.

Nothing happened!

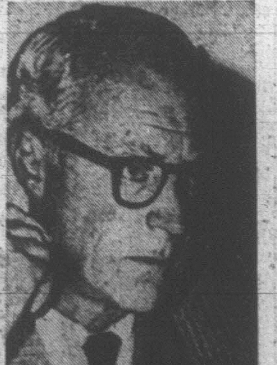
The light — suffering from the month's bouncing around on the Camsell's deck — required an overhaul.

The weather was again turning bad when the Camsell's chief electician Ben Stevenson and light technician Bill Grondin arrived.

The two men, working against worsening conditions, finally managed to complete the job and Solander's light became visible at Kain's Island, 20 miles away.

Mr. Exley said Thursday "the project required great determination and tenacity.

"We're very pleased with the dedication and teamwork of the entire crew."



BROCK

Admiral to Seek Tory Nomination

DUNCAN — A three-way contest has developed for the Conservative nomination for Cowichan-The Islands riding.

Seeking the Tory ticket to run against incumbent NDP member Colin Cameron are retired rear admiral Jeffry Brock, Nanaimo building contractor Eugene Harder, and former member for the riding W. F. (Bus) Mathews.

Admiral Brock, who lives in Nova Scotia, announced his intention Thursday and flew to Vancouver Island today.

He will meet constituency supporters at a quickly organized party rally in Duncan this evening.

The nominating convention is being held at the Shoreline Hotel, Nanaimo, at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Admiral Brock, 53, retired from the navy as a direct result of his opposition to the integration policies of then defence minister Paul Hellyer.

He is vice-president of the Nova Scotia Conservative Association and a close associate of Tory Leader Robert Stanfield.

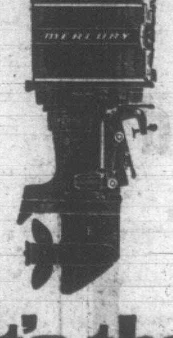
There's an easy way to tell a Mercury from other outboards.



It's the quiet one.

If you don't believe us, just drop down to the nearest lake or marina and give a listen. A Mercury outboard is quieter than other outboards to begin with because of the way it's built: internal reed valves, tighter-fitting parts with closer tolerances and Jet-Prop exhaust. But that's just a starter. Mercury adds a rubber-mounted aluminum wraparound cowling with sound-absorbent liner, Dyna-Float suspension, Power-Dome combustion chambers and sound-sealed remote control and fuel line fittings. But enough details. The important thing is that a Mercury isn't just quieter than any other outboard—it's the quietest outboard you can buy! Your Mercury dealer will be happy to arrange a listen.

TRUDEAU WILL VISIT FAR NORTH

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau will pay a flying visit to the Yukon and the Northwest Territories on his weekend western trip, it has been announced.

Instead of flying direct from Vancouver to Edmonton, Mr. Trudeau will fly Saturday from Vancouver to Whitehorse where he will be met by the city's mayor and the Yukon territory commissioner.

After a later private meeting with the commissioner, the prime minister flies to Yellowknife to spend the night in the Northwest Territories city.

The following morning, Sunday, he goes to church, meets with officials again and flies to Edmonton in the afternoon in time for a private dinner with U Thant, the United Nations secretary-general and a few others.

As previously announced, Mr. Trudeau flies to Vancouver today in a government plane, arriving in time to address the Council of Forest Industries in the British Columbia city.

LEADS PARADE

After spending the night at a Vancouver motel, he will drive over to neighboring New Westminster to head a parade with the New Westminster mayor.

When the parade is over, he flies to the Yukon.

In Edmonton Monday, he has a private talk with Mr. Thant prior to the afternoon convocation at which both will receive honorary degrees.

The prime minister, who has not yet officially started his campaign for the June 25 election, is expected to attend a Monday evening dinner at which Mr. Thant will speak.

The government plane will take him to Montreal Monday night. He speaks there to a Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce before returning to Ottawa.

Travel Agents Of 10 Nations Arrive Monday

Seventy travel agents from Europe and California will arrive in Victoria Monday on a five-day tour sponsored by the B.C. government.

They will travel here from Vancouver via Nanaimo and the Malahat Highway.

The agents—32 from nine European countries and the remainder from California—are part of a joint promotion sponsored by the B.C. department of travel industry and Canadian Pacific Airlines.

R. B. Worley, deputy minister, said the tour is intended to show agents that travel in B.C. is a sound economical idea.

"Californians are particularly interested in this area because of President Johnson's plea to Americans to stay on the North American continent this year."

Angry Civvie Enters Barracks After His Man

A civilian who walked into Naden unchallenged and assaulted a serviceman in his barracks was fined $75 in central court Thursday.

William Aylesworth, 1155 Heald St., pleaded guilty.

Court was told Aylesworth suspected LAC Elgin Jones of damaging his car.

He went to CFB Esquimalt early in the morning of April 20, drove through the gates, went to Jones' room and assaulted him.

During the court hearing a navy man suddenly stood up and told Magistrate Ostler that while Naden security might not be perfect it wasn't that bad.

The magistrate told the man to sit down. He said it was "most impolite" of him to interrupt the court.

Costly Motoring

Eugene Gayse, 1245 Rockcrest Avenue, was fined $100 Thursday for driving while his licence was suspended.

Court was told Gayse's licence had been suspended earlier but police observed him Monday driving on Peter Street.

Nova Scotia Premier Shuffles His Cabinet Posts

By IAN DONALDSON

HALIFAX (CP) — Premier G. I. Smith shuffled his 12-man Progressive Conservative cabinet Thursday and the changes set off immediate speculation.

Political observers attached particular significance to the cabinet promotions of two of Mr. Smith's younger ministers —W. S. Kennedy Jones and Dr. Thomas J. McKeough.

Mr. Jones, 48, moves to the senior finance and economic portfolio, held by Mr. Smith for the last six years. Mr. Jones, former house Speaker, had been trade and industry minister and will retain responsibility for Industrial Estates Ltd., the provincial industry-promotion agency.

Dr. McKeough, 45, part-time minister in the labor portfolio, becomes a full-time minister of trade and industry, giving up a medical practice in Cape Breton.

Both Mr. Jones and Dr. McKeough are considered possible successors to Mr. Smith, 59, who became premier last year after Robert Stanfield was named national Conservative leader.

Other cabinet changes announced Thursday:

—Highways Minister Stephen Pyke becomes mlister of lands and forests and public works.

—E. D. Haliburton, former forests and fisheries minister, was appointed provincial secretary.

—Welfare Minister James Harding takes on the fisheries portfolio.

—Agriculture Minister I. W. Akerley moves to highways.

—Harvey Veniot, Speaker since 1961, becomes agriculture minister.

—G. H. Fitzgerald, 41, PC member for Halifax Cobequid, will be nominated Speaker at the next session of the legislature.

Horse Show Tests Riders and Steeds

Skills of man and animal will be put to the test at the Victoria Riding Academy May 18, 19 and 20.

Starting with junior events on the 18th, Victoria riders will compete in number of competitions to test not only the rider but the horse as well.

Points are awarded for such things as performance, manners and suitability.

Junior events are open to riders under 18 years of age on Jan. 1, 1968.

May 19 will feature dressage—the highest training of rider and horse. Horses are guided over a set course by minute pressures of a nearly motionless rider's arms and legs.

FOUR CLASSES

Four levels of dressage are offered in this year's competitions—preliminary, novice, elementary and medium 1. Riders are allowed to enter any or all of the events.

About 25 entries are expected. The last day of the show, May 19, will be senior competitions. Events are exacting with points awarded for manners, performance, way of going, quality, substance and soundness.

Sixteen events are scheduled for the division, ranging from novice jumping to Arabian-English pleasure.

Union Official Hits Quebec Special Status

British Columbia shipyard workers would have "a greater understanding" if the prime minister came from this province, a union spokesman said today.

Neil Hindle, business agent for the Victoria local of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, said "no one has to be a great observer" to see the Liberal party anticipates gaining increased votes from Quebec province.

His comments came after a move by Ottawa and Quebec cabinet ministers to save a Quebec shipyard from closing down.

Jean Marchand, federal manpower minister; Jean-Marie Morin, Quebec minister without portfolio, and Jean Lesage, Liberal opposition leader in Quebec, each said federal-provincial co-operation is necessary to keep the George T. Davie shipyard in Lauzon open and save the jobs of 1,000 workers.

Mr. Hindle said it is "too bad" that federal and provincial politicians didn't show the same concern when closure of Victoria Machinery Depot was announced last fall because of a lack of federal contracts.

Unemployment among shipyard workers has been considerable since the closure and a sharp decline in work at Yarrows. The boilermakers union has nearly 400 of 700 members without work.

"It seems that in B.C. we're completely isolated from the 'just society' of which Prime Minister Trudeau speaks," he said.

He was convinced that Quebec has "special status" with the federal Liberal government.

SKYSCRAPER BURIALS PLANNED BY BRAZILIANS

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI)—Alderman Oswaldo Giraldes Thursday asked city hall to authorize construction of 10-storey buildings to be used as cemeteries.

He said present cemetery space in this city of nearly six million people will be used up within 10 years.

Giraldes suggested the first two floors of the proposed "heaven scrapers" be used as chapels, and the remainder set aside for vaults.

COUNTDOWN STARTS

Is 'Miss Canada' Among Our Girls?

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Count-down commences Monday evening for 10 charming young women, finalists in this year's Junior Chamber of Commerce Miss Victoria (May Queen) contest.

Forbes

They will appear each night at the Jaycee Fair. Judges will be there and on Saturday evening their choice of three of the 10 will be made public. One young girl will then assume the Miss Victoria crown for a year and the other two will act as princesses.

It's been an exciting six or seven weeks for these girls. Right from the moment they were chosen finalists from a group that numbered many times 10.

Initial choice was on the basis of personality, intelligence and poise. Then came a crash program that included what one committee member calls "the charm school bit."

* * *

Sponsored by The Bay, and supervised by Eleanor Moilliet and Adele Lewis, the group was given lessons in deportment and the social amenities, in make-up and hair styling. They learned how to walk gracefully and how to dress to suit their personalities.

Each has a talent to present on stage next week. Gerry Gosley helped them to round out this talent and in some instances, to find one.

The girls themselves have been eager to learn. They worked hard.

They are ready to appear before the public wearing smart sportswear and daytime dresses, evening formals and bathing suits.

* * *

Once Miss Victoria and her princesses are chosen a busy 12 months commences for them. They will represent our city in parades, at fairs and festivals and other events in this province and in the western states. Starting, of course, with the May Day parade here a week Monday.

A chaperone goes with the girls at all times. This year it's Mrs. G. (Lois) Johnstone, assisted by Mrs. C. (Lynn) Richards. They were named when the 1968 contest committee was formed and they have been with the girls since they were named finalists.

Judges are Wilf Dick of Woodward's, Eric Mallet of the B.C. Telephone Company, Nick North, Helen Beirnes and Mrs. W. Armstrong, wife of the senior Chamber of Commerce president.

They join an outstanding list of men and women who have judged Miss Victoria contests over the years.

Among these are George Chatterton, Stan Murphy when he was Saanich Reeve, Alderman Hugh Ramsay, Esquimalt Mayor Ray Bryant, Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis and wife Sheila, Monty Aldous, head of the B.C. Ferries, Mrs. Percy Scurrah, Alderman Lily Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Walters, Mrs. C. C. (Irene) Warren, who is co-ordinating next week's Miss Victoria fashion show, Times fashion editor Nona Damaske who has also acted as a chaperone, and a host of others.

That these judges chose well was shown a few years back when Nina Holden as Miss Victoria, came second in the Miss Canada contest and went on to wear the crown when the winner bowed out.

Petite Vivi Peterson was another Miss Victoria who became runner-up for the Miss Canada title. Others have been finalists in Miss PNE contests.

* * *

This could be another lucky year!

At the beginning of May I told you about Dr. Cecil French and his dream of starting a silk worm industry in Victoria and on Vancouver Island, especially among school children.

Since then I've had a telephone call from a Victoria matron who tells me that before she was married she worked with the silkworms in Dr. French's laboratory at the corner of Gordon and Courtney streets.

One of her duties was to ride the streetcars out to the various schools, collect the cocoons children had been watching form and bring them back to the laboratory where the silk was carefully unravelled on bobbins for spinning the thread.

DEATH of Allan Holmes, 85, publisher of The Reporter for 46 years, was announced at Galt, Ont., today.

Stamp Fans Exhibiting On Mainland

Stamp collectors in Victoria and in 43 other centres in the Pacific Northwest are expected to enter displays in an exhibition in New Westminster starting May 24.

As many as 400 frames of stamps are expected for the three-day exhibition in the Royal Towers Hotel.

Entries will be coming from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Alaska, Alberta, Saskatchewan and the Yukon as well as British Columbia.

A special cancellation advertising the convention will be made on envelopes mailed out of New Westminster.

Details may be obtained from J. Pascoe Taylor, 2616 East 21st Avenue, Vancouver, 12.

LIONEL ROGG HERE

Organ Recital Saturday

An outstanding contemporary organist, Geneva-born Lionel Rogg, will present an organ recital at Christ Church Cathedral Saturday at 8 p.m.

Mr. Rogg is professor of organ at the Conservatory of Geneva and has been organist at St. Boniface Church there since he was 15.

He started giving concerts extensively through Europe in 1961 and performed the complete organ works of J. S. Bach in 10 highly successful concerts at Victoria Hall in Geneva.

He has given recitals in Switzerland, Austria, France, Germany, Holland, Italy, Belgium, Spain and England, and in 1965 made his first visit to the United States and Canada.

Mr. Rogg has also participated widely in European festivals.

Critical commentary has been enthusiastic in London, at Oxford, in Lausanne, Montreux, Montreal and wherever he has appeared.

Concerning his recording of the complete works of Bach, The American Organist commented: "Lionel Rogg is a musicain of great maturity and an organist with flawless technique.

SUMMER THEATRE WORKSHOP

Uvic Players Audition Called

Preliminary auditions will be held Saturday and Sunday for the University of Victoria Summer Theatre Workshop which begins July 2.

Martin Jenkins, British Broadcasting Corporation producer, has returned to Victoria to act as co-ordinator of the workshop, the role he carried out so successfully last summer.

He will also direct the Workshop production of Romeo and Juliet.

On Saturday, between 10 a.m. and noon, Mr. Jenkins will audition students interested in the technical course.

Saturday and Sunday, from 1:30 to 5:30, he will talk to secondary school students between 15 and 18 who wish to undertake the full acting course.

Auditions will be repeated in June for those unable to be present this weekend.

All auditions will be held in the Phoenix Theatre and anyone wishing to make an appointment should call Mr. Jenkins at 477-4821.

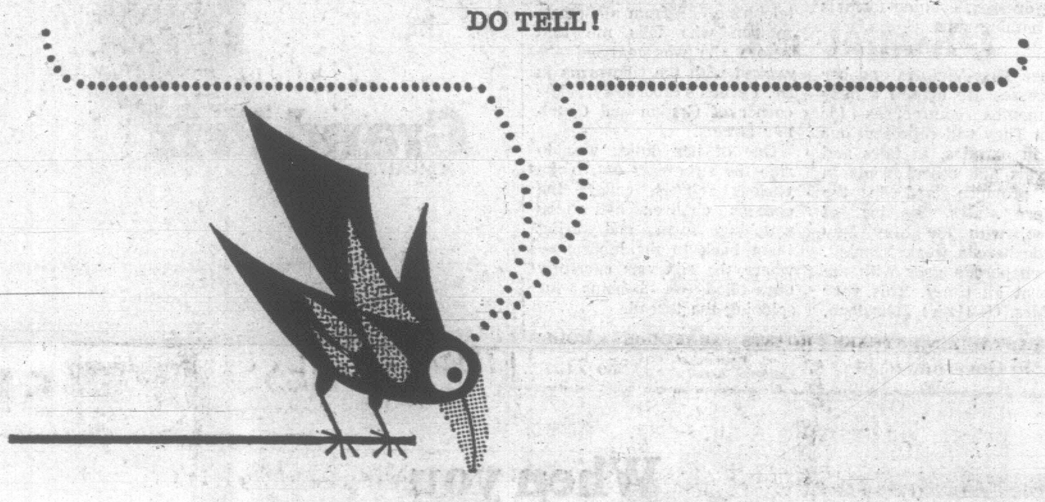
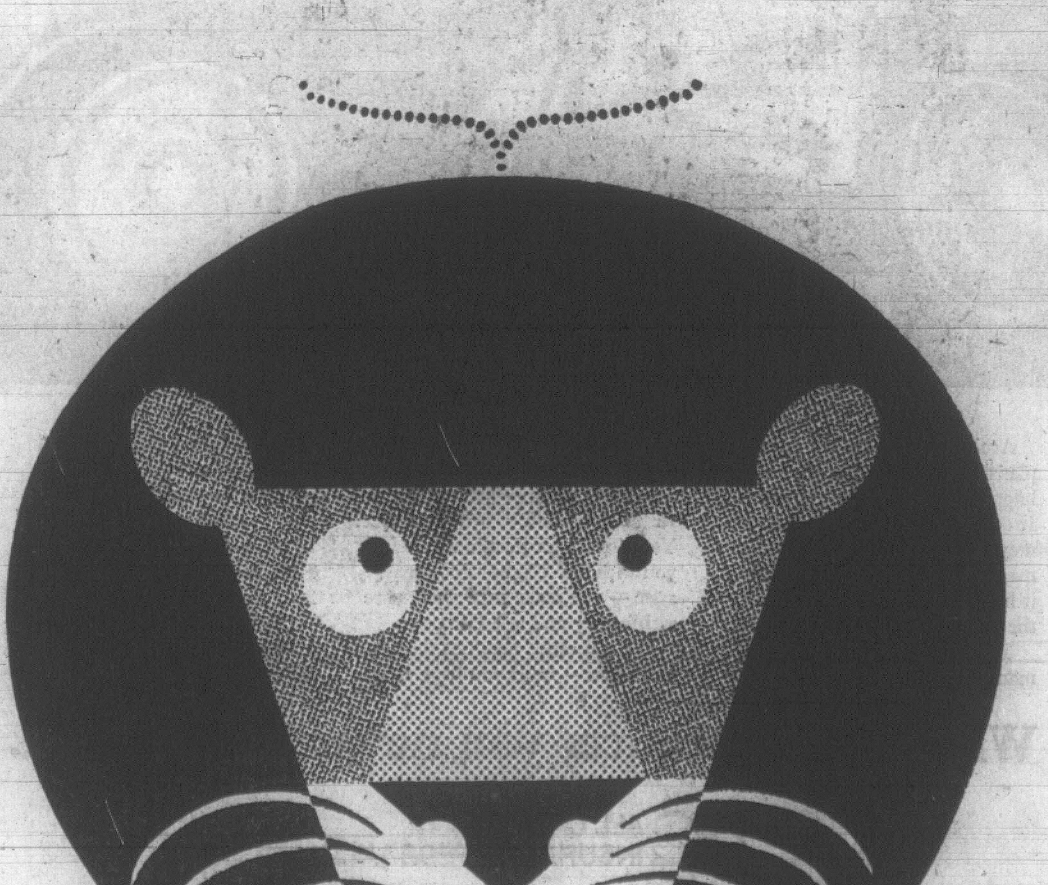
SAFARI-LAND ???
2 FOR THE PRICE OF 1!
DO TELL!



YES, THAT'S RIGHT!
TWO FOR THE PRICE OF ONE (for a limited time only, starting May 11).
CLIP THIS WHOLE AD and bring it with you when you come to SAFARI-LAND, Victoria's newest family entertainment and Canada's most exciting Wildlife Exhibit at 900 Government Street. Open daily between 10:00 a.m and 10:00 p.m. Enjoy the thrills of a once-in-a-lifetime sightseeing safari. Explore the jungle trails and see the exotic giant cats, all life-size, unbelievably realistic and beautifully displayed in their natural surroundings. Stand in awe in front of the world's biggest bears, the Polar and Kodiak. Talk to our many live animals, they all won't answer but our famous parrots will. Young and old will be amazed at this whole delightful experience, which is truly family entertainment. Don't forget your camera, there's nothing like it anywhere.



Police Circus Stars A Human Cannonball

A human cannonball will highlight the Victoria Policemen's Union circus next week in the Esquimalt Sports Centre.

The act of firing a man from a cannon will take place in the parking lot instead of inside because the ceiling is too low. The show will run from Monday to Thursday with firings at 4:30 and 8 p.m. each day.

Also featured are animals from the CBS television show Daktari, and bears from the show Gentle Ben.

There will be performing clowns, dogs, elephants and aerialists.

Advance tickets are already sold out but others will be available at the door.

Proceeds will go to the Queen Alexandra Solarium, the cerebral palsy campaign, the police youth band and the Victoria Boys' Club.

NAMED general manager of English networks of the CBC is Eugene S. Hallman, 49, who will move to a Toronto office July 1. He is at present vice-president in charge of programming at CBC's Ottawa headquarters. (CP Wirephoto.)

Guilty of Rape

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Leonard Pruden, 43, of Island Cache, was found guilty here of the statutory rape of a nine-year-old girl. Sentence will be passed May 28.

WORSE THAN MENTAL ILLNESS?

Competency of Addicts Doctors Hit

TORONTO (CP) — Doctors who suffer from drug addiction or alcoholism are more likely to be medically incompetent than those who suffer from mental illness, an American doctor told the Ontario Medical Association Thursday.

Dr. John C. Duffy, professor at the University of Minnesota medical school, said that all too often such addicted physicians "are seldom motivated to accept help for their problem."

"Until psychiatry evolves a better understanding of these disorders . . . we are forced to take a more or less punitive stance on such conditions."

Dr. Duffy said if the medical profession does not act against medical incompetence, it will lose the privilege of dealing with medical ethics. The profession could be "reduced to the level of a commercial enterprise."

It was ironic that a profession committed to the concept of mental illness as a disease so often ignores, denies and punishes emotional illness in its own ranks.

Dr. Duffy said that if the medical profession uses harsh discipline on doctors who are mentally ill, it will drive the problem underground.

He recommended a non-judicial board to hear each case of incompetence and help the doctor get treatment. Such a board would not release any of its records without the doctor's consent.

Dr. Burke M. Smith, chief of psychology at the University of Virginia Hospital, Charlottesville, Va., told delegates the field of lie detection is still in the "horse and buggy age."

The polygraph lie-detector machine now used has not changed since 1920, he said.

At least 80 per cent of the operators of the machines were inadequately trained.

Some questions have unconscious meanings which could influence the outcome of a lie-detector test and "few polygraphers have the training, skill and interest or time to recognize and rectify such sources of error," he said.

Dr. Normand Belliveau, president of the Canadian Medical Association, told members that two Montreal institutions have surgical teams ready to transplant human hearts as soon as the need arises.

He did not name the hospitals.

Field Trip

The intermediate section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday at Douglas and Hillside for a field trip to Triangle Hill off the Sooke Road.

"Nature Walks" will be held Sunday at Francis Park starting at 10:30 a.m.

Legal Moves On Montreal Lottery Plan

By The Canadian Press

The Quebec legislature plugged some legal loopholes Thursday in its dispute with the City of Montreal over Mayor Jean Drapeau's voluntary tax program.

The legislature passed a bill which will guarantee the city an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada if the Montreal mayor's prize-awarding tax program is ruled an illegal lottery.

Justice Minister Jean-Jacques Bertrand, whose department considers Mr. Drapeau's program illegal, introduced the legislation. In effect, it changes the power of the Quebec Appeal Court.

The bill states that the legal opinion of the Quebec Appeal Court on the Montreal tax "shall be deemed a judgment of the said court."

SEEKS A RULING

The bill follows an order-in-council Wednesday which referred the case to the court for a decision whether the program "would contravene any provision of the Criminal Code."

Legislatures were also sitting Thursday in Newfoundland, Manitoba and Ontario.

St. John's: The Newfoundland legislature unanimously approved a resolution asking transfer of authority for handling Newfoundland divorce cases from the Senate to the province's Supreme Court.

Winnipeg: Sidney Green (NDP—Inkster) recommended the Manitoba legislature establish tax reform to reduce the financial penalty to property owners who improve their holdings.

Mr. Green said there appeared to be a contradiction involved in policy that taxed residents for improvement to their property. It appeared people were being given relief for not improving their holdings.

Toronto: The legislature was told that the Ontario farmer is being squeezed out of the competitive market by giant food companies.

Mac Makarchuk (NDP—Brantford) suggested the government consolidate its 22 marketing boards into five separate departments dealing with poultry, grain, meat, dairy produce and fruit and vegetables.

He said consolidated boards would have the power to deal with large companies which "are taking over."

Pearkes Opens Legion Talks In Penticton

Retiring Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will open the 22nd national conference of the Royal Canadian Legion in Penticton May 26.

He is the grand president of the 300,000-member veterans' organization.

About 1,700 delegates are expected to attend the five-day biennial convention. Resolutions and reports will be studied on subjects ranging from veterans' legislation to welfare for those in emerging countries.

This is the first Legion conference to be held in B.C. since 1956.

WHAT THIS COUNTRY NEEDS IT HAS . . .

That's right! It needs a good car under $2,000. And Cortina is it. Ford Cortina costs $1995. We admit it's not far under $2,000, but then it really can't be. It just offers so much!

FIRSTLY—It's not a small car. It's big and roomy.

SECONDLY—It has lots of power and economy.

THIRDLY—Its solid unit body construction makes it durable and quiet.

FOURTHLY—It is safety engineered to conform to all North American safety standards.

We could go on and on about Cortina features, but to keep the price down, we keep these ads small.

U.S. FOREST LAND SHORTAGE FEARED

THE ENEMY: 'CITY DWELLER'S DREAM'

'Stop the Conservationists' Cry Loggers

U.S. west coast loggers have been urged to take the initiative in preventing additional forest reserves from being tied up in the hands of conservationists.

James R. Turnbull, executive vice-president of the American Plywood Association, told delegates to the 23rd annual Olympic Logging Conference here Thursday the chief enemy of loggers today is the "city dweller's dream."

He sees a critical forest land shortage in the U.S.

"We now have about 484,000,000 acres in commercial forest land," Mr. Turnbull said. "By the year 2000 we will need almost twice that much, more than 700,000,000 acres, to meet the nation's wood product needs."

Urban opinion can be dealt with through persuasion, he said. The industry must increase its efforts to explain to the public that it is not an exploiter of forest resources.

Mr. Turnbull said many of the industry's land-locking problems would be solved if operators cleaned up logging operations on mountainsides.

The theme of the two-day conference is "Public Image and the Logger."

This morning conference delegates at a panel discussion of public image problems were told by Tom Erickson of Port Angeles "the only way we're going to improve this is to work on it."

Mr. Erickson told delegates that loggers must wage an uphill struggle to win favor in public opinion because this is in an urban society and most influence is exerted by those with urban interests.

Ninety per cent of the population will soon be living on only 1 per cent of the land, he said.

The 315 delegates were urged to improve the logger's public image.

"Today's logging men aren't two-fisted, brawling and drinking," said Ned Thomas, editor and associate publisher of the Port Angeles Evening News.

"Most of them are family men," he said. "Some even belong to the PTA."

The conference winds up with a banquet and ball in the Crystal Ballroom this evening

Arthur Mayse

The dog-run that weathers unused at the foot of our garden should have taught me a little something about home carpentry projects. But time's a healer, and anyway, what's so difficult about mending a busted fence? A job like that, you knock off on a Saturday with time left over for a bout of spading.

"Well," I said to my sweety while the day was young, "Time to get started. All we need is a couple of two-by-fours and a cedar post."

"That's nice," she said, "but are you sure it wouldn't be simpler to have a carpented do it"?

"At their rates?" I said, and shoved off all carefree to buy the wood with a "Measure up first!" to speed me.

If you have done business with a lumberyard, you know the procedure. You place your order and pay your money up front where they sell the tools, nails and builders' hardware.

Another thing you learn at a woodyard is that Saturday is fixit day. Seven customers were ahead of me, and each clutched a material list.

★

Time passed. I shifted from one foot to the other. So did the fellow next in line. Then his turn came, and I swear to Moses the guy must have been ordering the makings of a house.

After his, my order seemed hardly worth bothering with, but the man behind the counter was nice about it. He noted my pair of two-by-fours and the cedar post on his order form, and set down a price which I paid with a suppressed whimper. No wonder the lumber trade's in trouble!

Around back where they keep the stuff, everything's brisk and hearty. Up went my load to our cartop carrier — the kind that sits on suction cups — in two easy swings.

With a gentle squeak of over-burdened metal, the carrier settled an inch. Obviously, they aren't making car roofs the way they used to.

"That won't do," said the yard hand. "Maybe we'd better stick the post in your trunk."

What with the occasional ominous squeakings from aloft and a pause for relocating the post, I made poor time. But no matter ... a simple little job like that shouldn't take more than two or three hours at the outside.

First, though, the stump of the broken fencepost had to come out. I dug around it, then grabbed hold and heaved. Nothing happened. It was in there like an impacted molar, and to make sure it stayed in its pit, the original builder had anchored it with rocks.

★

Around two o'clock, I got tired of prying boulders from the bed they had settled into so determinedly, and sat down in the shade to devise an easier way.

Let's see now ... maybe a car jack and a rope sling ...

The stub popped out, the jack toppled and skinned my shin, and I realized at the same instant that the old post measured four-by-four, whereas the replacement I'd bought was six-by-six.

Scouting about, time now close to three and all not well, I discovered a post of the right length and size. It was jammed against the rear wheels of son Ron's camper — a precaution I dimly remember advising.

The camper was locked and neither Ron nor his keys were around. So I wrestled the too-big post out of the car trunk and behind the camper's front wheels. Then I kicked at the right-sized post, with no result beyond a painfully stubbed toe. So I hunted up a sledgehammer and bashed it free, splintering it somewhat in the process.

The afternoon and my patience were beginning to wear a trifle thin, but I planted the post, and, wearily grunting, replaced the rocks.

And there it stands with its slight northerly lean, a monument to home industry. Next Saturday, I'll finish the job for sure, if I can find my hammer and remember to buy nails and other necessary oddments. A carpenter would accomplish it quicker, and I begin to suspect more cheaply. But look at all the fun I'm having!

Dreams Crash At RC School, Students Glum

By JIM HUME

The blueprints still hang on the wall.

Thursday they were proud reminders that next September St. Louis College would move into the ranks of high schools offering the finest physical facilities to its students.

Friday they were grim reminders of a fund-raising campaign that failed.

After 104 years of service to the community St. Louis College will close its doors to Catholic high school students after the Grade 12 graduation ceremonies in June.

Closing of the college means more than the loss of an education facility: when the school goes, so will the Christian Brothers of Ireland, teachers at St. Louis' since 1915.

School principal Brother Malloy, in charge of the school for the past eight years, said it was "highly improbable" that he and his staff of seven would be re-assigned to duties in the Victoria area.

RE-ASSIGNMENT?

"We are a teaching order and our re-assignment will come from our Canadian superior," he said.

"But I can't see what there can be for us to do here once the college closes.

"We are not very cheerful here today. I think I know now how my uncle felt when the Titanic went down. He was on radio duty in Newfoundland that night. You know what's happening and feel desperate when there is nothing you can do about it."

In Grade 10, with the knowledge that this was their last year at the college, the students were blunt and outspoken in their opinions on the decision to close the school.

"It's a mistake," said Ian Stuart, 15. "A bad mistake. It isn't just that they are closing a school. This is the beginning of the end for the Catholic education system."

CHURCH HURT

"It goes deeper than just the school. I think closing St. Louis will cause a big split in the church, too."

Bob Duncan echoed the sentiments.

"They could have kept it open if they had really tried," he said. "Let's face it, when St. Louis' goes, so does the system."

How do the youngsters feel about being dispersed in the public schools system?

They are a little afraid.

"You'd have to go to school here to understand, but there's a tremendous spirit here," said Brad Dusseault. "The Brothers are more than teachers, they are our friends, too. And I don't think we are going to find that same feeling in public schools. We know the teachers here and they know us. From what I've seen of public schools that relationship isn't there."

SAD LETTER

Down the well-worn stairs and in a corner office Brother Malloy pecked at a typewriter roughing out the first draft of a letter to parents advising them to start looking for alternative classroom space for their children.

"You must forgive me," said the Brother. "We are all in a state of shock around here today. It's like knowing somebody is dying from cancer. You know they're going, but you never get over the blow when you hear a good friend is dead."

Out in the corridor a young member of the staff scuffed his shoes.

"You don't realize how much you love a school until you're told it doesn't exist any more," he said softly. "I just didn't think this could ever happen."

But it has happened.

FUNDS LACKING

A fund drive to raise the cash to extend the college and build a gymnasium and other facilities fell far short of its target.

In June the school opened by Bishop Modeste Demers in 1864, the second school in British Columbia, will close its doors.

Almost a month ago the Times reported that closure was imminent. The same story also stated that Sacred Heart, a Catholic elementary school, was facing severe financial problems and might close its doors in June.

The fate of Sacred Heart still hangs in the balance, as does the fate of other Catholic schools in the area.

Greater Victoria School Board Chairman Peter Bunn is already on record as saying that full closure would impose a great burden on the already overcrowded public school system.

HARRY EVANS
. . . to Simon Fraser

Registrar Switches Registries

Harry M. Evans, registrar of the provincial department of education since 1953, has been appointed registrar of Simon Fraser University.

The appointment, effective July 8, was announced by university president Dr. P. D. McTaggart-Cowan. Mr. Evans succeeds D. P. Robertson, who earlier accepted a post at the University of Waterloo.

Mr. Evans graduated from University of British Columbia in 1942 and after war service, and a short period as a high school teacher in the interior, joined the provincial education department as deputy assistant registrar in 1947. He was appointed registrar six years later.

As registrar he becomes secretary of the Simon Fraser senate. In addition to this he holds office on a number of important committees.

He is chairman of the selection committee for B.C. government scholarships and bursaries and a member of the B.C. student aid loan committee, the joint board of teacher-education, the provincial board of examiners and the academic board for higher education in B.C.

$1,000 Damage In Garage Fire

Fire Thursday caused extensive damage to a garage in Victoria.

The fire, at 410 John St., caused $1,000 damage to the garage which was separated from the house.

City fire officials suspect faulty wiring to be the cause of the blaze.

Conciliator Opposes Naming Board

Strike Vote Next In Woods Dispute

Labor department conciliator Jack Sherlock today recommended against appointment of a conciliation board in the contract renewal dispute between 113 timber companies and 28,000 members of the International Woodworkers of America.

ployers' bargaining agent.

He reported "no agreement could be reached on any major point in the proposed changes to the agreement" covering the wood products industry on the B.C. coast and Vancouver Island.

Next steps in the dispute are expected to be a union strike vote and further negotiations between the IWA and Forest Industrial Relations, the employers bargaining agent.

The current two-year contract, covering logging, sawmills, plywood plants and shingle mills, expires next month.

SAME AGAIN

Mr. Sherlock's no-board recommendation was identical to the one he made two years ago in the same dispute. At that time he reported he was "unable to bring about an agreement."

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, in releasing the conciliation officer's recommendation, said "it is anticipated" both sides will continue to negotiate and they have been assured the facilities of his department are available to them.

The IWA has presented 17 contract proposals, including a wage increase of 50 cents an hour in a one-year contract, double time for overtime, improvements in health and welfare, severance pay and a clause governing contracting out of work.

The companies have proposed establishment of arbitration boards to determine liability for illegal work stoppages and fines on the guilty party, review of falling and bucking rates and extension of job evaluation to logging, sawmill and shingle mills. At present it covers only plywood.

Writer Named To 5-Year Term On Sites Board

James K. Nesbitt — "Mr. Victoria" to many readers — has been appointed to a five-year term on the Historical Sites and Monuments Board of Canada.

He is the fourth British Columbian and the first Victorian to be appointed to the 12-member board since its inception by the federal government 48 years ago.

Mr. Nesbitt, a free-lance writer and commentator, is an authority on Victoria and B.C. history and personalities.

He begins his term June 1, succeeding history professor Dr. Margaret Ormsby, and will attend the board's semi-annual meeting next month in St. John's, Nfld.

The board is responsible for selecting and commemorating historic places and events in the nation's life.

Plunge Kills Son of Chief

16-YEAR-OLD PLEADS GUILTY TO SEVEN BURGLARY CHARGES

A 16-year-old today pleaded guilty to seven counts of breaking and entering and one count of theft over $50.

Douglas Aason, 16, of 90 Linden was earlier transferred from juvenile court.

Court was told he entered seven different homes in the Victoria area between April 13 and 24 and stole various amounts of money, in each case under $50.

He later stole an automobile which was subsequently demolished in an accident.

He was remanded to May 14 for sentence pending a presentence probation report.

Car Leaves Lakeside Highway

The 17-year-old son of Chief John Albany of Craigflower Reserve was killed early Thursday when his car plunged into Cameron Lake on the Parksville-Port Alberni Highway.

Gene Albany, who was driving the car, died immediately.

His brother-in-law, Fred Morry, 29, whose ribs were broken in the accident, made a vain attempt to save the driver before the car sank, RCMP said.

They were on their way to Port Alberni when the car broke through a guard rail, rolled down an embankment and came to rest in about five feet of water.

Morry, who married Albany's sister only a week ago, extricated himself from the sinking car, but couldn't rescue his brother-in-law.

He clambered back to the road and called for help. Albany's body was recovered later by divers.

RCMP said an inquiry will be held.

Morry was taken to West Coast General Hospital. He is in good condition.

He resides with the Albanys at 1341 Craigflower Road.

Politicians Need 'Strong Infusion Of Religion'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Religious Editor

Canada's political life would be "improved and immeasurably benefitted by a good strong infusion of religion," Archbishop Harold Sexton told the 66th synod (parliament) of the Anglican diocese of British Columbia Thursday night.

'TOO MANY CHURCHES IN CITY'

Twenty-five Anglican churches in metro Victoria should be reduced to 15, it was stated today at the 66th annual synod (parliament) of the Anglican diocese of British Columbia.

Brian Gingell, people's warden at Christ Church Cathedral and a B.C. government economist, said the 25 churches are economically unsound.

"If a businessman were to operate 25 theatres in metro Victoria, all showing the same movie, he would soon be bankrupt."

Mr. Gingell said there are seven Anglican churches within a 1½-mile radius of the City Hall and 14 within a 2½-mile radius.

"In the next five years, 10 of these churches should be phased out by amalgamation with churches in growing areas. Many of our smaller churches were built in the horse-and-buggy era when travel was a problem."

Outside metro Victoria, Mr. Gingell said, there should be one Anglican church to each school district, because a school district is essentially an economic area.

In an interview, he admitted there is considerable sentiment attaching to small rural churches and he personally enjoyed visiting them.

"But to keep pace with the changing pattern of society, I believe all personal and emotional considerations should be secondary to the welfare of the church as a whole."

The archbishop delivered his charge at a service in Christ Church Cathedral attended by 250 clergy and lay delegates from all parts of Vancouver Island, and nearly 600 members of the public.

Premier Bennett, a member of the United Church, sat in the front pew of the lofty cathedral, directly facing the altar, and was publicly welcomed by the archbishop.

He also welcomed Bishop Remi De Roo, head of the Roman Catholic Church on Vancouver Island, who is attending the Anglican synod for the first time.

"We would assure him that we Anglicans are keenly interested in the life and developments taking place in his great church today."

Rev. John Watson of First Baptist Church represented Greater Victoria Council of Churches and all participating clergy entered the cathedral in a solemn procession.

Giving his last charge before retirement, Archbishop Sexton said the church has long since repudiated the idea that it should "keep its eyes on the heavens" and leave human well-being to others.

"Everything which touches the life of the nation is the concern of the Christian, and the church today is intent on relating the principles of the Gospel to the life of the community."

OVERDUE

Archbishop Sexton said the presence of women at the current synod as accredited delegates from many parishes of Vancouver Island is the result of an "overdue" change in canon law.

He spoke of the continuing agony in Vietnam and said all Christians should pray for success of the consultations taking place in Paris today.

Shoplifter Gets Month in Jail

A woman with a previous conviction for shoplifting was sentenced to one month for a similar charge today.

June Gardner, No. 7, 1270 Yates, pleaded guilty to stealing goods valued at $10.53 from a Safeway store Thursday.

Court was told she had received a suspended sentence for a shoplifting offence in Vancouver over a year ago.

New Cabaret Planned At Old Pacific Club

The former private Pacific Club is going public and hopes to re-open its doors next week as a dining room-cabaret.

The premises at Fort and Wharf Streets have been taken over by a private company, Grenadier Enterprises Limited, and are being renovated throughout the public areas.

Tony Else, president of the new company and holder of controlling interest, said the club would be open for luncheons, dinners and late evening dining with entertainment.

A operating licence application is before the city comptroller-treasurer's department.

Three directors of the new company are all Victoria residents—Tom Watkins, employed by a trust company; William Thomas, newspaperman, and George Jones, lawyer.

SPENT $200,000

Three floors of the historic waterfront building were taken over, enlarged and renovated at a total cost of about $200,000 before the Pacific Club opened there in September, 1964.

The 81-year-old club enjoyed its new premises about 18 months, but found the burden of debt and overhead too much, and closed in the spring of 1966.

BIG FAIR OPENS MONDAY

OFFICIALS BRACED FOR 100,000

Jaycee Memo to Weatherman: Don't Change a Thing!

By ALAN WHITE

This week's fair weather better hold over, as far as the Junior Chamber of Commerce is concerned.

Next week is fair week—the annual Jaycee trade fair and home show, second only in size in this province to the PNE in Vancouver.

It's the biggest show on the Island and one of the largest single attractions to Victoria.

Organizers have lined up more than $500,000 worth of merchandise for the home on display. And $8,000 of it will be given away as prizes during the six-day fair.

Club officials are expecting hundreds of visitors to the city to take in everything from the Miss Victoria judging to 4-H agricultural displays.

The main section of the fair — the original body of exhibits — is the trade exhibit in Memorial Arena, on Blanshard St.

Every inch of available space has been rented out for a total of 76 exhibits this year. Overlooking the trade show is the stage, where organist Earl Grant will head the stage show every night.

Just north of the arena is an area set aside for 4-H cattle judging and displays. In fact, there is will be one of the best exhibits in the fair — the Jaycees have used all the store-front sets from last year's Centennial fair as display fronts for 4-H animals. All these are set up in a replica of Old MacDonald's Farm.

The other big attraction is east at the Curling Rink just past the Jaycee hot dog stand. Here the club has let out 85 exhibit spaces for the home show, everything from home accessories to furniture.

And on the north and south sides of the rink they have a midway with 16 rides.

Spotted around the exhibits are boxes for the coupons included in the fair program, offering draws on a car, a color television set, a trip to Mexico and many other prizes.

Each night at 7:30 a fashion show will be held with the 10 finalists in the Miss Victoria contest as models. Judges will be watching and assessing the girls for their final decisions Saturday night.

The doors open at 2 Monday afternoon, with the official opening by Victoria Mayor Hugh Stephen at 8 p.m.

Earl Grant will do two stage shows — one at 4:15 and the second at 10:15 — each day of the fair.

And the Jaycees will set up a teen dance at the north side of the Curling Rink every night.

Judging of the 4-H exhibits will be held from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday. Public speakers from the clubs will be judged Saturday.

The Jaycees call this year's fair bigger and better than ever — and with the months and months of hard work they have put into organizing the event it must be so.

Attendance figures this year are expected to top those of 1967, which were lower than the previous year.

But with top attractions and headline entertainment, the club is certain the fair will draw well over 100,000 persons.

Cottage Cheese Base Of Cranberry Treat

By PENNY SAVER

Cottage cheese has caught Jayne's fancy and her enthusiasm is catching. She points out that cottage cheese has all the protein of milk without the milk sugar so is an excellent and economical source of protein for dieters. She also uses it to take the place of meat since it has become so expensive. "But my husband doesn't like cottage cheese by itself so I have had to invent recipes he likes using cottage cheese as a base," Jayne told me. "That is why I am so happy about the contest."

What contest? I was instantly curious. Jayne explained that there will be a cook-off for cottage cheese recipes at the end of the month. The entries must be in by Wednesday, May 22 for the first eliminations. "I am sorting my recipes now, looking for the most unusual and imaginative," she told me. Fortunately the recipe I had come over to borrow didn't fall into this category (according to Jayne, at least) and she kindly consented to let me pass it on to my readers.

This Cranberry Cottage Cheese Freeze makes a dandy summer treat. It gives a delightful blend of the popular cranberry flavor and the nourishment of milk. The recipe below makes six to eight servings.

One 16-ounce can of jellied cranberry sauce; two tablespoons lemon juice; one-quarter teaspoon almond flavoring; one cup cottage cheese, sieved; one-half cup whipping cream, whipped; dairy sour cream (as much as you need).

Has Almonds and Lemon Juice, Too

Reserve ½ inch slice of the cranberry sauce for a garnish. Beat the remainder of the sauce, lemon juice, almond flavoring and cottage cheese with rotary beater or electric mixer until smooth.

Fold in the whipped cream and pour the mixture into an ice cube tray. Freeze until quite firm. I prefer to cut this into squares rather than use the dividers that come with the tray.

Serve the squares on greens for added effect and garnish with a little dairy cream cheese and cranberry sauce cut-outs.

Would you like to know more about the contest Jayne plans to enter? If you call me at 382-3131, I can tell you where the entry forms may be obtained.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"I consider us equal partners in this marriage, and that goes for both of us--from Stanley on up."

DEAR ABBY . . .

Nothing Wrong With This 'Setup'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: In our circle there is a widow past 65 who has a man living with her. He's a cousin (widower) about her age. She tells people that she is afraid to be alone in the house without a man. The home is hers and this cousin helps with the household chores. They share expenses, and seem to be enjoying the arrangement.

Most of her friends do not approve of this setup, but so far they haven't let her know how they feel. What do you think of such an arrangement?

TRUMPS.

DEAR TRUMPS: I think every widow over 65 should be so lucky as to have a male cousin around her age with whom to share her home, expenses, and to keep her company. And that goes double for widowers.

DEAR ABBY: I met a girl four months ago and we were immediately attracted to one another. We saw a lot of each other, so our four-month courtship is not really as brief as it sounds. (She is 22 and I am 26.)

We plan to marry soon, but she says we have to keep it a secret from everyone but our folks on account of her job. She says she promised her boss before he hired her that she would not get married for at least two years. (She's been there almost a year.) She says they wouldn't have hired her otherwise as they don't hire girls who plan on getting married because after they marry they get pregnant right away, and then they either quit or take a long leave of absence, and they're never the same after that.

I say she should tell her boss she's taking "the pill" and doesn't plan on getting pregnant for at least five years, and if he doesn't want to keep her, she can get another job.

She says she likes her job and doesn't want to risk losing it. Besides she gets a nice bonus and increases after each year.

I say, no wife of mine is going to work as a "miss" and leave her wedding ring in the drawer. Who is right?

JIMMY.

DEAR JIMMY: I think you are. And if your girl doesn't see it your way, she obviously is more interested in her job than she is in you. Tell her to explain to her boss that she made the promise not to wed before she met you, also that she doesn't plan on having a family for several years, but how she intends to go about it is strictly her business.

A tour of Butchart Gardens was slated for today as well as an official luncheon.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Split Ends Can Be Caused By Permanent Or Dryness

Q. What causes the ends of hair to split?

A. Extreme dryness can cause this. Some experts think that rollers with brushes cause the hair to break. A bad permanent can also cause this. Some women have this trouble at the end of a summer season after extreme exposure to the sun and salt water.

Lowman

Cut the split ends off and have some reconditioning treatments or use a reconditioner at home. Cream shampoos and cream rinses will help too. Also be sure to give your hair some protection when out in the bright sunshine this summer.

Q. Sometimes my eyes sort of ache. I feel as though I am going crosseyed. Do you know what I should do about them?

A. You should have your eyes examined by a specialist. It sounds as though you are experiencing eye-strain. You may need glasses.

Q. Have you any exercise for making the eyes look larger? Big eyes are the style these days and I would like big eyes without makeup.

A. One exercise for lifting drooping lids is to widen the eyes by pulling the upper lids up toward the brows, hold them that way for a few second However, I hardly think that this is practical because who wants to go around looking startled all of the time?

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

GROWING PAINS

I am 13 years old and I have a problem that embarrasses me. I have a very small bust and a pot belly. What can I do about them? I'm desperate!—J.F.

About your pot belly, don't despair—do diet! (watch your carbohydrate intake, especially). Be conscientious about holding in those tummy muscles every single waking second.

If done faithfully, this famous Yoga exercise, called the abdominal lift, should help, too.

1. Sit comfortably with legs crossed, hands on knees.

2. Exhale through mouth, pull your abdomen in and up briskly, then pop it out again. Repeat in-out five times quickly.

3. Take a few deep breaths before starting the next set. Work up to five sets of 25 lifts.

Regarding your second problem, you have years ahead of you to grow in all directions and your bosom will undoubtedly develop as you do. No matter what your size, it's important to keep the chest muscles firm and taut—easily accomplished by doing this exercise at least five times daily: Place hands together in a "praying" position. Press palms together, count to ten and release. Repeat five times.

NATURAL SOLUTION

Would you please tell me what to do for a very dry skin? My face looks just like dried prunes. I've tried what seems like hundreds of creams but none really help. I would appreciate your advice.—Mrs. G.H.K.

Since you've experimented with many commercial creams unsuccessfully, why not give natural oils a chance.

To begin with, I suggest you use cocoa butter, yogurt or super-fatted soap when washing.

Then, for thorough lubrication, mix yourself an excellent preparation of several natural oils (be sure they're fresh) such as olive, sesame seed, sunflower and avocado. For an even heavier consistency, add a little toilet lanolin. Castor oil, which is non-allergenic, may be used around your eye area.

Make a point of applying these at least twice daily. Blot lightly after 10 minutes and follow with witch hazel during the day; leave on a thin oil film for your night-time application.

Give It to Their Village At Bella Bella As Centennial Project

INDIAN CHILDREN WRITE OWN BOOK

By PAT DUFOUR

For a few hours this week I had in my possession a first edition that must be one of the rarest books in Canada. It's the only one of its kind.

The book is the work of 296 Indian children who attend school in the isolated coastal village of Bella Bella. It is their salute to Canada's centennial.

Wanting to give something to their village, singly or in groups they've written and painted in vivid pictures the story of their own lives and the lives of their elders. Many of them have adopted the "fourth estate" status temporarily to interview their parents and the village elders in order to write down legends and stories of the past.

The results are captivating, both by their lucidity and the brevity in which they pen the things dearest to them.

Here are some examples. Four Grade 1 girls describe the way they watched the village church burn.

CHURCH BURNS DOWN

"One afternoon Mike saw some smoke by the church. We watched the fire till our windows got hot. We marched outside and sat down on the bench where we were not in the way. We were sad to see the church fall, but it was exciting to see the fire. We hope we will soon have a new church."

The importance of the church is again seen in this story by a Grade 6-er. "My happy holidays are Easter and summer. I had a happy Easter when the Bella Coolas came here. There was church every night, three times a day, in the morning, afternoon and night till they were ready to go back to their home."

The newly-formed library plays a large part in village life too. Here are two students' summaries of its function.

"People go to the library to try and forget everything that happens to them." And "It also helps men who dig ditches. It makes them forget about the hard work they go through."

SITE OF OLD FORT

Bella Bella, the site on which Fort McLoughlin was founded in 1833, was visited by two naval vessels during the centennial year. A Grade 6 boy gives his version of the occasion.

"When the boats came they just anchored out. And the day after they came in. When the boats landed at the wharf we were allowed on there. After a while the sailors started walking around. They asked where the dance was going to be, and so everybody started telling. And next! They asked about the girls around here. The next night there was a dance. Boy it was fun! It was just packed."

Indian children appear as enthusiastic about playing cowboys as other young Canadians. Hughie Bolton tells of one such game.

COWBOYS AND INDIANS

"On Saturday I get a big group of boys and we play cowboys and Indians and we go down the beach to play because there is a lot of logs and big rocks to hide, and we climb over our Grampa's roof and we fall down from the roof like a real cowboy or an Indian when they fall from a cliff or a horse when you get shot on the arm or close to the arm.

"My cousin Jack just about hit his head on a big log but he moved quick enough but he got hurt on his head and he went home and I was one man short. That's when the trouble started and then we all quit because we were one man short."

Hughie doesn't report who was winning, cowboy or Indian.

Nina Humchitt, in Grade 4, contributes to family life this way:

"I help Mother by dressing my little sisters and brother in the morning, making their breakfast, sweeping the floor, washing dishes and baking cookies. I like to wash the laundry too. I like to help my mother because she is too weak to do anything. After I finish working I go out to play at 5:30 p.m. to 9 and I come to put my little sisters and brother to bed."

At least one Grade 5-er has a liking for Victoria. She writes:

CAMPING AT VICTORIA

"These are the things I take pleasure in. I like the sound of music. Also I like baby-sitting. Looking after babies is fun. They are much fun to watch as they grow. Tag is fun too. I like frozen tag most. Also I like going to movies. But most of all I think camping at Victoria is best."

Another Grade 5 student, Kenny Windsor, gives his version of the official opening of the new school:

"After we finished singing Elwin Newman cut the ribbon so that some people would like to go in or not. I went in anyway and most people went to have a chicken in the church."

Perry Neil Brown, in Grade 6, grips the imagination as he tells his grandmother's account of how his great-grandfather came back to life.

"My mother used to tell me a story about her father-in-law who came back to life again. He died in this time of the year from disease. Years and years ago when the people still lived in Old Town if any of the people got sick the other people had to move out and look for a place to stay. Now he died in January.

CAME BACK TO LIFE

"He came back to life again some time in June. That's the only time when the salmon berries were ever ripe in June. First thing he saw was berries and he picked some and ate them. Berries were around the dugout canoe. He got a little stronger after he ate more berries.

"The second day he came back to life again, he pushed the canoe over and sat up. After he crawled down to the river, and bathed himself in Old Town pond.

"On the third he washed his blanket and put it out to dry in the sun. On the fourth day he pulled his canoe down to the water and started to travel looking for the people.

"There were hardly any people in Old Town when he came back to life. All the people had moved out to the other place called Makish when the sickness went around.

"He started to paddle for four days. He first saw smoke real far. He kept on paddling away. When the people first saw the canoe, all went up to the bush to hide away. They were scared it might be the Haida people. He came in the bay. They left only one man to watch.

"When they found out it was my father-in-law the Chief hollered around the people to go down from the bush and asked them to help lift the canoe up to the house of the other old men. Still at the dugout canoe all the people gathered to see him. Then they found out who it was."

These and many other literary gems are to be found in this unusual book. However, if your appetite has been whetted and you'd like to hear more you'll have to travel to Bella Bella.

There, the precious first edition is kept at the school. Each day another page is turned so that the authors and their friends can re-examine their creations.

Reports have it, it's the best-read book in town.

Piercer of Royal Ears Reports Many of His Customers Are Men

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — Britain's most fashionable ear piercer says the fad is catching on—with men.

Cyril Wilkinson, a courtly, silver-haired jeweller, has pierced the ears of both the Queen Mother and the Queen, as well as many other female members of the Royal Family, except Princess Margaret.

Margaret refuses to have her ears pierced, but Wilkinson hopes his next royal customer may be Princess Anne.

"I have pierced hundreds of female ears for jewelled and gold earrings but lately many of my clients are men," Wilkinson said in an interview.

"At one time men wanted only one ear pierced, in gypsy style, but the rage seems to be growing to have both ears pierced.

Wilkinson said many of his male clients are seafaring men—one has crucifixes dangling from his ears—but he also has slipped his special needle through the lobes of doctors, farmers, taxi drivers and journalists.

"I supposed some of them may be called sissy types but earrings seem to go along with long hair which also is the current rage, somewhat along the styles of the time of Charles I and Charles II."

Wilkinson, who declines to give his age but has been punching holes in ears as well as other parts of the body for 50 years, said he started out to be a doctor but switched to the jewel trade and in that capacity began accepting requests for ear piercing to secure fashionable jewelry.

"I was called to the palace in 1937 when the Queen Mother wanted both ears pierced.

"I did the ears of our present Queen in 1952 when she was at Clarence House.

"Both mother and daughter did not make a murmur. They are Scots and they never betray their nervousness."

Of Personal Interest

AT SERVICE BASE

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will be at the Officers' Mess of the Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, this evening to attend the Battle of Atlantic Dinner, given by the president and members of the Naval Officers' Association of Vancouver Island.

This morning, His Honor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes gave a coffee party at Government House for the team captains of the annual Salvation Army Red Shield Appeal campaign.

This afternoon, Mrs. Pearkes was at the Bay's Douglas Room to officially open the show of the Victoria African Violet Club.

Cathedral Ceremony

The three-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. B. Chenier of Moss Street was baptized in the names Timothy Raymond, by Dean Brian Whitlow at a ceremony in Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday afternoon. He wore a christening gown made from his mother's wedding gown by Mrs. Thomas Hammond, his maternal grandmother. Blue ribbons trimmed the gown of white French lace and tulle over taffeta. White lace edged his pale yellow shoes, sent by his godmother and paternal great-aunt, Mrs. G. Stooke, Montreal. He wore a christening cloak that had been used by his cousin, Miss Nellie Poskitt.

The baby's godfathers are Mrs. Chenier's uncle, Mr. R. M. Poskitt of Campbell River, and Mr. R. J. Horner, a close friend of the family. A decorated cake centred the refreshment table at the tea which followed in the Moss Street home of the little boy's maternal grandparents. The baby is the fifth generation on his father's side. Unable to attend the ceremony were Mrs. Dolphis Chenier and Mrs. Emile Benoit, the baby's grandmother and great-grandmother, his other great-grandmother, Mrs. Albert Chenier, all of Masson, P.Q., and Mr. A. A. Swaren of Camrose, Alta.; the baby's great-great-grandfather.

Give Dinner

The French department of the Professional Sub-Section of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association held a dinner in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel on Monday evening. Covers were laid for 28. Guests of honor were three French-Canadian teachers from Montreal, M. Andre Fortin, Mlle. Lise Vallieres and Mlle. Rose Pellerin, who are here as exchange teachers. M. Fortin spoke on French-Canadian customs and traditions. A social evening followed.

California Trip

Mrs. Graham Harper has returned to her home on Exeter Road following a holiday in California. While there she attended the wedding of her niece, Miss Kerry Lynn Harper, in San Francisco, and later visited her mother, Mrs. F. C. Hoffman, in Los Angeles.

Honored by Staff

Mr. J. A. Ball, who recently retired after 40 years of service with the Bay, was honored at a dinner party in the Red Lion Motor Inn. The honor guest has been manager of the firm's drugs, tobacco and candy departments for the past 14 years. Miss Janet Hobson presented Mrs. Ball with a corsage of sweetheart roses. Mr. Ball received a gold watch from his departments. Members of the cosmetic department also attended and gave him a pair of initialled gold cuff-links. Party guests included Mrs. P. Holt, Mrs. G. Rawlinson, Mrs. P. Gallant, Mrs. J. Barr, Mrs. M. Carswell, Mrs. M. Hagel, Mrs. J. Dobbie, Mrs. H. Wright, Mrs. B. Savage, Mrs. J. Grivel, Mrs. S. Armitage, Mrs. M. Pugsley, Mr. T. Hainstock, Mrs. B. Browse, Mrs. E. Warner, Mrs. P. Hill, Mrs. B. Edgecombe, Mrs. B. Rawlings, Mrs. M. Bishop, Mrs. S. Buckborough, Mrs. I. Shorthouse, Mrs. J. Mickie, Mrs. G. Bonsor and Mrs. J. Mayar.

YM-YWCA Group Arranges Party

Crystal bowls and vases were the prizes presented to winners of the YM-YWCA bridge marathon of 1967-68, during a coffee party arranged by the Ladies Auxiliary Wednesday.

Mrs. A. H. Sheard, of the "Y" board, presented the prizes, including trophies and permanent cups to the winning couple, Mrs. J. Lewis and Mrs. A. Burton. In second place were Mrs. M. Carter and Mrs. J. Deelman.

Prize for bidding and making most small slams was won by Mrs. J. Williams and Mrs. A. Daysmith, while Mrs. G. G. Truscott and Mrs. J. L. Remmington won prizes for bidding and making most grand slams.

Mrs. H. Barnes and Mrs. E. H. McGuire had the highest single score, and the hidden score prize went to Mrs. M. A. Cooper and Mrs. J. Kirkham.

Mrs. R. J. Champion, who organized the bridge marathon throughout the winter, was in charge of the prize-giving.

With 120 players in the marathon during the winter, the bridge games are a large moneymaker for the "Y," bringing in close to $500 during the season.

The coffee party, too, provides funds for "Y" work, with this year's proceeds amounting to another $500.

Many members of the "Y" and their friends attended the event which was convened by Mrs. J. A. Wallace and Mrs. J. Macdonell. Contributing to the proceeds was a sale of home baking arranged by associate members and convened by Mrs. Len Acres and Mrs. William Clark.

Mrs. A. D. Avery was in charge of the raffle.

PARTY FOR ALL AGES

Young Annabelle Burrows, at right, is just as enthusiastic as Mrs. Eric Murray, a member of the Royal Bride Chapter IODE, over the Mother's Day coffee party which the group is planning for Saturday. The event will be held from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Elsie Lowthian, 2730 Thorpe Place, and is open to the public. Highlight of the party will be a display of magic by Owen Fowler (R. A. Marquis).

Prize Didn't Fit

Pat Baillie, 52, of Southampton, England, won a $260 fur bikini but decided it wasn't for her. She sold it and gave the money to charity.

Regional Banks Tory Land Plan

Stanfield Announces Program To Combat Housing Shortage

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal fund to help regional agencies buy land in advance of speculative development was proposed by Robert L. Stanfield Thursday night as the Conservative leader hit the Liberal government for second-rate treatment of housing.

Mr. Stanfield told an overflow audience of about 1,000 at the Ottawa West Conservative nominating convention that the proposal for "regional housing land banks" was the first in a series he would announce on housing.

Details would have to be worked out with the provinces but the goal would be "to avoid the artificially high land costs resulting from unbridled speculation."

Liberal failure to check inflation and give housing a high priority had created a situation in which anyone earning less than $10,000 a year couldn't afford suitable housing.

Richard A. Bell, 54, winner of four of the last five general elections in reorganized Carleton riding, was nominated unopposed as Conservative candidate in Ottawa West.

Mr. Bell described the Liberal government as one that "roars at the mouse of Gabon but becomes a quivering pussycat when the Cross of Lorraine comes along." The Cross of Lorraine is a symbol of France.

Mr. Stanfield didn't mention the constitutional situation. Instead he nailed down the third plank in the Conservative platform within a week.

In earlier speeches, he outlined his approach to welfare and to pollution control.

TORONTO (CP) — More tax research is need before Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield's idea of a minimum income for all Canadians subsisting below the poverty line can be implemented, Kenneth Carter said Thursday.

Mr. Carter, chairman of the royal commission on taxation, told a Canadian Operational Research Society meeting here that one of Mr. Stanfield's problems is how to recognize poverty groups.

He said Mr. Stanfield in his speech Saturday in London divided Canada's poor in two groups—those needing help in the form of additional income, and those needing jobs.

Mr. Stanfield's minimum income plan is designed for "that group of Canadians who need help and are unable to earn an income of their own," Mr. Carter said. "The factor of incentives does not apply to these Canadians; even if they want to work they are not able to."

Mr. Carter said his royal commission suggested that direct payments be made to selected groups of individuals living below the poverty line, following the payment method now used for family allowances.

Post Box Blown Up

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—A post box in the city's business section was blown up early Wednesday. Witnesses said they saw three youths running from the area immediately after the explosion, which broke a nearby department store window and was heard 10 blocks away.

DOUGLAS UNVEILS PROGRAM

TORONTO (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, has unveiled a party plan for a national housing program which he said will produce 250,000 new homes in Canada annually.

Speaking to a nomination meeting Thursday night, Mr. Douglas said the program could be financed with money collected through implementation of recommendations of the Carter commission on taxation.

"We need a national housing program which builds a quarter of a million homes a year just to keep pace with the annual increase in demand," he said.

"There is something wrong with us in Canada when we have 500,000 people living in urban and rural slums and 500,000 people unemployed."

The NDP leader said his party's plan would provide the national economy with a massive shot in the arm.

"It would solve the unemployment problem—and at the same time give people a decent place to live."

NAMES ISSUES

Mr. Douglas said the main issues of the campaign for the June 25 federal election are the Carter report and the recommendations of the Watkins report on foreign control of the Canadian economy.

He said the Carter report showed that if corporations now receiving special tax arrangements paid on the same basis "as everyone else," more than 3,000,000 Canadians could have their income taxes reduced by up to 15 per cent.

His party's housing program could get money through "restructuring the tax system."

"We in Canada have one of the most inequitable and unjust tax systems in the world . . . we make the low income groups pay too much . . . and the freeloaders, like the insurance companies and the mining companies, not paying enough."

The nomination meeting chose Eamon Park, 51, assistant national director of the United Steelworkers of America, as NDP candidate for York East.

ALBERTA ELECTION SCENE

Youth Going Liberal, Socreds Going Tory

Special to the Times

CALGARY — Alberta Liberals are doing their utmost to take on a new, youthful image and the Conservatives and Social Crediters are getting together.

This was the picture after the first full week of election campaign activity and it was well illustrated by two nominating conventions.

A newcomer to politics, Pat Mahoney, president of the Calgary Stampeder football club, successfully rode a crest of youthful support to victory for the Liberal nomination over veteran Calgary politician Bill Dickie in Calgary South.

And in Red Deer, Robert Thompson made good his switch from Social Credit to Conservative, taking with him hundreds of former Social Credit party members.

MANY WOUNDS

Although there are many wounds to be healed in both parties there is little doubt that Mr. Thompson can retain Red Deer handily for the Tories.

So confident is Tory Thompson that he is off to campaign at unannounced eastern points, stopping in Brandon Wednesday to speak for Walter Dinsdale, who turned up last Friday as guest speaker for Bob Thompson Night in Red Deer.

The difference in these two Alberta situations is that one is concrete and the other apparent at this stage and may yet prove to be illusory.

BEYOND RED DEER

The marriage between Social Credit and Tories on the federal level is not confined to Red Deer and has been helped along by a dialogue dating at least a year.

Mr. Thompson's path had been cleared by discussions between an Alberta member of Robert Stanfield's staff and Preston Manning, son of the premier, and Eric K. Schmidt, leading adviser to the provincial cabinet.

Given more time, both these members of the social conservative movement, a study group advocating political realignment on the right—might have been persuaded to run as Tories.

In the new constituency of Palliser, bordering Calgary, there is a friendly relationship between the Tory and Socred organizations. About 100 Social Crediters attended the Conservative nominating convention last week and failed in a bid to nominate a Social Crediter.

BOTH PARTIES

Stan Schumacher, a Drumheller lawyer and a Conservative, won the nomination and can count on support from both parties. This will be the case in several Alberta ridings. Knowledgeable Conservatives would not be surprised if only three or four Socreds are running in Alberta's 19 seats.

The Alberta Social Credit League declined to endorse Mr. Thompson's move.

But it left members free to support the candidate closest to Social Credit principles in constituencies without an official Social Credit candidate.

There is the distinct possibility that the Tories will not nominate in Athabasca where Alberta Liberal leader Mike Maccagno is running. Without a Tory to split the vote a Social Credit candidate in this riding would stand a fighting chance of knocking off Mr. Maccagno.

YOUNG SUPPORT

Liberals generally face the problem of transforming a flood of youthful support into votes. Many of the new Liberals are under 21.

This fact was brought home in stunning fashion at the greatest nominating meeting in recent Calgary history when nearly 2,000 turned out in Calgary South.

Here was Mr. Dickie, Liberal MLA for Calgary-Glenmore for five years and alderman for three years before that, excited by the prospect of joining the Trudeau team.

He walked into a solid wall of 300 students between 16 and 21, all recent recruits to the Liberal cause, thanks to his opponent, Mr. Mahoney. It was a veritable Mahoney cheer-leading section.

All had voting privileges based on a constituency constitution providing membership and voting rights at 16.

Whatever hopes Mr. Dickie still harbored evaporated when, obviously nervous, he delivered a short, shrill appeal to experience. He compared badly with Mr. Mahoney's reasoned review of specific local problems.

Later in the week the Conservatives renominated Ray Ballard and talked cheerfully of Mr. Dickie's defeat and the favorable prospects of beating Mr. Mahoney in the riding once held by Senator Harry Hays.

GRIT GAMBLE

Quebec Reaction Crucial

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Many Liberals have their fingers crossed waiting for Quebec reaction to Prime Minister Trudeau's strictures on that province's government.

Electoral reaction, that is. The verbal reaction of Premier Daniel Johnson is already in.

Mr. Trudeau said Wednesday that Canada will break up if Quebec is permitted to set constitutional precedents designed to win it recognition as a sovereign state in the international community.

He issued a white paper outlining federal views on Canadian representation at international conferences and conceded that no new principle was involved.

LIBERALS CRITICAL

Some Quebec Liberals say they believe Mr. Trudeau was too firm in his attitude to the problem and is forcing Quebec to the wall on the issue.

Mr. Trudeau himself said Ottawa does not want to dictate to the provinces but that the federal view is "true and sufficient" for the problem.

Mr. Johnson said the prime minister had put in a white paper a position which was supposed to be negotiable at the next federal-provincial constitutional conference.

He accused Mr. Trudeau of throwing Canada into turmoil and said the prime minister was acting electorally, not patriotically.

What federal Liberals now are asking is: will Mr. Johnson translate his verbal reaction into electoral action?

Under Prime Minister Pearson, the Liberals held 56 of Quebec's 75 Commons seats in the last Parliament. The Conservatives had eight, the Creditistes eight and independents three.

Presumably, it would be a blow to Mr. Trudeau if he won fewer Quebec seats in the June 25 election than the Liberals held under Mr. Pearson.

Consequently, Mr. Johnson could effectively get back at Mr. Trudeau by reducing the number of Liberal Quebec seats in the next Parliament.

STANFIELD DILEMMA

Conservative Leader Stanfield is on difficult ground trying to attack Mr. Trudeau in Quebec, especially when the prime minister is making his campaign pro-federalist.

He needs a strong Quebec lieutenant to tackle Mr. Trudeau on his home ground and this is why he has been making overtures to Marcel Faribault, constitutional and economic advisor to Mr. Johnson.

Former prime minister Diefenbaker also made such overtures but they came to nothing.

Mr. Stanfield might have better luck.

Roblin Staking Claim To Prairie Leadership

WINNIPEG — Two of Manitoba's political veterans—one on the way up and the other possibly on the way out—dominated the federal election scene here this week.

Former Manitoba premier Duff Roblin burst back into national politics by easily capturing the Conservative nomination in Winnipeg South Centre and he immediately began to take on the stature of one of the chief western spokesmen for his party.

And Veterans Affairs Minister Roger Teillet is facing the prospect of losing his St. Boniface seat to a fellow Liberal—the peppery mayor of St. Boniface, Joseph Guay.

Mr. Roblin, accepting the nomination in the riding that has been held since 1951 by former cabinet minister Gordon Churchill, delivered a fighting political speech that had all the appearance of the outlines of the party's western platform.

BLUEPRINT

He laid out a detailed blueprint for the continuation of Conservative hegemony in the west by proclaiming westerners under a Liberal administration were "a forgotten people."

According to the former premier, if the Conservatives are returned to office June 25, a western-based trade and commerce minister would be appointed to rejuvenate lagging wheat sales; the inequitable recommendations of the Carter commission on taxation, which discriminate against westerners, would be scrapped in favor of a fundamental tax reform in all three levels of government; priorities would be introduced in federal spending that recognized provincial and regional needs; and Canada's Indians, situated primarily in western Canada, would be brought within full Canadian citizenship.

Mr. Roblin's bid for the nomination was unopposed and his candidacy was endorsed by Mr. Churchill, who had earlier announced his decision to retire.

Veterans Affairs Minister Teillet however is on the threshold of a monumental struggle to hold down a revolt within his own St. Boniface party organization.

Mr. Teillet, first elected in 1962 and the prairies' only cabinet minister since 1963, has been challenged by Mayor Guay, with whom he has been feuding ever since the mayor backed Prime Minister Trudeau and the minister backed Transport Minister Hellyer at last month's leadership convention in Ottawa.

At present, it is not clear who will gain the nomination next week but it is certain to be a bitter fight that may split the party and hand the staunchly Liberal riding to the Conservatives—who are attempting to field former centennial commissioner John Fisher as the Tory standard-bearer in the constituency.

8 CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our many friends and relatives for their many acts of kindness, and for messages of sympathy and lovely floral tributes in the passing of our beloved father and grandfather, Mr. H. J. Reading. Special thanks to Dr. J. W. Cooper and Rev. McAllister.—Mrs. M. Reading and Jean and Families.

I wish to thank my kind friends and neighbors for their acts of love and sympathy during my recent bereavement in the loss of my dear husband and also extend grateful thanks for the beautiful floral tributes. Special thanks to Rev. A. King for his comforting words at the funeral service.—Caroline Ikona.

9 IN MEMORIAM

NICHOLSON — In loving memory of Lavinia Maud Nicholson who passed away May 9, 1967.

Time speeds on, one year has passed
Since death its gloom, its shadow cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light, and ever will,
Her vacant place there's none to fill.
Down here we morn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven we will meet again.

—Lovingly remembered by her husband, Harold and daughters, Marie and Cherie.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There are a number of ways to bid the North-South cards, but as all roads lead to Rome, all lines of bidding are likely to lead to the same three no-trump contract that South reached.

Opening lead—♥J

Against any lead but hearts South will have plenty of time to go about the business of setting up nine tricks, but the heart lead is just about automatic whether North or South is declarer.

South has to win the first heart. If he ducks, both his ace and king will fall together on the second heart lead and he will have to scramble for his nine tricks because this second heart lead has set up three tricks in the suit for the defence.

It is hopeless to go after spades. South cannot set up more than three tricks in the suit. He can set up three extra diamond tricks to give him a total of eight tricks, but that will leave him one short.

He must go after clubs and if that suit breaks 3-3 he can add five club tricks to his one spade, two hearts and two diamonds, a total of 10. As you can see, clubs aren't going to break evenly and South will have to give up two tricks in order to bring home the rest of the suit.

Furthermore, a suit will divide 3-3 less than 40 per cent of the time. However, South has a better play at his disposal. He wins the heart lead in dummy and leads a club toward his hand. If East rises with the ace, South's worries are over. If East ducks as he should, South has one club trick in. He should abandon that suit, lead a diamond and duck in dummy. This will give him five diamond tricks and his contract. Since a suit will break 3-2 more than 60 per cent of the time, it is the correct play once South has brought home a club.

14 ACRES WATERFRONT! (Beautiful Metchosin Area) SWEEPING SEASCAPE ! ! SECLUSION ! ! 500 HOLLY TREES MODERN RETIREMENT HOME

JUST LISTED . . . A very valuable block of WATERFRONT PROPERTY with great future possibilities for subdividing — approx. 600 feet of beautiful waterfront, and the land is gently sloping to the west. The home is modern in design, just right for the retired couple who want seclusion and a little ranch. The views are breathtakingly beautiful—with views of Port Angeles Victoria and the sweeping straits — the home has two bedrooms, living room, dining and convenient kitchen with utility off. The land is all newly fenced and cross fenced. Sheep and lambs are peacefully bibbling the grass between the holly trees. A very satisfying scene indeed . . This property would be the best investment you could make — and your investment just can't help but grow here!

. . . SYNOD

"We pray there may be a definite step towards cessation of hostilities in that war-torn and devastated counry — the terrible fratricide in Nigeria which divides Christian from Christian — the tumults in Hong Kong — the continuing desperate situation in the Middle East — and the rampant racial issue in the United States."

He said the death of Dr. Martin Luther King had a profound effect on the church.

"In a fast-changing world, the church itself must change, not in essence, but in the way it deploys its resources in meeting some of the world's needs.

Archbishop Sexton said he hoped that strong representation from the church, with those of statesmen and all men of goodwill, will soon bring relief from a "cruel and dangerous war."

Throughout Canada, and in almost all civilized countries, there is mounting anxiety over the increasing number of nuclear experiments. . . .

'MORAL PIGMY'

"Technologically modern man is a giant, but morally a pigmy; outwardly capable but inwardly needy.

Of ecumenism, the archbishop said Canadian Baptists seem willing to accept bishops and Anglican archbishops are prepared to consider the consecration of duly-elected Methodist ministers as bishops.

"We may devoutly hope that, if the United Church feels the need of bishops, as we are led to believe, care will be exercised to see that they are real bishops, and not merely bishops in name."

(In an interview, Archbishop Sexton said he thought bishops should act as counsellors to clergymen who, in turn, give counsel to their parishioners.)

"We have good reason to believe that, in due course, we will be guided by the Holy Spirit towards restoring full unity between the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches."

MORE GOING

The archbishop said it is estimated that 157 priests of the Canadian church are no longer engaged in a full-time ministry, and the number abandoning it for secular employment is growing by about 40 annually.

He added that the number of clergymen ordained in England during the last 12 months was the lowest for 10 years.

Speaking of candidates for the ministry, the archbishop said:

"We need more men of a cultured background; men who can hold their own in any company and mix freely and easily with those of all stations in life."

Of the hippies, he said: "There are those who think they have something in common with Samson and that their strength lies in their hair.

NO CLEANER

"There is no evidence that they are stronger than their fellows and they do not appear to be any cleaner."

On the subject of Victoria's polluted inland waters, the archbishop said:

"It is the duty of responsible officials to take immediate steps in the matter, whatever the cost may be, in the interests of our citizens."

Concluding his charge, the archbishop expressed thanks to all members of the synod for their help and co-operation during his 33 years of office.

He has resigned as head of the Anglican church in British Columbia and a successor will be appointed this month. He will continue as bishop of the diocese until the end of the year.

Earlier, in an interview, the archbishop said the church has suffered loss of public support because of puritanism—and particularly the puritanical conception of Sunday.

"The Puritans have confused the Sabbath with Sunday. Sabbath means cessation of work and applies to the seventh day of the week. Sunday is the first day of the week, the weekly commemoration of Easter Sunday, and it should be a day of joy.

"But we must always remember that a day of rest, one in seven, is part of the divine plan for mankind. We must be sure we don't make work for people on that day."

JOINT CHOIRS SING ANTHEM

Choirs of St. Barnabas, St. Mary's, Oak Bay, and Christ Church Cathedral joined forces in the cathedral Thursday night to sing the Coronation anthem Zadok the Priest.

The ensemble was conducted by Richard Proudman and the service, launching the 66th annual synod of the diocese of British Columbia, was conducted by Dean Brian Whitlow.

Clergy and delegates are holding discussions in Christ Church Memorial Hall today and Saturday.

70 Cadets Polishing For Sunday

It's spit-and-polish time 2 p.m. Sunday for about 70 Canadian army cadets who will assemble at Work Point Barracks for their annual inspection.

The inspecting officer and guest of honor will be Rear-Admiral John A. Charles, commander of Pacific Maritime Forces.

The cadets, belonging to the 2483 Queen's Own Rifles of Canada based in Esquimalt, are commanded by Captain R. C. Watt. Parade commander for the occasion will be 18-year-old Cadet Warrant Officer Timothy McCooey, 264 View Royal.

Presentations made during the ceremony will range from the most proficient cadet to awards for individual and group achievements in marksmanship, first aid and other courses.

Interest and enthusiasm shown by cadets during the year has been judged by officers and instructors, as well as a team of regular force personnel headed by Captain J. C. Bell, cadet staff officer of Pacific Region Headquarters in Vancouver.

Nelson's Staff Wins Wage Hike Retroactively

Wage increases of 51 cents to $1.23 an hour in a 30-month contract have been won by 200 Island employees of Nelson's Launderers and Dry Cleaners.

Settlement was by negotiation after employees voted in favor of strike action and Local 580 of the Retail Wholesale and Department Store Union posted strike notice late last week.

Union members approved the new contract in votes this week and their decision was announced today.

The contract is retroactive to last Nov. 1 and provides a 30-cent hourly wage increase in the first year and increases of 21 cents to 93 cents in the second year.

In weekly terms, on the basis of the 40-hour week, the increases range from $20.40 to $49.20.

Union representative John Squire said the scale before the increase was between $1.25 and $2.02. Company manager G. G. Farncombe said the range was between $1.45 and $2.13.

Fairfield Store Hit by Thieves

Thieves who broke into Henderson Low Cost, 390 Moss St., in Fairfield, overnight, escaped with cash and cigarettes police said today.

Between $30 and $35 silver and five or six cartons of cigarettes were reported stolen.

Entry was gained by breaking a basement window.

Fined for Damage

A man who forced his way into the home of his separated wife was fined $50 for causing wilful damage today.

Robert Sims, 1055 Empress, pleaded guilty to causing approximately $10 damage to a door frame at 2637 Fernwood.

Weston Strike Of Salesmen May Be Ending

A contract settlement with McGavin Toastmaster is expected to clear the way for an end to the 47-day strike by bread salesmen against Weston Bakeries.

The salesmen went on strike March 25 seeking an extra $24 a week over two years. The company offered $13.

The strike affects 70 drivers in B.C. including 12 in Victoria. They are members of Local 189, International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Settlement at McGavin, where there was no strike, provided a wage increase of $15 a week plus a one per cent increase in commission which one source said was worth $3.

Previous pay rate was $115 plus commission.

The first talks between Weston and the union since the strike began were arranged this week after the McGavin settlement, said a Teamster spokesman. They will be held Monday.

He said the union is prepared to settle with Weston on the same basis as McGavin. A Weston official said he has yet to read full details of the McGavin settlement.

Four Persons Hurt In Two-Car Crash

Four persons were injured in a collision at Regina and Wascana streets Thursday.

Damage to two cars totalled $1,000.

Police say Harry L. Sharplin, 76, of 4090 Atlas Place, was travelling west on Regina and Donald S. Hutchings, 19, of 4117 Glanford, was proceeding north on Wascana.

The two cars collided at the intersection, causing the Sharplin car to roll over on its side.

Mr. and Mrs. Sharplin and Hutchings were released after treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Nancy Hames, 18, of 85 Schofield, a passenger in Hutchings' car, was in good condition there this morning.

No charges have been laid.

Two Charged

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Bail was set at $3,000 for Cecil Bancroft, 38, and $5,000 for Daniel Joseph Steel, 24, when they appeared in magistrate's court Thursday on rape charges. Police said the charges involved an incident at a Prince George home Tuesday night.

'IT'S CHEEP' AT A COOL $9 MILLION

Some of the workmen on the Provincial Museum-Archives complex are calling it a "cheep, Cheep" job.

But it has nothing to do with another word of the same pronounciation. The imposing structure is costing $9,000,000.

"It's the birds," say workmen — more specifically, a house sparrow family.

They've dug their abode in a pocket of fire insulation in the ceiling of the cafeteria of the complex, and are keeping a wary eye on the activities of the constuction crew.

No one has seen any members of the younger set of the family because the nest is high and isolated. But the "cheep cheeps" can be heard.

Workmen say they've had the problem before, on other jobs and when they get in the way of progress the birds have to go.

The SPCA will be called in to gently evict them, although there's a possibility the family may be ready to leave before notice is served.

HOME GARDEN

Watch for Insect Eggs

By JACK BEASTALL

Pest troubles in the small area of a home garden can be reduced considerably by a planned prevention program. At this time of year the observant gardener will see eggs of many troublesome insects every time the soil is disturbed.

Jack

Destruction of these eggs will control the population without wiping it out entirely. Every insect is important in some way, and a complete break in the chain leads to serious trouble.

The little jelly-like balls are eggs of slugs, while the cluster of buff rice grains comes from the cricket.

The shiny black bands around young twigs of fruiting and ornamental trees in winter were carefully fitted there by the tent caterpillar moth.

Onion maggot fly, carrot rust fly, and the white cabbage butterfly must delay their egg-laying until the respective plants are established in the garden.

These three unwated garden visitors depend solely on smell, and the gardener who masks the odors of host plants has no trouble.

Cheap ground coffee, or coffee that has become stale, has a strong masking effect. Creosote, kerosene, and any oils with strong odor can be used in shallow cans placed along the rows.

Certain flower perfumes, calendula for example, are often effective. So are moth crystals in suitable holders.

Plenty of water at roots of roses will lessen chances of mildew, while a teaspoonful of becarbonate of soda (baking soda) in one gallon of water, plus a teaspoonful of liquid whale for a spreader, is a good mildew spray.

YOUR HEALTH

Patient Who Loves Operations

By Dr. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

We doctors know very well, and often can quickly recognize, the type of woman who seems to love operations. Practically always, the trouble is she's a terrible bunch of nerves, and she suffers so much and she is so sure there must be something very wrong in her painful abdomen — something that the last surgeon who operated on her missed — that she keeps talking one surgeon after another into operating again.

Alvarez

Almost always the woman's (or man's) abdominal distress comes out of a brain which does not work comfortably. Nearly always in these cases, I find my sickly patient had a depressed mother or aunt. A woman like that was just in my office; as often happens, first she had her appendix out. When that didn't do any good, she had an ovary out. When that didn't help, she had the other ovary out. When she still was miserable, she had her womb out. When that made her much worse, she had her gallbladder out, and when that didn't help, she had half her colon out. Then she had two operations for adhesions, and last month one for a hiatus hernia in her midriff.

* * *

What is her main trouble? She suffers from inherited depressions that cause her abdominal pain and distress. Her mother and her aunt are in a mental hospital, and occasionally, my patient gets so depressed that she goes in, too. Unfortunately, she never tells her surgeon she is a mental patient. When I asked her why she does that, she said, "Because I so dread being locked up in a mental hospital."

Here is another rather typical story. A highly nervous woman with emotionally-caused abdominal distress tells me first she had a hysterectomy; then someone told her she should have had the neck of the womb out also; so that was removed. Next she had an operation to repair a torn place in the muscular floor of her pelvis. Then she had a little rupture removed from around her navel.

* * *

Then she had an abdominal operation for supposed adhesions.

Then she was happy when someone performed the once fashionable operation for hiatus hernia (a little rupture in her midriff). But that didn't help. So another surgeon went in and found a few adhesions. That operation did not help, and so now she is nauseated and uncomfortable. She wonders if she should have another operation for adhesions. If she really wants to be fashionable, she should have a section of her colon taken out for so-called diverticulitis. Poor woman; I feel so sorry for her, with her endless search for a surgeon who will accede to her demands.

I am sure she suffers a great deal, but the great mistake she has been making is to believe, as thousands of other people do, that when there is so much nausea, discomfort all over the body, pains in the abdomen, and aches here and there, there just must be something in the abdomen that should be cut out. What I do is to spend time with such a person trying to get her to understand her discomfort is coming out of her brain, and the only way to get relief is to learn to live more comfortably with her nerves.

JANET REID

11-year-old Wouldn't Give Up

An 11-year-old girl who doesn't believ in giving up won a set of World Book Encyclopedia for a question submitted to Ask Andy.

Janet Reid, 2031 Kendal, submitted question after question to Ask Andy but she wasn't discouraged. Today she received word that she had won the top prize.

She is a Grade 5 pupil at Uplands School. She likes social studies, science and reading.

Janet is quite an active girl. She is learning to play the flute and piano. Her other activities include horse riding and swimming and gym at the Y.

She is also a Girl Guide and is fond of camping.

Her ambition is to become a teacher.

It isn't the first time that Janet's family has won an Ask Andy prize. In 1962 her brother Clifford, now 15, won a Hammond's natural history book.

She has another brother, David, and sister, Linda.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Janet Reid, age 11, of Victoria, B.C., for her question:

How do they manufacture asphalt?

Most of our supplies of tacky ashpalt are created in the ground by Mother Nature. As usual, she takes her time and the recipe is slow. The basic ingredients are hydrocarbons, thought to be the remains of long gone, tiny sea dwellers who lived and died millions of years ago. These hydrocarbon chemicals are very varied and very complicated, much more so than the non-living chemicals in the rocks and the atmosphere. And since life began, hydrocarbons have been produced by plants and animals on land and in the sea.

The basic ingredients in hydrocarbons are hydrogen and carbon and these atoms are packaged in durable molecules. They endure long after the living things that created them have departed. They are present in fossils and decaying remains. The hydrocarbon ingredients in the asphalt recipe were buried and sealed below ground, eventually becoming oily petroleum, the complex fossil material from which we extract gasoline.

In some cases, petroleum deposits were formed near the surface or earth movements shifted deeper reservoirs closer to ground level. These deposits were no longer sealed from the air and the atmosphere worked changes on their assorted hydrocarbons. Some of the molecules were small and light, lighter than the gaseous molecules of the air. When the petroleum was uncapped, methane and butane, ethane and propane and other light hydrocarbons freed themselves molecule by molecule and went off to mingle with the air.

Mixture Refined

This left behind the oily, tacky substances present in the petroleum. These heavier materials clogged together in gummy pools and puddles of asphalt. At first they were shiny dark pools and puddles of sticky liquid. In time they dried out and formed surface layers of fairly firm asphalt that can be mined. Some of the world's asphalt deposits are immense and new upwellings of underground petroleum are adding more asphalt for the future. In the meantime, our clever chemists have learned a way to speed up the making of asphalt.

The asphalt we manufacture cannot be called a true man-made substance. The basic ingredients are exactly the same as those used to make natural asphalt. The recipe is exactly the same, except that it is performed faster. Natural petroleum is a mixture of many substances and we must refine it to separate them. This is done by heat and each ingredient turns to its gaseous state at its own boiling point.

Even Yachts Are Dressed For Pageantry

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

Once a year tradition, color, and pageantry prevail.

Sailors who usually appear in varying degrees of casual attire don blazers and "whites." Even the boats are "dressed."

Hewett

The occasion is the official start of the sailing season.

Opening-day ceremonies and sail pasts are planned at Cadboro Bay and Esquimalt Harbor this weekend.

Royal Victoria Yacht Club starts at 1:30 on Saturday with a flag-raising ceremony. The address will be given by Commodore Peter Townshend, and the Prayer by the Ven. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns.

SAILPAST SALUTE

At 2:30, the sailpast salute will be taken by Commodore Townshend in Foxy.

Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association commodore and flag officers will conduct the Esquimalt squadron ceremonies on Sunday, beginning with the flag-raising at 1:30.

The sailpast salute will be taken by Commodore Ron Hayes on board Green Teal at 2.

Sailing boats from Royal Victoria Yacht Club and RCNSA traditionally exchange visits on opening day.

* * *

The visit last weekend of Terry L. Phillips, Canadian Yachting Association national co-ordinator of junior sailing, focussed attention on the excellent nation-wise program for youngsters sponsored by the CYA.

In sailing, as in other sports, the organized training programs for juniors assures competition of continuing high calibre.

On a cross-country tour, Mr. Phillips met those associated with junior training programs to discuss the problems and needs of the local areas. There were seminars for instructors and racing teenagers, as well as a series of junior sailing regattas.

FOUR REGATTAS

During National Junior Sailing Week. Aug. 18-24, four major regattas will be held, including the CYA Western Canadian junior sailing championships.

This will be run in Comox Bay, and hosted by the Comox Sailing Club and April Point Yacht Club, using Signets. B.C. will be allotted four entries which will be decided by an elimination series in Vancouver one week before the event.

* * *

One index of a sport's popularity is the number of specialized publications lurking on the fringe of the activity.

By this yardstick, boating has become "big" in B.C.

A new glossy magazine, Pacific Yachting Journal, debuts June 20.

Published in Vancouver, it will cover power and sail with emphasis on new developments, engine and boat maintenance, sailing techniques, navigation, and safety.

A special feature will be the charts each month outlining mooring, camping, and shopping facilities available for the boater.

* * *

SHORT TACKS: The new Pacific Yachting Journal will have well-known Victoria photographer Jim McVie as official photographer and contributing editor. Editor will be Don Tyrell, who has been boating editor for the Vancouver Sun. . . . Following opening day ceremonies, larger sailboats of RVYC will take off on an overnight race to Crescent Rock. . . . Other yachts will stage an informal race from Cadboro Bay to attend the RCNSA opening ceremonies . . . Junior training programs connected with the CYA are run at RVYC under the direction of Sid Halls, and RCNSA under the direction of John Sharpe . . . Their instructors' seminar next month in Vancouver is under the direction of former Canadian Olympic sailor Dave Miller, who heads CYA's Junior Activiteis in B.C. . . . Halls is also intructing three classes of RVYC wives in basic sailing. The ladies use the Flying Juniors for the practical sessions.

Firemen Get Own Channel For Broadcast

The city fire department began operating on its own radio frequency this week.

Previously, the department was on the same frequency as all other fire departments in the area.

Chief Eric Simmons said the new set-up will enable officers to give instructions during a fire without interfering with other departments.

An alarm room monitor will keep in contact with other departments as well.

The chief said a third hook-up will permit firemen to call city police headquarters or prowler cars as well. Such calls have had to be made by telephone.

Willows Girls Outshine Boys

The Willows Elementary School invasion of the U.S. is over—and the girls proved better athletes than the boys.

Willows pupils split track and field events with Lynch Terrace School in Portland during a recent visit, with the Willows girls winning their events and the American boys winning theirs.

One hundred and twenty-five pupils left Victoria May 2 for a three-day visit to the Oregon city.

Willows principal Thomas Curteis said the pupils used their own money to return a March visit by 65 Portland children.

Decks Clear at Paris Leaders Talk Monday

PARIS (CP)—U.S. and North Vietnamese representatives agreed after a technical meeting of about two hours today to start preliminary Vietnam peace talks at 10:30 a.m. Monday following a further meeting Saturday on arrangements.

The starting time was worked out in the session of first contact here today between Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance, deputy of the U.S. delegation, and Col. Ha Van Lau, No. 2 man in the North Vietnamese group.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and the leader of the negotiating team from Hanoi, Xuan Thuy, stayed in the background today because it was agreed in advance through French mediation, that the first session would be concerned only with procedural problems.

A spokesman said the United States accepted this arrangement, which was reported proposed by North Vietnam.

●

U.S. officials expressed disappointment that Harriman and Thuy had not been able to begin substantive discussions immediately.

The meeting was held in the former Hotel Majestic close to the Arc de Triomphe.

At the top of the agenda is the North Vietnamese demand that the United States unconditionally halt its bombing of North Vietnam.

Until this is done, Hanoi has said, the political issues at the heart of the war cannot be discussed.

●

The United States has limited its bombing to the lower sector of North Vietnam, requiring that Hanoi demonstrate reciprocal "restraint" in return for a halt of all U.S. aerial attacks in the North.

If a formula for a bombing halt can be reached, it is expected the negotiators will then take up the sticky political questions. But no one pretends to know how long it will take to get an agreement to limit the war to South Vietnam's boundaries.

Thuy, who knows Harriman from the 1961-62 Geneva conference on Laos, proclaimed a hard line as he arrived Thursday.

He said the origin of the war is "American aggression and North Vietnam's four-point program for peace is reasonable, logical and judicious." The key points are American withdrawal from Vietnam and reunification of North and South Vietnam without foreign interference.

AROUND SAIGON

Waves of Cong Raids Crushed

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. bombers and artillery rained tons of explosives late this afternoon on stubborn Viet Cong holdouts along the southern edge of Saigon, but generally the war slowed down as U.S. and North Vietnamese peace negotiators prepared to meet in Paris.

A battalion commander from the U.S. 95th Infantry Division called air strikes and a rolling artillery barrage down on the last major group of Viet Cong soldiers still pressing the Viet Cong's six-day-old second-wave offensive.

The U.S. bombs and shells devastated a narrow row of homes, shanties and shops stretching half a mile along the southern limits of the capital where U.S. infantrymen clashed repeatedly with bands of snipers and rocket-firing Viet Cong.

Intelligence sources said combined forces troops have virtually crushed, at least for the time being, the waves of Viet Cong attacks that began last Sunday.

CONG INTERCEPTED

They said one reason for the failure so far of the offensive was that U.S. troops sweeping the countryside around Saigon intercepted much of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces before they reached the capital.

Th U.S. Command reported nearly 3,000 Viet Cong killed around the capital since Sunday.

One U.S. source said elements of 19 battalions pressing toward Saigon have been repulsed during the last week with heavy losses.

Viet Cong gunners shelled Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport and the Bien Hoa air base 15 miles to the north before dawn, but U.S. spokesmen said there were no casualties and little damage.

Several rounds of 100-pound rockets slammed into Hue, killing eight civilians. Northwest of Hue, rockets hit Camp Evans, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division, but damage and casualties were reported light.

250 KILLED

The Viet Cong offensive against Saigon produced a rash of battles Thursday in which combined forces troops reported killing more than 250 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

In the air war against North Vietnam, U.S. Navy jets hit the Xom Trung fuel storage area and barracks 16 miles west of Vinh for the second day in succession. Pilots said they set off more than 100 secondary explosions, countless fires and a huge fireball.

The U.S. command confirmed today that North Vietnamese MiG jets are operating south of the 20th parallel for the first time in the Vietnam war, apparently in an attempt to counter the increased U.S. air attacks on the southern panhandle.

A spokesman said a MiG-21 shot down an American F-4 Phantom jet Tuesday just north of Vinh, in the panhandle about 145 miles north of the demilitarized zone.

MacDONALD
... no opposition

MacDonald New Chief For CLC

TORONTO (CP) — Donald MacDonald, 58, today was unanimously elected president of the 1,500,000-member Canadian Labour Congress.

There was no opposition after Mr. MacDonald was nominated at the CLC convention by William Mahoney, national director of the United Steelworkers of America.

Mr. MacDonald takes over from Claude Jodoin, president of the CLC since its inception in 1956. Mr. Jodoin suffered a severe stroke a year ago and Mr. MacDonald was been serving as acting president.

The convention earlier approved a $5,000 annual increase in the salaries of its four full-time officers, bringing Mr. MacDonald to $25,000 a year.

William Dodge, 56, unanimously elected to Mr. MacDonald's old job as secretary-treasurer, will get $22,500 a year.

VANCOUVER ROLE

Mr. MacDonald holds a union membership card in the Vancouver local of the International Woodworkers of America. He was originally a miner in the Maritimes and a member of the United Mine Workers of America, which is not affiliated with the CLC.

Delegates today revolted against the CLC executive to elect Gerard Rancourt as executive vice-president.

Soviet Invasion Doubted

WARSAW (AP) — Western observers today discounted rumors that Soviet troops are about to invade Czechoslovakia or are massing on its border to put pressure on the new liberal regime in Prague.

The rumors stemmed from reported movements of Soviet troops in Poland as close as 18 miles to the frontier with Czechoslovakia shortly after an emergency summit conference in Moscow of hard-line East European Communist leaders. They evidently discussed Czechoslovakia.

Diplomatic sources in Moscow conceded that Soviet-Czechoslovak relations have been shaken by Prague's sweeping liberalization, including its unshackling of the press. But these sources said the Soviets showed no sign of being disturbed enough to stage a rerun of the bloody quashing of the 1956 Hungarian rebellion.

Seasoned observers in Vienna felt likewise and linked the reported troop movements to previously announced plans for manoeuvres of the Warsaw Pact forces that are scheduled to extend into Czechoslovakia.

DISCUSS POSSIBILITY

The possibility of Soviet military intervention was discussed in Prague newspapers earlier this week, but an editorial in the labor paper Prace said such a Soviet undertaking was "unbelievable."

Western military attaches were prevented from leaving Warsaw to check on the Soviet troop movements, but one witness was reported to have seen Russian troops near the town of Andrychow, 18 miles from the Czech border.

A spokesman for the Polish foreign ministry said the reports of troop movements were "just rumors." He said the "situation on the Polish-Czechoslovak border is quite normal."

Trybuna Ludu, the Polish Communist party newspaper, Thursday called for the "forcible silencing" of the "alien, anti-Socialist trend in the political life" of Czechoslovakia.

Trapped Miners Link Up To Assist Rescue Attempt

Two Join 13 Co-Workers After Long Tunnel Crawl

HOMINY FALLS, W. Va. (UPI)—Two entombed coal miners made a dramatic link-up with 13 other men trapped deep inside a partially flooded mine shaft today to await rescue which officials said was imminent.

Edward Rudd and Frank Davis breakfasted on hot chocolate and doughnuts, received fresh batteries for their miners' lamps, then began crawling nearly a half-mile through 10 inches of water in the 36-inch-high tunnel.

Forty-five minutes later, they embraced their co-workers who were stranded on high ground in an adjacent shaft.

"They had no trouble at all," said C. E. Richardson, president of the mine. "They told us (by mine telephone) that they reached the larger group without difficulty. This is a big morale boost to all the men."

The two men had been separated from the others since noon Monday when a flood of water trapped 25 miners. The remaining 10 miners have not been heard from and hopes were all but gone they would be found alive.

ALL TOGETHER

Richardson said Rudd and Davis, a foreman, were told to join the others "because the larger group is in a bigger area and we would rather have all the men together for the final rescue attempt."

The link-up order was given, he said, after the main body of water in the gently sloping drift mine receded by 30 feet, putting rescuers within 1,100 feet from where the larger group was marooned.

Officials hoped to install by midnight a high-speed pump capable of siphoning off more than 800 gallons of water a minute. At midday, the drilling rig for the pump had gone down within 30 feet of the shaft.

While rescuers pinned their main hopes on the lowering of the water level by pumps, a continuous mining machine was chewing out a horizontal passageway toward the 15 men from an adjacent abandoned mine.

POOR PEOPLE'S MARCH PUTS ARMY ON EDGE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thousands of U.S. Army troops in the Washington area are reported to be going on alert Saturday to be ready for any violence accompanying this weekend's arrival of the vanguard of the Poor People's Campaign.

The U.S. defence department said the army is taking certain "prudent actions" but declined to give details.

Sources said these actions include telling troops at posts and bases near Washington to be set to move, if necessary, in as little as one hour.

TRUDEAU PLAN

Minister Eyed For Maritimes

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said today he hopes to put all Atlantic provinces development programs under a single cabinet minister, partly to promote economic integration of the region.

Just before departing on a western trip, Mr. Trudeau told a news conference he hoped the new arrangement "will be a forerunner to closer economic integration" in the four eastern provinces. (Mr. Trudeau speaks in Vancouver tonight.)

He said this is part of the federal thinking behind the move. He could not speculate on whether it would lead eventually to political union, which some eastern provincial premiers had been talking about.

Mr. Trudeau also indicated the cabinet minister in charge of the co-ordination of Atlantic development programs may head a new department of regional growth. It would oversee special regional programs in other parts of Canada as well.

In cabinet, the minister would be responsible for pleading the case for regional development on the basis that regional disparity is a menace to national unity.

PATIENT DIES IN FRANCE

MONTPELLIER, France (Reuters) — French heart transplant patient, Elie-Joseph Reynes, 65, died here today, 48 hours after receiving the heart of a 35-year-old man fatally injured in an accident.

U.K. Boosts NATO Force

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Britain Friday announced a 40-per-cent increase in its contribution of land forces to the Western alliance and naval forces to meet the growing Soviet threat in the Mediterranean.

Defence Secretary Denis Healey of Britain made the offer at a meeting of ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He told reporters later the pledge was "warmly welcomed."

Medicare Still Mystery

By JOHN MIKA

Only a handful of British Columbians know what's in store for all citizens July 1 under an agreement on medicare signed by the province Thursday.

But none of them are talking today.

Premier Bennett turned down a request for an interview to explain the impact the agreement will have for B.C. citizens. And Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, who signed the document in Ottawa, was still out of town with his delegation.

Federal Health Minister Allan MacEachen, in Port Hawkesbury, N.S., also refused comment on the agreement which he signed on behalf of Ottawa.

Administrators of the nine non-profit pre-paid medical plans that will be directly affected have not been informed of their fate by the provincial government yet. Nor have the several private insurance companies which also write health policies for a significant percentage of the population.

Even Health Minister Ralph Loffmark appears to have been kept in the dark about the event he announced Thursday afternoon.

BRIEF NOTICE

The premier's office informed the press gallery Mr. Loffmark would make an important statement and he phoned from

Grit Backs Laing: Port Up to Ottawa

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grant Deachman, Liberal MP in the last House, said Thursday the British Columbia government will have no control of any kind over a superport to be built at nearby Roberts Bank.

Mr. Deachman, seeking re-election in Vancouver Quadra, said his statement and a recent statement by Northern Affairs Minister Laing constitute federal policy on the port.

"The Roberts Bank superport will be federally owned ... it will be federally built and federally operated.

"The province of British Columbia will have no control over it or its operation whatsoever."

He told his Liberal nomination convention Ottawa plans to call tenders for dredging within two or three weeks.

"The federal government will be most reluctant to resort to expropriation. Ottawa is not slamming the door on Mr. Bennett but it is serving notice that this project cannot be held up."

Ottawa and Victoria have been embroiled in a battle over who will build and operate the port, which must be ready by 1970 to handle a $650 million shipment of coal to Japan. Both governments have announced they will build Roberts Bank.

Mr. Deachman said:

"The premiers of the three Prairie provinces have stated they will not tolerate a gate being put on this national port and facility by the government of B.C."

NEW TONE IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Democracy Alive and Kicking

By PETER REHAK

PRAGUE (AP) — "Novotny is an idiot. If he was here, I would like to kick him," a man in dark glasses shouts into a microphone. He is a former Czechoslovak political prisoner.

A young student reads a 1924 essay by Czech writer Karel Capek, entitled Why I Am Not a Communist. It condemns communism as a power-hungry movement for the benefit of a few.

The scene is Prague's Old Town Square, where a crowd of 5,000 has assembled to air their beefs over a public address system lent by the city.

Not a policeman is in sight.

"Three months ago, the police would have charged in here and thrown all of us in the clink" says a young man.

This is Prague, the capital of Czechoslovakia, three months after the ouster of Antonin Novotny as the country's president and Communist party chief.

Novotny's successors, Party Chief Alexander Dubcek, Premier Oldrich Cernik and President Ludvik Svoboda, have launched the country on a liberal course unmatched in any other Communist country.

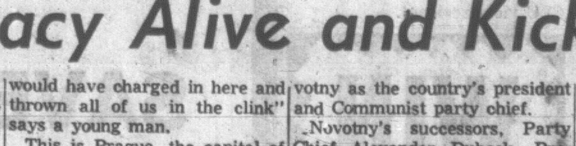
"They have gone further here in the past three months than in Yugoslavia in the past 20 years," said a Westerner who has lived in Belgrade.

The new course is in evidence everywhere.

Press censorship has been lifted. Every day the newspapers are filled with stories of mental and physical tortures in Stalinist jails.

People in the streets, in cafes and in the aging streetcars discuss and criticize everything and anything.

"Democracy and liberalization," is the motto of the day.



Sounds like a Russian Czechmate maybe.

The AG says the government may rieview its liquor regulations . . . I'll drink to that.

General Liquor Review Due Says A-G of Sunday Call

Archbishop Sexton's surprise call for Sunday drinking in bars and parlors has been heard by the provincial government, Attorney-General Robert Bonner made clear today.

Although he would not say the cabinet would do anything about it now, he said the time is coming when a general review of the liquor laws and rules for licensed premises will be made.

He was commenting on the archbishop's statement that citizens should be able to buy a drink on Sunday afternoons.

"His grace's point of view is sympathetically viewed by a large number of people in the province," said Mr. Bonner.

"I am aware too, however, there also is violent opposition to it.

"I think we may be approaching the time when a general review of licensing might be desirable so that the opposed viewpoints of which I am aware might be properly aired."

Mr. Bonner said the liquor laws had been liberalized considerably during his 16 years in office but more amendment may be needed soon.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Vending Shares Hit High

Captain International, a Vancouver-based vending machine manufacturer, continued its recent market surge today during active pre-noon trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

A penny over-the-counter trader only a few months ago, Captain today traded at $8.50, a new high and gain of .75 from Thursday's close.

Vancouver brokers, who said much of the buying is coming from the U.S. and eastern Canada, suggested the issue's move from its recent $5 level has been based on rumors of new sales contracts.

In the mining section, Hudson Bay Mountain Silver remained the most active trader on a turnover of 202,700 shares. Late morning trades were at .77 a gain of .07.

Elsewhere Cumon was up .08 to .98, Lytton was .10 to $2.05, National Nickel .20 to $2.30 and New Indian .03 to .19.

Losers included Giant Mascot off .07 to $1.43, Lornex, down .20 to $5.40, and Westland, off .07 to $1.20.

AT TORONTO Dome Pete and Final volume was 3,732,000 shares compared with 3,633,000 40½. The group has revived sharply since a tumble early this year.

In industrials, John Inglis was [illegible]

and Inco ¼ to 123¾.

Neon Products gained ⅝ to 22⅝.

Lowney, another active stock, declined 3 to 48½. Gordon MacKay B gained ⅝ to 10.

Among speculative mines, First National Uranium picked up 11 cents to 1.26 on sales of 48,000 shares. Dunraine fell 6 to 79 cents.

AT NEW YORK the list of most-actively traded stocks was almost solidly in the plus column.

Brokers said investors apparently had lost their apprehension about reported Soviet troop movements near the Czech border because there had been no new developments.

The reports sent the market tumbling early Thursday afternoon, but a recovery got under way before the close.

Mail-order-retails, non-ferrous metals, chemicals and tobaccos were mostly higher. Oils were weak.

AT MONTREAL in the industrial list, junior issues posted the most significant price changes as Lait Leclerc A fell 2¼ to 7¼ and Lowney 2 to 50 on a turnover of 200 and 335 shares respectively.

Famous Players, Zellers and Oshawa A retreated ¾ each to 50¾, 13⅜ and 32¾, and Velcro ½ to 53½. CPR dropped ⅝ to 53⅛ and Brinco 25 cents to 3.90.

Canadian International Power climbed 1⅛ to 34¾, Kenting Aviation, a junior stock, 1¼ to 29⅞ and Scott-Lasalle 1 to 22.

In senior mines and oils, Inco and Husky edged up ¾ each to 124¼ and 25½ and B-A ⅝ to 40⅝.

AT LONDON the market turned down sharply today, with the market's recent nervousness finding fuller expression as a result of the attack on the government launched in The Daily Mirror.

Leading industrials showed many sharp falls, while second-rank issues were marked down by a matter of shillings. Selling was on a fairly large scale.

Gilts weakened in sympathy with sterling, and losses of ⅛ to ¼ were widespread.

Dollar stocks were mostly lower.

In Canadians Hudson's Bay Oil and Noranda were up a point but falls of ½ to 2 points were common.

Uranium Demand To Soar

VANCOUVER (CP) — Recent breakthroughs in generation of nuclear electrical power will bring an unprecedented demand for uranium during the next few years, says W. M. Gilchrist, president of Crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd.

He told the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy that $7,000,000,000 to $8,000,000,000 will be needed by 1980 to finance uranium production to meet the demand.

The most important development in nuclear power production recently has been the improved capability of generating plants, which are now able to produce electricity at a rate of four mills a kilowatt, he said.

When the uranium boom collapsed in 1959 it was expected that it would be 1970 before nuclear power could be produced at a rate lower than the four-mill barrier, but the barrier was shattered in 1963, said Mr. Gilchrist.

"Today, four companies in the U.S.—General Electric, Westinghouse, Combustion Engineering and Babcock-Wilcox—have orders for reactors totalling well over $7,000,000," said the executive.

He said it now is estimated there will be about 145,000 megawatts of nuclear power on transmission lines in the Western world in 1975, which will burn about 36,000 tons of U-308 annually.

"This is just about what the presently-known reserves of uranium in the West can poduce each year, and not for a very great length of time," said Mr. Gilchrist. "There is a good possibility that this figure for installed nuclear power will be exceeded by 1975."

He said development of uranium reserves is well under way in the U.S., but work in Canada and most other uranium-rich nations has just started.

Factors which make uranium a logical source of electrical production, said Mr. Gilchrist, are elimination of fuel transportation, flexibility of location, reduction of costs of up to 50 per cent and absence of atmospheric pollution.

U.S. FOREST LAND SHORTAGE FEARED

THE ENEMY: 'CITY DWELLER'S DREAM'

'Stop the Conservationists' Cry Loggers

U.S. west coast loggers have been urged to take the initiative in preventing additional forest reserves from being tied up in the hands of conservationists.

James R. Turnbull, executive vice-president of the American Plywood Association, told delegates to the 23rd annual Olympic Logging Conference here Thursday the chief enemy of loggers today is the "city dweller's dream."

He sees a critical forest land shortage in the U.S.

"We now have about 484,000,000 acres in commercial forest land," Mr. Turnbull said. "By the year 2000 we will need almost twice that much, more than 700,000,000 acres, to meet the nation's wood product needs."

Urban opinion can be dealt with through persuasion, he said. The industry must increase its efforts to explain to the public that it is not an exploiter of forest resources.

Mr. Turnbull said many of the industry's land-locking problems would be solved if operators cleaned up logging operations on mountainsides.

The theme of the two-day conference is "Public Image and the Logger."

This morning conference delegates at a panel discussion of public image problems were told by Tom Erickson of Port Angeles "the only way we're going to improve this is to work on it."

Mr. Erickson told delegates that loggers must wage an uphill struggle to win favor in public opinion because this is in an urban society and most influence is exerted by those with urban interests.

Ninety per cent of the population will soon be living on only 1 per cent of the land, he said.

The 315 delegates were urged to improve the logger's public image.

"Today's logging men aren't two-fisted, brawling and drinking, said Ned Thomas, editor and associate publisher of the Port Angeles Evening News.

"Most of them are family men," he said. "Some even belong to the PTA."

The conference winds up with a banquet and ball in the Crystal Ballroom this evening

Arthur Mayse

The dog-run that weathers unused at the foot of our garden should have taught me a little something about home carpentry projects. But time's a healer, and anyway, what's so difficult about mending a busted fence? A job like that, you knock off on a Saturday with time left over for a bout of spading.

"Well," I said to my sweety while the day was young, "Time to get started. All we need is a couple of two-by-fours and a cedar post."

"That's nice," she said, "but are you sure it wouldn't be simpler to have a carpenter do it"

"At their rates?" I said, and shoved off all carefree to buy the wood with a "Measure up first!" to speed me.

If you have done business with a lumberyard, you know the procedure. You place your order and pay your money up front where they sell the tools, nails and builders' hardware.

Another thing you learn at a woodyard is that Saturday is fixit day. Seven customers were ahead of me, and each clutched a material list.

★

Time passed. I shifted from one foot to the other. So did the fellow next in line. Then his turn came, and I swear to Moses the guy must have been ordering the makings of a house.

After his, my order seemed hardly worth bothering with, but the man behind the counter was nice about it. He noted my pair of two-by-fours and the cedar post on his order form, and set down a price which I paid with a suppressed whimper. No wonder the lumber trade's in trouble!

Around back where they keep the stuff, everything's brisk and hearty. Up went my load to our cartop carrier — the kind that sits on suction cups — in two easy swings.

With a gentle squeak of over-burdened metal, the carrier settled an inch. Obviously, they aren't making car roofs the way they used to.

"That won't do," said the yard hand. "Maybe we'd better stick the post in your trunk."

What with the occasional ominous squeakings from aloft and a pause for relocating the post, I made poor time. But no matter ... a simple little job like that shouldn't take more than two or three hours at the outside.

First, though, the stump of the broken fencepost had to come out. I dug around it, then grabbed hold and heaved. Nothing happened. It was in there like an impacted molar, and to make sure it stayed in its pit, the original builder had anchored it with rocks.

★

Around two o'clock, I got tired of prying boulders from the bed they had settled into so determinedly, and sat down in the shade to devise an easier way.

Let's see now ... maybe a car jack and a rope sling ...

The stub popped out, the jack toppled and skinned my shin, and I realized at the same instant that the old post measured four-by-four, whereas the replacement I'd bought was six-by-six.

Scouting about, time now close to three and all not well, I discovered a post of the right length and size. It was jammed against the rear wheels of son Ron's camper — a precaution I dimly remember advising.

The camper was locked and neither Ron nor his keys were around. So I wrestled the too-big post out of the car trunk and behind the camper's front wheels. Then I kicked at the right-sized post, with no result beyond a painfully stubbed toe. So I hunted up a sledgehammer and bashed it free, splintering it somewhat in the process.

The afternoon and my patience were beginning to wear a trifle thin, but I planted the post, and, wearily grunting, replaced the rocks.

And there it stands with its slight northerly lean, a monument to home industry,. Next Saturday, I'll finish the job for sure, if I can find my hammer and remember to buy nails and other necessary oddments. A carpenter would accomplish it quicker, and I begin to suspect more cheaply. But look at all the fun I'm having!

Dreams Crash At RC School, Students Glum

By JIM HUME

The blueprints still hang on the wall.

Thursday they were proud reminders that next September St. Louis College would move into the ranks of high schools offering the finest physical facilities to its students.

Friday they were grim reminders of a fund-raising campaign that failed.

After 104 years of service to the community St. Louis College will close its doors to Catholic high school students after the Grade 12 graduation ceremonies in June.

Closing of the college means more than the loss of an education facility: when the school goes, so will the Christian Brothers of Ireland, teachers at St. Louis' since 1915.

School principal Brother Malloy, in charge of the school for the past eight years, said it was "highly improbable" that he and his staff of seven would be re-assigned to duties in the Victoria area.

RE-ASSIGNMENT?

"We are a teaching order and our re-assignment will come from our Canadian superior," he said.

"But I can't see what there can be for us to do here once the college closes.

"We are not very cheerful here today. I think I know now how my uncle felt when the Titanic went down. He was on radio duty in Newfoundland that night. You know what's happening and feel desperate when there is nothing you can do about it."

In Grade 10, with the knowledge that this was their last year at the college, the students were blunt and outspoken in their opinions on the decision to close the school.

"It's a mistake," said Ian Stuart, 15. "A bad mistake. It isn't just that they are closing a school. This is the beginning of the end for the Catholic education system."

CHURCH HURT

"It goes deeper than just the school. I think closing St. Louis will cause a big split in the church, too."

Bob Duncan echoed the sentiments.

"They could have kept it open if they had really tried," he said. "Let's face it, when St. Louis' goes, so does the system."

How do the youngsters feel about being dispersed in the public schools system?

They are a little afraid.

"You'd have to go to school here to understand, but there's a tremendous spirit here," said Brad Dusseault. "The Brothers are more than teachers, they are our friends, too. And I don't think we are going to find that same feeling in public schools. We know the teachers here and they know us. From what I've seen of public schools that relationship isn't there."

SAD LETTER

Down the well-worn stairs and in a corner office Brother Malloy pecked at a typewriter roughing out the first draft of a letter to parents advising them to start looking for alternative classroom space for their children.

"You must forgive me," said the Brother. "We are all in a state of shock around here today. It's like knowing somebody is dying from cancer. You know they're going, but you never get over the blow when you hear a good friend is dead."

Out in the corridor a young member of the staff scuffed his shoes.

"You don't realize how much you love a school until you're told it doesn't exist any more," he said softly. "I just didn't think this could ever happen."

But it has happened.

FUNDS LACKING

A fund drive to raise the cash to extend the college and build a gymnasium and other facilities fell far short of its target.

In June the school opened by Bishop Modeste Demers in 1864, the second school in British Columbia, will close its doors.

Almost a month ago the Times reported that closure was imminent. The same story also stated that Sacred Heart, a Catholic elementary school, was facing severe financial problems and might close its doors in June.

The fat of Sacred Heart still hangs in the balance, as does The fate of Sacred Heart still schools in the area.

Greater Victoria School Board Chairman Peter Bunn is already on record as saying that full closure would impose a great burden on the already overcrowded public school system.

HARRY EVANS
. . . to Simon Fraser

Registrar Switches Registries

Harry M. Evans, registrar of the provincial department of education since 1953, has been appointed registrar of Simon Fraser University.

The appointment, effective July 8, was announced by university president Dr. P. D. McTaggart-Cowan. Mr. Evans succeeds D. P. Robertson, who earlier accepted a post at the University of Waterloo.

Mr. Evans graduated from University of British Columbia in 1942 and after war service, and a short period as a high school teacher in the interior, joined the provincial education department as deputy assistant registrar in 1947. He was appointed registrar six years later.

As registrar he becomes secretary of the Simon Fraser senate. In addition to this he holds office on a number of important committees.

He is chairman of the selection committee for B.C. government scholarships and bursaries and a member of the B.C. student aid loan committee, the joint board of teacher-education, the provincial board of examiners and the academic board for higher education in B.C.

$1,000 Damage In Garage Fire

Fire Thursday caused extensive damage to a garage in Victoria.

The fire, at 410 John St., caused $1,000 damage to the garage which was separated from the house.

City fire officials suspect faulty wiring to be the cause of the blaze.

New Cabaret Planned At Old Pacific Club

The former private Pacific Club is going public and hopes to re-open its doors next week as a dining room-cabaret.

The premises at Fort and Wharf Streets have been taken over by a private company, Grenadier Enterprises Limited, and are being renovated throughout the public areas.

Tony Else, president of the new company and holder of controlling interest, said the club would be open for luncheons, dinners and late evening dining with entertainment.

A operating licence application is before the city comptroller-treasurer's department.

Three directors of the new company are all Victoria residents—Tom Watkins, employed by a trust company; William Thomas, newspaperman, and George Jones, lawyer.

SPENT $200,000

Three floors of the historic waterfront building were taken over, enlarged and renovated at a total cost of about $200,000 before the Pacific Club opened there in September, 1964.

The 81-year-old club enjoyed its new premises about 18 months, but found the burden of debt and overhead too much, and closed in the spring of 1966.

Conciliator Opposes Naming Board

Strike Vote Next In Woods Dispute

Labor department conciliator Jack Sherlock today recommended against appointment of a conciliation board in the contract renewal dispute between 113 timber companies and 28,000 members of the International Woodworkers of America.

ployers' bargaining agent.

He reported "no agreement could be reached on any major point in the proposed changes to the agreement" covering the wood products industry on the B.C. coast and Vancouver Island.

Next steps in the dispute are expected to be a union strike vote and further negotiations between the IWA and Forest Industrial Relations, the employers bargaining agent.

The current two-year contract, covering logging, sawmills, plywood plants and shingle mills, expires next month.

SAME AGAIN

Mr. Sherlock's no-board recommendation was identical to the one he made two years ago in the same dispute. At that time he reported he was "unable to bring about an agreement."

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, in releasing the conciliation officer's recommendation, said "it is anticipated" both sides will continue to negotiate and they have been assured the facilities of his department are available to them.

The IWA has presented 17 contract proposals, including a wage increase of 50 cents an hour in a one-year contract, double time for overtime, improvements in health and welfare, severance pay and a clause governing contracting out of work.

The companies have proposed establishment of arbitration boards to determine liability for illegal work stoppages and fines on the guilty party, review of falling and bucking rates and extension of job evaluation to logging, sawmill and shingle mills. At present it covers only plywood.

Writer Named To 5-Year Term On Sites Board

James K. Nesbitt — "Mr. Victoria" to many readers — has been appointed to a five-year term on the Historical Sites and Monuments Board of Canada.

He is the fourth British Columbian and the first Victorian to be appointed to the 12-member board since its inception by the federal government 48 years ago.

Mr. Nesbitt, a free-lance writer and commentator, is an authority on Victoria and B.C. history and personalities.

He begins his term June 1, succeeding history professor Dr. Margaret Ormsby, and will attend the board's semi-annual meeting next month in St. John's, Nfld.

The board is responsible for selecting and commemorating historic places and events in the nation's life.

Plunge Kills Son of Chief

16-YEAR-OLD PLEADS GUILTY TO SEVEN BURGLARY CHARGES

A 16-year-old today pleaded guilty to seven counts of breaking and entering and one count of theft over $50.

Douglas Aason, 16, of 90 Linden was earlier transferred from juvenile court.

Court was told he entered seven different homes in the Victoria area between April 13 and 24 and stole various amounts of money, in each case under $50.

He later stole an automobile which was subsequently demolished in an accident.

He was remanded to May 14 for sentence pending a pre-sentence probation report.

Car Leaves Lakeside Highway

The 17-year-old son of Chief John Albany of Craigflower Reserve was killed early Thursday when his car plunged into Cameron Lake on the Parksville-Port Alberni Highway.

Gene Albany, who was driving the car, died immediately.

His brother-in-law, Fred Morry, 29, whose ribs were broken in the accident, made a vain attempt to save the driver before the car sank, RCMP said.

They were on their way to Port Alberni when the car broke through a guard rail, rolled down an embankment and came to rest in about five feet of water.

Morry, who married Albany's sister only a week ago, extricated himself from the sinking car, but couldn't rescue his brother-in-law.

He clambered back to the road and called for help. Albany's body was recovered later by divers.

RCMP said an inquiry will be held.

Morry was taken to West Coast General Hospital. He is in good condition.

He resides with the Albanys at 1341 Craigflower Road.

Politicians Need 'Strong Infusion Of Religion'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Religious Editor

Canada's political life would be "improved and immeasurably benefitted by a good strong infusion of religion," Archbishop Harold Sexton told the 66th synod (parliament) of the Anglican diocese of British Columbia Thursday night.

'TOO MANY CHURCHES IN CITY'

Twenty-five Anglican churches in metro Victoria should be reduced to 15, it was stated today at the 66th annual synod (parliament) of the Anglican diocese of British Columbia.

Brian Gingell, people's warden at Christ Church Cathedral and a B.C. government economist, said the 25 churches are economically unsound.

"If a businessman were to operate 25 theatres in metro Victoria, all showing the same movie, he would soon be bankrupt."

Mr. Gingell said there are seven Anglican churches within a 1½-mile radius of the City Hall and 14 within a 2½-mile radius.

"In the next five years, 10 of these churches should be phased out by amalgamation with churches in growing areas. Many of our smaller churches were built in the horse-and-buggy era when travel was a problem."

Outside metro Victoria, Mr. Gingell said, there should be one Anglican church to each school district, because a school district is essentially an economic area.

In an interview, he admitted there is considerable sentiment attaching to small rural churches and he personally enjoyed visiting them.

"But to keep pace with the changing pattern of society, I believe all personal and emotional considerations should be secondary to the welfare of the church as a whole."

The archbishop delivered his charge at a service in Christ Church Cathedral attended by 250 clergy and lay delegates from all parts of Vancouver Island, and nearly 600 members of the public.

Premier Bennett, a member of the United Church, sat in the front pew of the lofty cathedral, directly facing the altar, and was publicly welcomed by the archbishop.

He also welcomed Bishop Remi De Roo, head of the Roman Catholic Church on Vancouver Island, who is attending the Anglican synod for the first time.

"We would assure him that we Anglicans are keenly interested in the life and developments taking place in his great church today."

Rev. John Watson of First Baptist Church represented Greater Victoria Council of Churches and all participating clergy entered the cathedral in a solemn procession.

Giving his last charge before retirement, Archbishop Sexton said the church has long since repudiated the idea that it should "keep its eyes on the heavens" and leave human well-being to others.

"Everything which touches the life of the nation is the concern of the Christian, and the church today is intent on relating the principles of the Gospel to the life of the community."

OVERDUE

Archbishop Sexton said the presence of women at the current synod as accredited delegates from many parishes of Vancouver Island is the result of an "overdue" change in canon law.

He spoke of the continuing agony in Vietnam and said all Christians should pray for success of the consultations taking place in Paris today.

Shoplifter Gets Month in Jail

A woman with a previous conviction for shoplifting was sentenced to one month for a similar charge today.

June Gardner, No. 7, 1270 Yates, pleaded guilty to stealing goods valued at $10.53 from a Safeway store Thursday.

Court was told she had received a suspended sentence for a shoplifting offence in Vancouver over a year ago.

BIG FAIR OPENS MONDAY

OFFICIALS BRACED FOR 100,000

Jaycee Memo to Weatherman: Don't Change a Thing!

By ALAN WHITE

This week's fair weather better hold over, as far as the Junior Chamber of Commerce is concerned.

Next week is fair week—the annual Jaycee trade fair and home show, second only in size in this province to the PNE in Vancouver.

It's the biggest show on the Island and one of the largest single attractions to Victoria.

Organizers have lined up more than $500,000 worth of merchandise for the home on display. And $8,000 of it will be given away as prizes during the six-day fair.

Club officials are expecting hundreds of visitors to the city to take in everything from the Miss Victoria judging to 4-H agricultural displays.

The main section of the fair — the original body of exhibits — is the trade exhibit in Memorial Arena, on Blanshard St.

Every inch of available space has been rented out for a total of 76 exhibits this year. Overlooking the trade show is the stage, where organist Earl Grant will head the stage show every night.

Just north of the arena is an area set aside for 4-H cattle judging and displays. In fact, there is will be one of the best exhibits in the fair — the Jaycees have used all the store-front sets from last year's Centennial fair as display fronts for 4-H animals. All these are set up in a replica of Old MacDonald's Farm.

The other big attraction is east at the Curling Rink just past the Jaycee hot dog stand. Here the club has let out 85 exhibit spaces for the home show, everything from home accessories to furniture.

And on the north and south sides of the rink they have a midway with 16 rides.

Spotted around the exhibits are boxes for the coupons included in the fair program, offering draws on a car, a color television set, a trip to Mexico and many other prizes.

Each night at 7:30 a fashion show will be held with the 10 finalists in the Miss Victoria contest as models. Judges will be watching and assessing the girls for their final decisions Saturday night.

The doors open at 2 Monday afternoon, with the official opening by Victoria Mayor Hugh Stephen at 8 p.m.

Earl Grant will do two stage shows — one at 4:15 and the second at 10:15 — each day of the fair.

And the Jaycees will set up a teen dance at the north side of the Curling Rink every night.

Judging of the 4-H exhibits will be held from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday. Public speakers from the clubs will be judged Saturday.

The Jaycees call this year's fair bigger and better than ever — and with the months and months of hard work they have put into organizing the event it must be so.

Attendance figures this year are expected to top those of 1967, which were lower than the previous year.

But with top attractions and headline entertainment, the club is certain the fair will draw well over 100,000 persons.

. . . SYNOD

"We pray there may be a definite step towards cessation of hostilities in that war-torn and devastated counry — the terrible fratricide in Nigeria which divides Christian from Christian — the tumults in Hong Kong — the continuing desperate situation in the Middle East — and the rampant racial issue in the United States."

He said the death of Dr. Martin Luther King had a profound effect on the church.

"In a fast-changing world, the church itself must change, not in essence, but in the way it deploys its resources in meeting some of the world's needs.

Archbishop Sexton said he hoped that strong representation from the church, with those of statesmen and all men of goodwill, will soon bring relief from a "cruel and dangerous war."

Throughout Canada, and in almost all civilized countries, there is mounting anxiety over the increasing number of nuclear experiments. . . .

'MORAL PIGMY'

"Technologically modern man is a giant, but morally a pigmy; outwardly capable but inwardly needy.

Of ecumenism, the archbishop said Canadian Baptists seem willing to accept bishops and Anglican archbishops are prepared to consider the consecration of duly-elected Methodist ministers as bishops.

"We may devoutly hope that, if the United Church feels the need of bishops, as we are led to believe, care will be exercised to see that they are real bishops, and not merely bishops in name."

(In an interview, Archbishop Sexton said he thought bishops should act as counsellors to clergymen who, in turn, give counsel to their parishioners.)

"We have good reason to believe that, in due course, we will be guided by the Holy Spirit towards restoring full unity between the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches."

MORE GOING

The archbishop said it is estimated that 157 priests of the Canadian church are no longer engaged in a full-time ministry, and the number abandoning it for secular employment is growing by about 40 annually.

He added that the number of clergymen ordained in England during the last 12 months was the lowest for 10 years.

Speaking of candidates for the ministry, the archbishop said:

"We need more men of a cultured background; men who can hold their own in any company and mix freely and easily with those of all stations in life."

Of the hippies, he said: "There are those who think they have something in common with Samson and that their strength lies in their hair.

NO CLEANER

"There is no evidence that they are stronger than their fellows and they do not appear to be any cleaner."

On the subject of Victoria's polluted inland waters, the archbishop said:

"It is the duty of responsible officials to take immediate steps in the matter, whatever the cost may be, in the interests of our citizens."

Concluding his charge, the archbishop expressed thanks to all members of the synod for their help and co-operation during his 33 years of office.

He has resigned as head of the Anglican church in British Columbia and a successor will be appointed this month. He will continue as bishop of the diocese until the end of the year.

Earlier, in an interview, the archbishop said the church has suffered loss of public support because of puritanism—and particularly the puritanical conception of Sunday.

"The Puritans have confused the Sabbath with Sunday. Sabbath means cessation of work and applies to the seventh day of the week. Sunday is the first day of the week, the weekly commemoration of Easter Sunday, and it should be a day of joy.

"But we must always remember that a day of rest, one in seven, is part of the divine plan for mankind. We must be sure we don't make work for people on that day."

Fairfield Store Hit by Thieves

Thieves who broke into Henderson Low Cost, 390 Moss St., in Fairfield, overnight, escaped with cash and cigarettes police said today.

Between $30 and $35 silver and five or six cartons of cigarettes were reported stolen.

Entry was gained by breaking a basement window.

JOINT CHOIRS SING ANTHEM

Choirs of St. Barnabas, St. Mary's, Oak Bay, and Christ Church Cathedral joined forces in the cathedral Thursday night to sing the Coronation anthem Zadok the Priest.

The ensemble was conducted by Richard Proudman and the service, launching the 66th annual synod of the diocese of British Columbia, was conducted by Dean Brian Whitlow.

Clergy and delegates are holding discussions in Christ Church Memorial Hall today and Saturday.

70 Cadets Polishing For Sunday

It's spit-and-polish time 2 p.m. Sunday for about 70 Canadian army cadets who will assemble at Work Point Barracks for their annual inspection.

The inspecting officer and guest of honor will be Rear-Admiral John A. Charles, commander of Pacific Maritime Forces.

The cadets, belonging to the 2483 Queen's Own Rifles of Canada based in Esquimalt, are commanded by Captain R. C. Watt. Parade commander for the occasion will be 18-year-old Cadet Warrant Officer Timothy McCooey, 264 View Royal.

Presentations made during the ceremony will range from the most proficient cadet to awards for individual and group achievements in marksmanship, first aid and other courses.

Interest and enthusiasm shown by cadets during the year has been judged by officers and instructors, as well as a team of regular force personnel headed by Captain J. C. Bell, cadet staff officer of Pacific Region Headquarters in Vancouver.

Nelson's Staff Wins Wage Hike Retroactively

Wage increases of 51 cents to $1.23 an hour in a 30-month contract have been won by 200 Island employees of Nelson's Launderers and Dry Cleaners.

Settlement was by negotiation after employees voted in favor of strike action and Local 580 of the Retail Wholesale and Department Store Union posted strike notice late last week.

Union members approved the new contract in votes this week and their decision was announced today.

The contract is retroactive to last Nov. 1 and provides a 30-cent hourly wage increase in the first year and increases of 21 cents to 93 cents in the second year.

In weekly terms, on the basis of the 40-hour week, the increases range from $20.40 to $49.20.

Union representative John Squire said the scale before the increase was between $1.25 and $2.02. Company manager G. G. Farncombe said the range was between $1.45 and $2.13.

Fined for Damage

A man who forced his way into the home of his separated wife was fined $50 for causing wilful damage today.

Robert Sims, 1055 Empress, pleaded guilty to causing approximately $10 damage to a door frame at 2637 Fernwood.

Weston Strike Of Salesmen May Be Ending

A contract settlement with McGavin Toastmaster is expected to clear the way for an end to the 47-day strike by bread salesmen against Weston Bakeries.

The salesmen went on strike March 25 seeking an extra $24 a week over two years. The company offered $13.

The strike affects 70 drivers in B.C. including 12 in Victoria. They are members of Local 189, International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Settlement at McGavin, where there was no strike, provided a wage increase of $15 a week plus a one per cent increase in commission which one source said was worth $3.

Previous pay rate was $115 plus commission.

FIRST TALKS

The first talks between Weston and the union since the strike began were arranged this week after the McGavin settlement, said a Teamster spokesman. They will be held Monday.

He said the union is prepared to settle with Weston on the same basis as McGavin. A Weston official said he has yet to read full details of the McGavin settlement.

Four Persons Hurt In Two-Car Crash

Four persons were injured in a collision at Regina and Wascana streets Thursday.

Damage to two cars totalled $1,000.

Police say Harry L. Sharplin, 76, of 4090 Atlas Place, was travelling west on Regina and Donald S. Hutchings, 19, of 4117 Glanford, was proceeding north on Wascana.

The two cars collided at the intersection, causing the Sharplin car to roll over on its side.

Mr. and Mrs. Sharplin and Hutchings were released after treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Nancy Hames, 18, of 85 Schofield, a passenger in Hutchings' car, was in good condition there this morning.

No charges have been laid.

Two Charged

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Bail was set at $3,000 for Cecil Bancroft, 38, and $5,000 for Daniel Joseph Steel, 24, when they appeared in magistrate's court Thursday on rape charges. Police said the charges involved an incident at a Prince George home Tuesday night.

'IT'S CHEEP' AT A COOL $9 MILLION

Some of the workmen on the Provincial Museum-Archives complex are calling it a "cheep, Cheep" job.

But it has nothing to do with another word of the same pronounciation. The imposing structure is costing $9,000,000.

"It's the birds," say workmen — more specifically, a house sparrow family.

They've dug their abode in a pocket of fire insulation in the ceiling of the cafeteria of the complex, and are keeping a wary eye on the activities of the constuction crew.

No one has seen any members of the younger set of the family because the nest is high and isolated. But the "cheep cheeps" can be heard.

Workmen say they've had the problem before, on other jobs and when they get in the way of progress the birds have to go.

The SPCA will be called in to gently evict them, although there's a possibility the family may be ready to leave before notice is served.

POLLUTION, WATER RESEARCH PROGRAMS

Pepin Denies Tory Charges

CALGARY (CP) — The Liberal government has been busy in pollution and water research, Jean-Luc Pepin, federal minister of energy, mines and resources, said Thursday.

The Liberals have spent $17,000,000 on research into pollution, have prepared an inland waterway plan and have studied irrigation problems in Saskatchewan, he told a press conference in refuting charges by Conservative Leader Stanfield that the government had failed to tackle the pollution problem.

Mr. Pepin said federal subsidies for the coal industry in Western and Eastern Canada are justified.

He said recently-concluded contracts with the Japanese steel industry will mean that federal financial help for Western Canada's coal industry will not be required after new mines go into production in 1970 and 1971.

But feeral help will still be required in Cape Breton to phase out coal production and substitute other industries.

The Liberal government has strong feelings on the fate of more than 6,500 Cape Breton coal miners, he said, and can not shug off its responsibility to help them.

In Calgary for a speech to the Petroleum Society of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy and to campaign for Liberal candidates in the June 25 federal election, Mr. Pepin said a new British American Oil Co. refinery at Point Tupper may be the forerunner of new industry for Cape Breton.

INFORMATION TAX

News by Telephone 'Costs' Reporters

QUEBEC (CP) — Aim of an "information tax" adopted by suburban Neufchatel this week is to eliminate the abuse of municipality services by reporters who simply telephone for information without attending municipal council meetings, an official said Thursday.

Charles Palardeau, secretary-treasurer of the municipality, said the tax will not apply to reporters who attend council meetings.

The tax, assessed on newspapers and radio stations, is 25 cents for every 100 words given in statements prepared in response to reporters telephoned questions.

Mr. Palardeau said information given by officials on the telephone will be put in writing and sent to the inquiring journalist's employer with the tax assessment.

He said reporters rarely attend council meetings. They preferred to phone city hall the following morning for information about what went on. As a result, they took up the time of employees who had other work to do.

Walk Raises $165,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—The second and biggest Mile for Millions walk here has raised $165,000 for the world's needy. Last year's march attracted 2,500 walkers and brought in $33,000. This year, an estimated 8,500 persons took part.

TAKE A TIP FROM ME . . .

TACOMA (AP)—Service station attendant William Cromartie said a customer bought $5 worth of gas and paid with a large bill. When given his change, he offered Cromartie a 25-cent tip. Cromartie declined, saying "No, that's okay."

Apparently it wasn't. The customer pulled a black derringer, pointed it at Cromartie and said "Take it." Cromartie took the quarter.

Warning Of Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Thomas J. Bell, president of Abitibi Paper Co. Ltd., warned Thursday there may be no alternative to a strike in eastern Canada's paper industry.

Mr. Bell told the company's annual meeting the situation "has reached the point where a very firm stand must be taken to prevent the continuation of labor costs rising faster than productivity."

It was reported last week that the industry and major unions taking part in new contract talks are going into conciliation following a lack of progress in preliminary talks.

More than 50,000 workers are involved. They are seeking a 30-cent-an-hour increase in a one-year contract or 60 cents in two years, plus fringe benefits.

Noting that the Canadian pulp and paper industry exports 76 per cent of its output, Mr. Bell said prices have to remain competitive internationally.

"Labor rates in our industry have increased since 1950 by 150 per cent while productivity has increased by less than half this rate," he said.

Chrysler Canada Sales Set Mark

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Chrysler Canada Ltd. has repported record sales during April.

Chrysler said April sales of 13,808 passenger cars across Canada reupresented an increase of 29.8 per cent over the same month a year ago and 958 deliveries more than the provious record for the month, set in 1965.

Deliveries for the first four months of 1968 amounted to 51,784, up 10.9 per cent over the 1965 figure.

Bralorne Output Of Gold Jumps

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bralorne Pioneer Mines Ltd. gold production during the first four months of 1968 reached 22,000 ounces, compared with 16,000 for the same period during 1967, shareholders were told this week.

W. E. Field, the company's mining manager, said at the annual meeting the four-month rate of production will not be continued for the current fiscal year, but production will be considerably higher than last year.

Vending Shares Hit High

Captain International, a Vancouver-based vending machine manufacturer, continued its recent market surge today during active pre-noon trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

A penny over-the-counter trader only a few months ago, Captain today traded at $8.50, a new high and gain of .75 from Thursday's close.

Vancouver brokers, who said much of the buying is coming from the U.S. and eastern Canada, suggested the issue's move from its recent $5 level has been based on rumors of new sales contracts.

In the mining section, Hudson Bay Mountain Silver remained the most active trader on a turnover of 202,700 shares. Late morning trades were at .77 a gain of .07.

Elsewhere Cumon was up .08 to .98, Lytton was .10 to $2.05, National Nickel .20 to $2.30 and New Indian .03 to .19.

Losers included Giant Mascot off .07 to $1.43, Lornex, down .20 to $5.40, and Westland, off .07 to $1.20.

AT TORONTO—In industrials, Lowney jumped 4½ to 56, Moore Corp. 1⅝ to 31⅝, Scott Lasalle 1½ to 22 and Ontario Store Fixture 1 to 18¾. Dupont dropped 1⅛ to 31¼.

Numac Oil gained 35 cents to 6.15 and International Helium 27 cents to 1.99. Central-Del Rio fell ⅝ to 15.

Northgate Exploration and Cassiar Asbestos were up ⅜ each to 14½ and 16.

Final volume was 3,732,000 shares compared with 3,633,000 Thursday.

AT NEW YORK the list of most-actively traded stocks was almost solidly in the plus column.

Brokers said investors apparently had lost their apprehension about reported Soviet troop movements near the Czech border because there had been no new developments.

The reports sent the market tumbling early Thursday afternoon, but a recovery got under way before the close.

Mail-order-retails, non-ferrous metals, chemicals and tobaccos were mostly higher. Oils were weak.

AT MONTREAL in the industrial list, junior issues posted the most significant price changes as Lait Leclerc A fell 2¼ to 7¼ and Lowney 2 to 50 on a turnover of 200 and 335 shares respectively.

Famous Players, Zellers and Oshawa A retreated ¾ each to 50¾, 13⅜ and 32¾, and Velcro ½ to 53½. CPR dropped ⅜ to 53⅛ and Brinco 25 cents to 3.90.

Canadian International Power climbed 1½ to 34¾, Kenting Aviation, a junior stock, 1¼ to 29⅞ and Scott-Lasalle 1 to 22.

In senior mines and oils, Inco and Husky edged up ¾ each to 124¼ and 25½ and B-A ⅝ to 40⅝.

AT LONDON the market turned down sharply today, with the market's recent nervousness finding fuller expression as a result of the attack on the government launched in The Daily Mirror.

Leading industrials showed many sharp falls, while second-rank issues were marked down by a matter of shillings. Selling was on a fairly large scale.

Gilts weakened in sympathy with sterling, and losses of ⅛ to ¼ were widespread.

Dollar stocks were mostly lower.

In Canadians Hudson's Bay Oil and Noranda were up a point but falls of ½ to 2 points were common.

Uranium Demand To Soar

VANCOUVER (CP) — Recent breakthroughs in generation of nuclear electrical power will bring an unprecedented demand for uranium during the next few years, says W. M. Gilchrist, president of Crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd.

He told the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy that $7,000,000,000 to $8,000,000,000 will be needed by 1980 to finance uranium production to meet the demand.

The most important development in nuclear power production recently has been the improved capability of generating plants, which are now able to produce electricity at a rate of four mills a kilowatt, he said.

When the uranium boom collapsed in 1959 it was expected that it would be 1970 before nuclear power could be produced at a rate lower than the four-mill barrier, but the barrier was shattered in 1963, said Mr. Gilchrist.

"Today, four companies in the U.S.—General Electric, Westinghouse, Combustion Engineering and Babcock-Wilcox—have orders for reactors totalling well over $7,000,000," said the executive.

He said it now is estimated there will be about 145,000 megawatts of nuclear power on transmission lines in the Western world in 1975, which will burn about 36,000 tons of U-308 annually.

"This is just about what the presently-known reserves of uranium in the West can poduce each year, and not for a very great length of time," said Mr. Gilchrist. "There is a good possibility that this figure for installed nuclear power will be exceeded by 1975."

He said development of uranium reserves is well under way in the U.S., but work in Canada and most other uranium-rich nations has just started.

Factors which make uranium a logical source of electrical production, said Mr. Gilchrist, are elimination of fuel transportation, flexibility of location, reduction of costs of up to 50 per cent and absence of atmospheric pollution.
